BY JOHN J. INGALLS.

John James Ingalls was born in Massachusetts in 1833 and was graduated from Williams College in 1855. He was admitted to the bar in 1857, and removed to Atchison, Kas., in 1858. He took an active interest in the exciting Kansas politics, and, besides serving as a delegate to the Wyandotte convention that framed the State constitution, he served as secretary to the territorial Council. In 1860 he was a State Senator. He edited the Atchison Champion for three years and served in the state militia. In 1873 he was elected to the United States senate, and then began his remarkably brilliant political career. After serving twenty years he was retired by the political revolution in his State. As an orator he held high rank. He frequently contributed to the leading magazines and reviews. He died about two years ago.

Master of human destinies am I.
Fame, love, and fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by
Hovel, and mart, and palace, soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury, and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore,
I answer not, and I return no more.

BOMB BY STATE IN BRIBERY CASE

Union Traction Officials Will Testify for the Prosecution in Trial Just Begun.

HELP SECURE EVIDENCE.

Counsel Gurley Will Tell That Attorney Simon Failed to Explain the Expense Account.

With a statement of its case that came as a body-blow to the defense, the State yesterday afternoon formally set under way the trial of the Union Traction company's alleged jury bribers.

Charges and details, unexpected and which struck the seven defendants like so many bombshells, were outlined by Assistant State's Attorney Barnes in his opening address to the twelve jurors who had been secured in the afternoon after more than nine days of wrangling.

The State's outline of its evidence was sensational in the extreme. As a result at least one of the defendants is expected to make a confession in open court. The Union Traction company's own officials will be the witnesses on whom the State will rely to prove its charges that the men on trial drew a "corruption fund" to buy up the juries in the Austin transfer cases.

Unexplained "Expense" Account.

It was charged that Cyrus S. Simon, trial lawyer for the traction corporation, who worked with Patrick H. O'Donnell and James T. Brady, drew $95 for "expenses." General Counsel W. W. Gurley called him to account for the money thus drawn. Simon couldn't explain the disposition of the money.

"We will show," said State's Attorney Deneen, "that Simon stated then that he gave all the money but $40 to James T. Brady."

Statement was made as to just how the members of the "pin brigade" jury received their $5 each which brought their verdict for the traction company. Simon himself, it was charged, paid $15 of the amount to Constable Walter C. Jones, who gathered the "fixed" jurymen.

"That was a corruption fund," asserted Mr. Barnes in his address to the jury, referring to the $95 drawn by Simon, "which was distributed by Simon with the cognisance of the other men in this case!"

Gurley to Be a Witness.

It is General Counsel W. W. Gurley who will tell on the witness stand of how Simon was called to explain the disposition of this sum and failed to do so. As a result it was asserted last night that the traction company will not shield Simon merely because he was an attaché of its law department nor seek to throw a cloak over O'Donnell, Brady, or the others in the case. In fact, Mr. Gurley has aided the prosecution in every way.

"If the company 'throws' Simon," said one of the latter's friends last night, "then Simon may tell all he knows in court."

On the other hand, it is charged that O'Donnell and Brady will throw the blame on Simon in the effort to get out from under themselves.

"Just keep your eyes on Simon," was the significant comment made by one of the prominent attorneys in the case last night.

O'Donnell & Brady Accused.

The State's outline of its case brought a further sensation.

Patrick H. O'Donnell, Public Administrator, and his law partner, James T. Brady, are charged with being as deep in the mire as "Bill" Gallagher, ex-convict and professional jury tamperer. Evidence, the State asserted, will be introduced to show that O'Donnell & Brady's law offices were the quarters in which "Bill" Gallagher solicited men to act on the transfer juries.

"There'll be money in it for you," Gallagher is quoted as saying, while according to the State, O'Donnell and Brady stood by and watched him tempt men for the "pin brigade" and the "fixed" juries.

Gallagher the Directing Force.

"The General of the forces, the marshal in the field, in gathering this fixed jury," declared Mr. Barnes, "was William J. Gallagher. He made O'Donnell & Brady's offices his headquarters. He had done this for a considerable time prior to this case."

"We will find," said Mr. Barnes, "that Patrick O'Donnell and James T. Brady were in this conspiracy the week preceding the day the first case was called for trial."

To prove all these claims the State asserts that it has many witnesses. It has found new recruits to give evidence, who will testify how they were tempted by Gallagher while O'Donnell and Brady looked on. This explains why John and Thomas Ashworth were added to the roster of witnesses last week.

Convict Held for Emergency.

Benjamin Ettleson, recently convicted of arson, may be called to tell what he knows of O'Donnell & Brady's offices and the men who have made their headquarters there. Detective Frank Tyrrell took him from the train during the afternoon just as Jailer Whitman was taking him to the penitentiary. When Ettleson, who recently was tried with Barney Graff, was asked where he had met the latter, he replied:

"I met him first in the jury bribing department of O'Donnell & Brady's law offices."

This resulted in detectives questioning Ettleson. He and his crowd had done "odd jobs" for the law firm, it was admitted, and they gave much important information as to Gallagher and others about the offices of the Public Administrator and his legal partner.

Defense Changes Tactics.

Mr. Barnes' address was scathing. When he had finished the defense hastened to change its tactics. The attorneys conferred and decided to make no opening addresses until the evidence of the State has been submitted. They plan to grasp at every loophole that offers in the examination of the State's witnesses.

Only one line of defense was set up by the defendants' attorneys when they cross-examined Assistants Corporation Counsel Fyffe and Goodwin. They sought to make the latter admit the city had little hope of winning the transfer suits. Their intent, as admitted, was to set up the claim that the bribing of the juries was not necessary to win the cases.

Barnes Presents His Case.

Assistant State's Attorney Barnes told the story of alleged conspiracy at length and of the fight between the city and the traction company in the former's effort to make the

CLAIMS BRIBE TO DEFAME

SENSATIONAL CHARGE IN THE BENHAM DIVORCE CASE.

Mrs. Edna Koch Testifies That She Received $635 from Mr. Benham's Lawyer, with an Assurance of $465 More if She Would Swear to Untruths—Attorney Thompson Combats the Statement—Court Will Decide the Suit This Afternoon.

The Benham divorce case came to a sensational close yesterday when Mrs. Edna Koch, 126 Twenty-first street, testified that she had been offered a bribe to defame the plaintiff, Mrs. Matilda Benham.

The attorneys for Mr. Benham, she declared, already had paid her $635, and had promised her $465 more if she would take the stand and swear to untruths concerning the woman who is suing for divorce.

According to Mrs. Koch, she was asked to testify that Mrs. Benham had been to her house "drunk and in the company of men."

After Attorney M. J. Thompson, representing Mr. Benham, had denied the charges made by Mrs. Koch, it was announced by Judge Brown that he would deliver a decision in the case at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Story of Alleged Bribe.

Mrs. Koch, who is a private detective, testified that when Attorney Thompson made his alleged offer she refused to comply. Then, she said, Thompson declared:

"I will brand you on the witness stand if you tell what you know and I will shoot you."

"I was employed by Attorneys Thompson & Latimer to get evidence in this case," said Mrs. Koch. "I was asked to testify that Mrs. Benham had been at my house at 126 Twenty-first street. I consented to look up some evidence and I did so, but I was unable to find anything against Mrs. Benham.

"Attorney Thompson told me in December, after I reported that I could not find anything against Mrs. Benham, that he wanted to get some Christmas money, and that if a statement could be produced he thought he could get $1,000 out of Benham. I told him that I would think over the matter of signing a certain statement and went home. I afterwards came back to his office and signed a statement, the contents of which I did not know. He told me that it would be destroyed soon afterwards.

Says She Received $635.

"Then Thompson told me he was hard up. I was paid $635 in all for what I did, and was promised $465 more as soon as I left the witness stand if I would testify that Mrs. Benham had been to my house drunk and in company with men.

"Harry Jessup, who has an office in Mr. Thompson's suite, came to my house and told me the amount I would get if I testified in the manner indicated. Mr. Jessup also read to me what they wanted me to testify to on the stand. I had a stenographer there who took down everything that was said regarding these questions.

"I found out that the statement that I had signed in Attorney Thompson's office had not been destroyed, as I had been promised, and I notified them that I would not go on the witness stand and testify as they wanted me to on April 3. I told Mr. Thompson that if he did not stop acting the way he was doing I would tell all that I knew."

Thompson Disputes Charge.

When Attorney Thompson went on the stand later in the day he told his side of the story.

"I met Mrs. Koch last fall," he said. "She told me she had a colored girl and a white porter who knew Mrs. Benham. She declared that she also knew Mrs. Benham, but was afraid to testify against her, as it would ruin her business. I told her that if she could find other persons who knew about Mrs. Benham and her actions that I would pay her for her trouble.

"She finally agreed to testify in the case for $800, $400 to be paid to her after she testified. She got angry afterwards and I did not feel like using her as a witness. I considered that she was not worthy of being placed on the witness stand.

"I wrote the original draft of the statement she refers to in order to test her and find out if we would be justified in paying her the amount she asked for. I consider this affair one of spleen because we did not pay her as she wanted us to."

Raymond S. Benham, the defendant, testified that Mrs. Koch stated in his presence that she knew "about Mrs. Benham" but was afraid it would ruin her business to testify.

More Rapid-Fire Questions.

Earlier in the session Mrs. Benham was subjected to another series of questions concerning her conduct.

"Did you ever tell any one that you were a high kicker?" asked Attorney Jenks.

"I did not," replied Mrs. Benham.

"Did you ever ask Dr. Shenick to take you out driving?"

"No, sir; I did not."

"Did you ever tell anybody that you had succeeded in getting Dr. Shenick to kiss you?"

"No."

"Did you ever tell Mrs. Siebert that a fortune teller had told you that you would get a divorce from Benham and would marry another man?"

"I told her nothing of the sort."

"Were you told in 1893 by a woman living on Garfield avenue to get out of her house because you staid out late at night?"

"No."

"Didn't you allow a man named Page to visit you before your former husband died in 1898?"

"I did no such thing."

"Didn't you tell Benham that Page was a forger and embezzler, and that he was in love with you?"

"No, I did not."

Saloon and a Bicycle Shop Invaded by Robbers, Who Escape with Cash and Jewelry—Police Are Notified.

During the heavy rain storm at 1 o'clock this morning three masked men perpetrated two daring store holdups. They secured over $70, two watches, and escaped.

The first place robbed was the saloon of H. Lenihan at Congress street and Spalding avenue. Lenihan was behind the bar talking to John Blake when the three masked men entered. He tried to reach his revolver, but was threatened with death unless he put up his hands.

Ordering their victims against the wall the robbers searched the two men, securing $50 and a watch from Lenihan and change and a watch from Blake. Then they backed away and fled.

A few minutes later the same three robbers entered F. McWater's bicycle shop at Spalding avenue and Jackson boulevard. McWaters was alone and was just closing his shop. He made no resistance and was robbed of $20.

The robberies were reported to the Warren Avenue Station, and detectives were sent out to seek the men.

MACHINIST SHOT AS STRIKE ENDS.

FRIENDS TAKE HIM AWAY

Assailant Arrested, and Says He Was Threatened by Crowd and Fired in Self-Defense.

Before word that the strike was over could be sent to the union pickets at the Allis-Chalmers plant last night another shooting affray was added to the long list of fights that have marked the bitter year's struggle between the company and its men.

The injured man, a union picket, was carried away by friends and the police have been unable to locate him. He was shot in the face and may be dangerously wounded.

The man who did the shooting, Alfred Rogerson, made no attempt to escape and was arrested with the revolver still in his hand. He declares he was attacked by four men and shot in self-defense.

Didn't Know of Settlement.

The shooting occurred at Washtenaw avenue and Twelfth street shortly after 6 o'clock. The strikers and officials of the Allis-Chalmers company had come to terms an hour before, but the pickets who have watched the big plant in Washtenaw avenue for months did not know the war was over.

Rogerson, who is employed in that portion of the plant known as the west machine shop, left the grounds by the Twelfth street gate in company with other employés and walked toward Washtenaw avenue.

Says He Was Threatened.

What happened thereafter is told in his statement to the police:

"I noticed three or four men watching me from across the street. I had seen them before and they had threatened that something would happen to me if I persisted in working.

"Tonight I could see they meant to intercept me, and thought they intended to assault me rather than give me any further warning. When I arrived at Washtenaw avenue they crossed and came toward me, and renewed their threats.

"I thought I should be compelled to defend myself and drew my revolver. They rushed toward me and I fired at the nearest one. I could see that the bullet took effect in the right side of his face. His companions seized him and hurried him away north on Washtenaw avenue."

Crowd Friendly to Rogerson.

Policeman Timothy Ray, detailed to watch the Allis-Chalmers plant, hurried to the corner, where he found Rogerson. There was a crowd of excited non-union men around, who spoke in approval of Rogerson's action. The policeman locked him up, but at midnight the name of the wounded picket had not been learned.

Rogerson has been in the employ of the Allis-Chalmers company twice. He resigned a year ago, after working there three years as a union man, and returned to work last October, a non-unionist. He is 29 years old, and lives at 639 West Adams street. Although bond was offered for his release last night, Lieutenant Dorman said he would not place any charge against the prisoner until he learned how seriously the picket was wounded.

Old Man Assaulted.

During the excitement following the shooting Robert Scott, 80 years old, was struck by some one in the crowd and rendered unconscious. The police do not know if he is an employé of the Allis-Chalmers company, a striker, or a spectator. Friends took the man in charge and carried him to the Garden City Hotel, Van Buren street and Plymouth court, where he lives.

Machinists' Strike Settled.

The last hitch between the International Association of Machinists and the Allis-Chalmers company was overcome during the afternoon and on Monday all who desire may go back to work. The company will recognize the union, but it will not discharge the men who are at work. These may join the union if they desire. The company also retains the right to employ whom it pleases, but will not refuse to allow the strike leaders to return to work, thus making no discrimination.

"It was not strictly a compromise," said Vice President H. W. Hoyt, "for the men accepted the company's terms. We are all glad the struggle is over, and will be careful that no more like it occur. Both sides are well satisfied."

Third Serious Assault.

Two other serious assaults, both ending fatally, have marked the Allis-Chalmers strike, in addition to nearly 100 attacks which only resulted in slight injuries. On Nov. 20, 1901, Andrew Burkhauser, a non-union employé, shot and killed Ferdinand Trapp, a union man, who, it is claimed, was trying to beat him up. On April 10 last Thomas W. Smith of Michigan City, Ind., was assaulted by two men supposed to be members of the union. Smith was taken to his rooms and from there to the County Hospital, where on April 12 he died.

Crowd Attacks Workmen.

Twenty-five workmen from the Consumers' Box company's factory, 25 East Ohio street, under the escort of two policemen, were stopped last night by a number of men who are said to be strikers formerly employed by the box company. Policemen Berwick and Stift attempted to disperse the crowd, which threatened violence to the men, but despite their efforts the crowd became greater and stones and sticks were thrown. A riot call sent to the East Chicago Avenue Station brought Lieutenant Miller and several policemen. The workmen were then allowed to proceed unmolested.

CHILLIEST MAN IS LOCKED UP.

While the Mercury Stands at 90 Degrees Edward Roberts Purloins a Heavy Winter Overcoat.

When the mercury was coquetting with the 90° mark yesterday, Edward Roberts, residence and antecedents unknown, stole a heavy winter overcoat which had been left on a seat in the Polk Street Station. A moment later a policeman grabbed him.

"I'll lock you up," said the agent of the law, "before you steal a steam radiator or a base burner."

At the Harrison Street Station Roberts wept copiously.

ROMANCE OF CHILD BRIDE

HUSBAND OF TWO WEEKS IS A SUPPOSED RELATIVE.

Strange Story Comes to Light When Nathaniel Bloom, Son of the Rabbi, Discovers That His Child-Wife Is a Second Cousin, Who Is Said to Have Been Stolen from Her Home in New York Twelve Years Ago — Father Comes On from the East.

A girl who is said to have been kidnaped twelve years ago discovered her identity yesterday and at the same time found herself to be the bride of her lost father's cousin.

The principals in the remarkable romance are Nathaniel Bloom of 714 West Sixty-first street and his wife Mary, 16 years old, to whom he was married only two weeks ago.

Nicholas Nathan of New York City arrived in Chicago yesterday and identified Mrs. Bloom as his daughter, who is said to have been stolen from his home in 1890, when she was 4 years old.

Loved as Wife and Relative.

At the Bloom residence, to which the girl wife had been welcomed by the young man's parents and sisters, there was much rejoicing last evening.

"There is no mistake," said Rabbi Mangal Bloom, who is the father of Nathaniel Bloom. "Although there is yet considerable to be done in the way of tracing the child from Nathan's home to where my son met her in Aurora, we are sure there is no mistake. We loved the girl as Nathaniel's wife, and we cannot love her more because she proves to be the child of my cousin and old friend, Nathan."

The young husband also said that the revelation as to his wife's identity was a source of joy to both.

Identified by Father.

Mr. Nathan came from New York as a result of correspondence between him and Rabbi Bloom, which was brought about by a peculiar chain of circumstances, and when he entered the flat in Sixty-first street early yesterday the girl was standing before him. Overcome by his emotions, Mr. Nathan sank into a chair, and looked at the girl long and searchingly.

"She looks so like my other daughter," he said brokenly. "She certainly is my lost child, Mary."

Both father and daughter broke into tears, but later came the calm questioning, which proved to those concerned that there could be no mistake.

Little time was lost in endeavoring to trace the girl since she was taken from the lawn of the Nathan residence in Hoboken, N. J., in August, 1890. There is little that the girl herself can tell. As far back as she can remember she has lived in Aurora, Ill., with a Mrs. Greene, whom she knew as her mother. Mrs. Greene died recently.

Early in the afternoon Mr. Nathan, Rabbi Bloom, and the child-wife went to the Central Police Station, and set on foot an investigation. Detectives were dispatched to Aurora at once, and Mr. Nathan and the girl followed.

Finding the Lost Girl.

Several months ago Nathaniel Bloom became manager of a carpet-house owned by Nicholas Drice in Aurora. Drice lived at the home of Mrs. Green, and his employés boarded there. The attention of young Bloom was first attracted to Mary by the fact that she appeared to be a Jewess.

Bloom questioned the girl, who knew little of her past. Her father, she said, had abandoned her mother when she was a baby.

Bloom proposed marriage to the girl and Mrs. Greene died after consenting to the match. Then another obstacle arose.

According to young Bloom, Drice claimed to be the guardian of the girl and refused his consent to the marriage. Bloom sought the aid of the courts, and is said to have secured the appointment of a friend as guardian. The guardian's consent was then secured and the marriage performed. Then Bloom brought his bride to his Chicago home.

Long Search for Child.

It is said that about the time Mr. Nathan's daughter was kidnaped a family named Greene, who lived in the neighborhood, disappeared. Later Greene was found, but he and his wife had separated.

For years the search was prosecuted, the father spending thousands of dollars in the quest. It was believed for a time that the child would be offered for ransom, as both the father and two of his brothers were wealthy. No attempt to secure ransom was made, however, and in the dozen years that followed hope of ever finding his daughter was abandoned by the father.

Case a Famous Mystery.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—The disappearance of little Mary Nathan from her home in Hoboken twelve years ago was one of the most mysterious cases the police of the metropolitan district ever worked upon.

After weeks of the most persistent investigation and the dragging of the meadows and other waters near Hoboken, the police came to the conclusion the girl had been drowned. The mother, Mrs. Mary Nathan, never believed this.

A clairvoyant told Mrs. Nathan her child had been kidnaped.

On Aug. 6, 1890, little Mary was playing on the stoop of her parents' residence at 20 Jefferson street, Hoboken. Her mother, Mrs. Mary Nathan, saw the child at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and fifteen minutes later she had disappeared as suddenly and mysteriously as if the earth had opened and swallowed her.

Mrs. Nathan always said that Mamie was not strong enough to walk to the meadows, the nearest portion of which was five blocks away from her home.

Child's Family Is Heartbroken.

The mother was confident, however, that the kidnaper must have been a neighbor, or else the little one would not have gone with her. Mrs. Greene lived in Hoboken at that time.

Heartbroken over the loss, the Nathans moved away from Hoboken. They were living at 72 McKibben street, Brooklyn, in 1895, when, for a few hours one day, it was believed that the missing child had been found.

Since that time no trace of the girl has been found in the East.

YALE EXAM. QUESTIONS STOLEN

Members of Senior Class Succeed in Buying Copies of Tests Prepared for European History Division.

New Haven, Conn., June 12.—[Special.]—For the third time within the last few years an examination paper prepared for final June examinations at Yale has gotten into the hands of the students in time to give them a chance to prepare on the questions before the test.

The present instance was in the division of European history conducted by Professor A. M. Wheeler. A member of the senior class of the academic department got possession of the paper, paying, it is claimed, $10 for it.

He sold copies of it to ten classmates for $1 each, and they retailed it out to others at 50 cents a copy. In this way the entire class was supplied with copies.

GEN. WOOD'S ACT UPHELD BY ROOT

Secretary of War Issues a Statement Regarding the Giving of Money to F. B. Thurber.

INDORSED BY PRESIDENT.

It Was the Duty of the Military Governor to Help the Island Along as Much as Possible.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—Secretary Root tonight gave out a semi-official statement regarding the payment by General Wood to F. B. Thurber of several thousand dollars for the distribution of Cuban reciprocity literature, in which he says General Wood's action was approved by the President and the War department.

There was also a conference at the White House tonight between President Roosevelt and Senators Platt of Connecticut and Spooner, during which this subject was discussed. It is intimated the President will tomorrow make public an official statement dealing with this matter after the Cabinet meeting.

Expenditures Held Proper.

Secretary Root in his semi-official statement explained that General Wood had complete authority to make the expenditure from the Cuban revenues, and that in his judgment the expenditures were perfectly proper. It was to the interest of Cuba to have the literature circulated, and Thurber and the Export association had merely acted as distributing agents in the United States.

Relations with Export Association.

As understood by the War department officials the Export association is employed by a number of persons or organizations to father their interests and the interests of the members of the association. The association claimed to have facilities for distributing the documents showing the condition of Cuba and the necessity for a reduction of the tariff to the people of the United States.

It was for that reason that General Wood used the Export association as a distributing agency. He had no knowledge that the association was also employed by Mr. Havemeyer, and as far as the officials here know they say they have no knowledge that Mr. Thurber was paid by Mr. Havemeyer for the same work for which he was paid by General Wood.

Not Employed as Lobbyist.

With reference to the claim that General Wood had used Cuban funds to influence legislation in the United States, it is denied that Mr. Thurber was employed in any sense as a lobbyist or to appear before Congress or to endeavor to directly influence Congress. The distribution of the reciprocity circulars was general and was intended to inform the people of this country as to the real situation in Cuba.

Authority to Use Money.

As to the authority to use Cuban money for this purpose, it is pointed out that the President of the United States was the appropriating power of Cuba. He had the same authority to appropriate the money of Cuba as a Legislature of Cuba or as the United States Congress would have had had it desired to exercise that authority.

Congress recognized the authority of the President to exercise all the powers of government in Cuba—make laws and appropriate moneys—when it adopted the Foraker amendment prohibiting the granting of any franchises in the island.

Powers of General Wood.

General Wood had, as Military Governor, made laws for the island, had appropriated money for the support of the schools, for the construction of public works, for the Cuban exhibit at the Paris exposition, for the support of General Gomez, and for other purposes. It was under this same authority that, in the interest of Cuba, he had used Cuban funds to have printed several thousand circulars showing the condition of the island and the necessity for a reduction of the American tariff on sugar.

Wisdom of the Action.

It is admitted by the officials that there may be a difference of opinion as to the wisdom of using the funds of Cuba for that purpose, but in the belief of the President and Secretary of War, it was a wise expenditure and fully justified by the situation in the island, which demanded that something be done in the interest of the sugar planters.

Principle Involved.

As to the principle involved of an American officer endeavoring to influence legislation which is declared to be against the interests of a large class of American people, it is argued that the President may as well be criticised for urging in his annual message legislation which, it is claimed, is injurious to the beet sugar industries in this country, or the Secretary of War criticised for recommending in his annual report that the tariff be reduced, as to find fault with General Wood for endeavoring to influence legislation by informing the people of the United States of the necessities of the situation.

Bound to Help Cuba.

General Wood as Military Governor of Cuba, it is claimed, was in duty bound to conscientiously do all he could for the interests of Cuba. He represented the only government in Cuba, and as the governing power of the island should administer his office for the benefit of Cuba.

This is the view taken by the Secretary of War, who believes General Wood did not exceed his authority in urging upon the United States the importance of granting a reduction in the tariff on sugar to Cuba when the condition of the island demanded such a course.

To Take Up Cuban Bill Next Week.

It was decided today that the Cuban reciprocity bill should be reported to the Senate next Tuesday and be taken up for consideration immediately after the vote on the Nicaragua Canal measure, which has been fixed for next Thursday. The Cuban question will be the regular business of the Senate until it is disposed of.

The bill reported will be substantially the Spooner compromise, which is for reciprocity on the basis of a reduction of 20 per cent without attacking the differential protection on refined sugar and without requiring Cuba to pass labor or immigration laws, but specifically authorizing the President to abandon the reciprocity whenever he is satisfied that the benefit is going to the sugar trust or to the tobacco trust, rather than to the Cuban planters themselves.

It is now known that there is a clear majority of the Senate favorable to this proposition and not more than four or five Republicans, it is understood, will stand out in opposition to the administration.

Talk with General Wood.

West Point, N. Y., June 12.—[Special.]—General Leonard Wood, when told this morning that the beet sugar men were trying to make capital out of the fact that he, as Governor General of Cuba, had paid out $2,880 of the War department funds to distribute literature in favor of reciprocity with Cuba, said:

"Why, we spent a lot of money down there for that purpose—I should say three times $2,880. I authorized the expenditure for the purpose of presenting the case of Cuba and her economic needs to the American people in order that justice might be done her. I considered myself as much as does Mr. Palma today in honor bound to defend the interests of the island. I should have betrayed the trust and failed properly to have used the authority I had as military Governor of the island had I not used every proper effort to obtain for Cuba those commercial relations on which her stability and prosperity as a nation depend.

Thurber Simply an Agent.

"Mr. Thurber was simply a distributing agent through the mailing lists of the Export association, which I used as I would have used a directory, to distribute such matter as I considered suitable to convey to the people of the United States a correct understanding of the needs of Cuba. The economic life of Cuba was at stake. People here seem to forget that, as Governor of Cuba, I represented the Cubans and not the folks of Nebraska or some other community. Here was this powerful Oxnard lobby working day and night to misrepresent conditions. It was my duty to counteract that influence.

"The money was expended to pay for the distribution of that part of the President's message dealing with reciprocity, and of articles in favor of reciprocity from the leading magazines and newspapers."

Secretary of War Root, who was also at West Point today attending the centennial services of the military academy, declined to say anything about General Wood's expenditures.

Havemeyer Talks on Sugar Fight.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—H. O. Havemeyer, President of the American Sugar refining company, made a few comments today on the testimony given by F. B. Thurber before the United States Senate Subcommittee on Relations with Cuba on Wednesday.

"So far as Mr. Thurber's testimony is concerned," he said, "there is nothing new in it, as it is in the main a repetition of what Mr. Donner, the treasurer of this company, had previously testified. We gave Mr. Thurber money to aid in the distribution of literature containing the facts in the matter. We have nothing to do with politics. The contribution for a similar purpose by General Wood I know nothing about."

Mr. Havemeyer referred to a story which has been current in Wall street to the effect that the beet sugar people had spent much money in their campaign. "I hear," he said, "that the beet sugar crowd gave $20,000 for some kind of a fund. I suppose it would take subpœnas and an investigating committee to get them to explain this payment."

Says Cuban Money Was Used.

Francis B. Thurber, in reply to criticisms brought out by his testimony before the Senate committee in regard to the use of funds furnished by the military government of Cuba in aid of reciprocity, said today:

"It was Cuban money, and not that of the United States. The beet sugar people are attempting to make political capital out of what was, in my opinion, a legitimate and proper use of Cuban money. Everything was done openly, and no fact was hidden. When called to Washington to testify before the committee I told the plain truth. The committee of Cuban business-men recommended the expenditure out of money paid by Cubans in import taxes. General Wood acted within his authority in disposing of these funds, or a portion of them, in the best interests of the island.

"Mr. Havemeyer's contribution came about in this way. I was asked last winter if our organization was not working in the interest of the sugar trust. I replied that it was not, but the question set me thinking that perhaps we were working on similar lines. I then went to Mr. Havemeyer and asked for a contribution. He gave me $2,500. This, with the small amount from the Cuban import taxes, has carried on the work of distributing literature, giving the people of the United States the truth about Cuba's condition and requirements."

TRAINS MEET ON A CURVE: FOUR KILLED, 15 INJURED.

Passengers on Fast Mail on Tennessee Railroad See Approaching Accommodation, but Have No Time to Escape.

Chattanooga, Tenn., June 12.—Three men were killed and fifteen injured, two of them fatally, in a collision between the fast mail train from Nashville and an accommodation train on the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, this afternoon, between Hooker and Summit, twelve miles from this city.

L. A. Rankin, fireman of the accommodation train; James Bernard, fireman of the fast mail; and Webb, the express messenger on the fast mail, and George Rollins, engineer of the accommodation train, was killed.

George Rollins, engineer of the accommodation train, was fatally injured, his legs being crushed.

The passengers escaped with a shaking up and a few bruises.

The two trains met on a curve and the passengers on the mail train could see from their windows the approaching of the accommodation train. They supposed, however, that it would simply pass by them, as there is a switch at that point, and not until the crash occurred were they aware of their danger.

The mail train was behind time, and the wreck, it is said, was due to the fact that one of the engineers overlooked his orders.

PROBATE CLERK REDDICK ILL.

Suffering with Typhoid Fever and Physicians Prohibit Visitors Calling on Him.

Probate Court Clerk James Reddick is seriously ill at his residence, 1676 Humboldt boulevard, with typhoid fever. He suffered a relapse yesterday, and the attending physician gave orders that no visitors be permitted to see him. Mr. Reddick is one of the Republican leaders and lives in the Twenty-eighth Ward. He was nominated for County Clerk by the recent Republican county convention.

YE FASHION CORNER

Ready-to-make-up linen comes now tucked and embroidered, as well as hand-embroidered only.

Printed pongees show attractive combinations of color, and one is continually impressed with the beauty of the shades in the plain colored pongees.

Shirt waists can be made from genuine Oriental garments, and it is a revelation to see materials of other colors blend with them. Oddly embroidered things which have a dark green or maroon foundation will blend charmingly with a plain dark blue, and it is necessary frequently to use something with the embroideries to build up the neck and sleeves of garments not intended for this Western civilization.

ORINOCO CLOSED BY VENEZUELA.

State Department Hears Castro Government Declared Blockade of River.

MAY SEND BATTLESHIPS.

Stream Regarded as an Open One and Complications Are Likely to Ensue.

WASHINGTON BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Washington, D. C., June 12.

Venezuela has declared a blockade of the Orinoco River. Private advices to this effect received by a New York commercial house doing business in Venezuela were transmitted this afternoon to Third Assistant Secretary of State Peirce and will be communicated by him to Secretary Hay tomorrow. It is expected that Mr. Hay will at once communicate with Minister Bowen at Caracas and request him to inform the department concerning the situation generally in Venezuela, and particularly with reference to the Orinoco.

Venezuela Declares Orinoco Blockaded.

The information is to the effect that General Matos, the revolutionary chief, has driven the Governor of one of the States bordering on the river from his capital, and the fugitive, with such troops as he could gather, has established himself in the port of Ciudad Bolivar, on the banks of the stream.

The effect of the establishment of a blockade of the Orinoco may be that the United States will send a warship to protect American interests. Furthermore, a protest may be made at the maintenance of the blockade as Ciudad Bolivar is a port open to foreign commerce and the river penetrates not only Venezuela but Brazil as well. The position of the government with respect to the navigation of the Orinoco River is shown by this official memorandum prepared by the Navy department:

"The Navy department understands the status of the Orinoco River in regard to navigation to be in all respects similar to that of the Mississippi River. Foreign war vessels pass freely up the Mississippi River without previous notice to this government. Our war vessels have done the same in the Orinoco River."

So in case the administration should decide to send a man-of-war to Venezuela the Permission of President Castro for it to enter the Orinoco River will not be asked. This government cannot of course force Venezuela to open any of its ports to foreign commerce, but it will insist that no action shall be taken which may be injurious to American interests. Should it be decided to order a vessel to Venezuelan waters either the Cincinnati or Topeka, both of which are in the neighborhood of Caracas, will be sent.

Captain Clark, who commanded the Oregon during its famous trip around Cape Horn and during the progress of the battle of Santiago, will be rewarded by being advanced to the grade of Rear Admiral if the bill introduced today by Representative Foss becomes a law. This authorizes the President to nominate Captain Clark to be a Rear Admiral of the senior grade on the active list, and the gallant commander will be carried on the list as an additional member of that grade.

Capt. Clark May Be Made Rear Admiral.

There has never been any question about the excellent work performed by Captain Clark, his ship, and crew, and every one would like to see this modest and gallant man given some recognition for his services. Inasmuch as the proposed promotion meets with so much favor, it would not be surprising if the bill should become a law at this session, notwithstanding the near approach of adjournment. There is also talk of adding the name of Captain Cook of the Brooklyn to the promotion bill.

Senator Mason desires that all indigent soldiers of the G. A. R. be furnished with funds to attend the Grand Army encampment to be held in this city in October. He introduced a resolution today which authorizes the Committee on Appropriations to communicate with the Secretary of War and the national commander of the G. A. R. with a view of appropriating a reasonable sum for the transportation and entertainment of poor soldiers.

Mason Wants to Bring Veterans to Encampment.

It is declared in the resolution that the rank and file of the association is composed entirely of honorably discharged soldiers and their ranks are fast thinning out by reason of death. For many of these soldiers the next encampment will be their last. It further declares that many thousands of brave men who fought for the union and marched in the grand review in 1865 have never since seen the capital of their country, by reason of their financial or physical inability.

It is also desirable, continues the resolution, that the approaching encampment shall be the largest and most successful ever held and the people throughout the United States desire to take part in it. It declares further that every American citizen desires that every honorably discharged union soldier shall have an opportunity to visit the capital, and the resolution provides for a conference of the Secretary of War and the national commander with the Appropriations committee for the purpose named.

Secretary Shaw today transmitted to Congress a communication in which he recommended an appropriation of $4,000 for rental for temporary quarters for the postoffice at Springfield, Ill., and the necessary expense incidental to removal. Congress has authorized an appropriation of $150,000 to be used in extending and improving the postoffice at Springfield. In his communication the Secretary said:

"I have the honor to state that it will be necessary before the changes can be made to provide temporary quarters for the officials now occupying the postoffice building at Springfield. I recommend that the matter be brought to the attention of the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations with the request that an appropriation of $4,000 be made for the rent of temporary quarters."

Several protests have been received by Senators from army officers, who have broken the rule of the President not to interfere with matters before Congress. These protests are not official in the sense that they will go on the files and betray their authors. They give reasons why the Senate should refuse to confirm the nomination of Colonel William H. Carter.

Army Officers Protest Carter's Advancement.

Some fifty Colonels, who are senior to Carter, have been jumped by him and naturally feel that they have not been treated fairly by the War department, especially as Carter saw no service in the field during his career in the army and his promotion prevents many Colonels from reaching the grade of Brigadier General, which has been held out to them as a reward for their services in the presence of the enemy.

When the information of Carter's advancement reaches the Philippines there will be a good deal of discontent among the officers who have served much longer than he. There are evidences that Colonel Carter's nomination will meet with opposition in the Senate on account of the representations which have been effectively made by the adversely affected army officers.

It is the intention of Secretary Root to assign Colonel Carter, after he is confirmed as a Brigadier General, to duty in conjunction with the army war college, in which work he has taken a great interest, where General S. B. M. Young is President of the institution.

STRIKERS TRY TO KILL.

MINERS FIRE AT SUPERINTENDENT FROM AMBUSH.

Crowd Lays in Wait and Riddles Engine Carrying Official and Clerk with Bullets, but Fails to Hit Them—Operators Predict Bituminous Workers Will Be Called Out—Cases of Violence Reported from Several Places in Pennsylvania.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 12.—[Special.]—A well planned attempt was made last night to assassinate one of the Lehigh Coal company's division superintendents, Thomas Thomas, an office clerk, and the crew of a locomotive.

As the superintendent and a clerk were on their way home on a special engine they were met with a fusillade fired with rifles and shotguns from a patch of woods a short distance from the William A. colliery. The engineer pulled the throttle wide open and threw himself on the floor of the cab. The others took shelter at the same time on the floor of the tender and cab. The engine was soon out of range. None of those on board was hit, although the tender, cab, and sides of the engine were riddled with bullets and buckshot. Between forty and fifty bullet holes and indentations were found on the sides of the engine and tender.

Fail to Find Guilty Persons.

The Sheriff of Lackawanna and some of the Mine Workers' union officials went to the scene of the shooting today to try to find out who the guilty persons are. They learned nothing.

The assassins were divided into two parties, one in position behind a culm bank and the others along the track in the woods. Both parties fired volleys and then a scattering fusillade as the engine passed.

District President Nichols of the Mine Workers' union went to Duryea tonight to have a meeting with the strike leaders there to discuss the attempt to assassinate Mr. Thomas, and to endeavor to prevent other outbreaks of violence. There was today in Duryea a development of the "marching" mania. The demonstration today took the form of a "scab" funeral, in which a bier bearing an effigy was carried around amid hootings and jeerings.

The Susquehanna Coal company suffered a heavy loss today when all of its engineers with the exception of two quit work. The two men at work are employed at the pumps which pump the water into the town reservoir.

Resume Pumping at Nanticoke.

At Nanticoke today the work of pumping out the mines was begun by the Susquehanna Coal company. The imported non-union men worked under the armed guard of the fortified colliery, and there was no disturbance.

The strike has brought about the permanent abandonment of three mines which gave employment to 1,193 men. These are the Richardson and Phœnix Park mines, at Pottsville, and the East mine, at Ashland. These are deep, and have been worked for many years. They have now filled with water, and it would cost so much to pump them out that it is thought better to abandon them altogether. The mining villages about them will be abandoned.

Expect General Strike Order.

It is believed that the next move will be the calling out of the bituminous men all over the country in order to force the anthracite operators to terms. The call for a special national convention of all mine workers in the United States is believed to be the next big move by the mine workers. It is asserted that President Mitchell has now the request of the five districts necessary for the call, but he declines to discuss this feature.

Mitchell Talks of Strike.

President Mitchell, talking of the strike this evening, said:

"Something will soon be done, although it would not be policy for me to state what our next move will be. You may depend upon it that the anthracite men will win their strike. Should the anthracite men be defeated it would be bad for the bituminous men, and all realize that fact."

"At present there are 28,500 mine workers on strike in the West Virginia fields. My reports from Virginia, where there are 36,000 mine workers employed, are incomplete. I think we will win that strike, too. The suspension in West Virginia will cut off a large amount of soft coal that is shipped to the Atlantic seaboard, but there is no connection between the anthracite strike here and the bituminous suspension there.

"I have always said that the bituminous miners can only be called out by a national convention of the United Mine Workers of America."

Strikers Try to Lynch Man.

Scranton, Pa., June 12.—[Special.]—There was a desperate attempt at Little England, this county, this morning to lynch John Flanagan, an engineer who has continued at work at the No. 1 colliery of the Erie company at Duryea. This morning while Flanagan was on his way home from work a crowd composed mostly of foreigners stopped him and again requested him to quit work. He refused, when they set upon him and gave him a beating. A rope was secured and placed about his neck.

Flanagan, with the rope around his neck, managed to fight his way to the house of a friend. All the doors were then locked and a man hurried away to summon the police. The crowd surrounded the house and threatened to beat in the doors. They scattered on the arrival of a squad of police in a patrol wagon.

Eight Men Beaten by Strikers.

Shamokin, Pa., June 12.—[Special.]—While eight non-union men were on their way to work at the Union company's Richards colliery this morning they were confronted by a crowd of strikers. One of them carried a shotgun, and, aiming it at the non-union men, he snapped the trigger, but the cartridge failed to explode. The eight men were beaten, after which their assailants disappeared.

The Bricklayers and Masons' union today decided its members should do no brick or masonry work for any person taking the place of a coal striker.

Order Strikers to Vacate Houses.

Hazleton, Pa., June 12.—[Special.]—The strikers at Oneida have been notified by Coxe Bros. & Co. to vacate their houses under pain of eviction. District President Duffy has announced that the United Mine Workers will engage counsel to contest the evictions. All the deputies and special officers engaged about the Drifton collieries have been dismissed by order of Mrs. C. B. Coxe.

Fairmount Strike Leaders Tried.

Fairmount, W. Va., June 12.—The trial of the coal strike leaders was the event of the day in the Fairmount region, and decision was withheld until tomorrow. The organizers gave bond. United States marshals are serving the remaining leaders still in camp and their followers at Monongah with injunction papers.

TO FORM TELEGRAPHERS' UNION

Commercial Operators Will Be Organized Next Sunday by American Federation of Labor.

The commercial telegraphers of Chicago are to be organized by the American Federation of Labor at a meeting next Sunday at 75 East Randolph street. The meeting is an open one, and officials of the different telegraph companies have been invited to attend.

Several attempts have been made in the last fifteen years to unionize this branch of the telegraph profession, but as the organizations were made secret affairs it was impossible to get any great number of the men to become members.

The organization is not being formed as a menace to the telegraph companies, its backers say, but is an effort in the direction of having proper representatives to meet the officials of the companies and arbitrate any differences that may arise between the employé and employer. One of the big commercial companies has already signified its willingness for their telegraphers to go ahead and form the organization.

In Chicago over 1,400 operators are employed in commercial telegraphy. Out of the entire number fully 600 have expressed themselves as in favor of the movement.

FIRE INTO A MOB AND WOUND BOY.

Pawtucket, R. I., Deputies Shoot When Soldiers Fail to Prevent Violence.

MORE TROOPS CALLED OUT

Crowd Tries to Take Man Charged with Shooting and Fight Ensues.

Pawtucket, R. I., June 12.—[Special.]—State troops, sent here to suppress rioters among the strikers and strike sympathisers who are fighting the United Traction company, failed to preserve order, and their laxity in dealing with mobs that were stoning street cars encouraged the rioters to greater violence. While the soldiers were contenting themselves with escorting cars, mobs attacked the cars, and the deputies inside fired, fatally wounding one boy, Vernon Peterson, aged 14 years.

After deputies had twice fired upon the crowds that were pressing around them, the soldiers took more stringent measures, cleared the streets, and tonight order prevails.

Calls Out More Troops.

The situation tonight was so alarming that Brigadier General Tanner determined to have all the soldiers available. After consultation with Governor Kimball it was decided to ask for all the available militia, and additional companies were called out. At 8 o'clock tonight two companies of the Naval Reserves and the machine gun battery from Providence were added to the eight companies of infantry and two of cavalry already here.

On arrival of these commands there were 730 men and sixty officers on duty. Ball cartridges were served out, each private carrying forty rounds and each officer fifty rounds of revolver ammunition. The city has not been placed under martial law.

In the presence of 1,000 persons and the militia this evening Adjutant General Sackett read the riot act.

The situation reached a crisis last night. The city officials refused to increase the police force to suppress disorder here and in Providence, and, at the appeal of the Sheriff, Governor Kimball sent six companies of infantry and two troops of cavalry into Pawtucket to protect property.

The action of the Governor followed last night's serious disturbance. Then a detachment of sixteen deputy Sheriffs were attacked by a mob that had held up and wrecked a street car. The deputies were stoned and a number of persons injured.

Governor Kimball, when he heard of this, called upon the Adjutant General for militia.

Crowds Attack Cars.

The presence of the militia did not appear to have much effect on the Pawtucket people early in the day, but the quiet was broken soon. The scene of disorder was at the junction of East and Pawtucket avenues, where there are three saloons. A crowd of 300 or 400 roughs gathered there about noon. A car came along containing a dozen deputy Sheriffs and a few passengers. A squad of cavalry preceded the car. Three men rode on each side and another squad brought up the rear. The car was imposingly guarded, but nevertheless some one threw a stone, and this was immediately followed by a shower of missiles, the car windows were smashed, and some of the deputies were hit. The deputies fired over the crowd, but the cavalrymen made no attempt to disperse the mob, and simply marched on with the car. The officer commanding said his orders were simply to escort the car, and this he did, paying no attention to what the crowds on the sidewalk were doing.

The incident seemed to awaken the disturbing element. Chief of Police Rice advised the people to clear the streets and avoid possibility of a conflict, but the crowds were disposed to be insolent.

Deputies Fire and Wound Boy.

The mob, emboldened by the passive attitude of the soldiers, got another supply of stones and waited for the car to return.

The arrival of the car was the signal for another fusillade, and this time several of the deputies fired into the crowd. One bullet struck the boy Peterson in the neck.

Try to Lynch Prisoners.

William J. Welsh, a Deputy Sheriff, accused of shooting the Peterson boy, was arrested. He and the arresting officers were roughly handled and were followed to the door of the station by a mob that stoned the officers and made great efforts to get the prisoner from them. Loud threats of lynching were made. Welsh was given a hearing and pleaded not guilty, and was held.

During the excitement a man 76 years old, residing in Providence, jumped from the car in fright, and, falling, broke his right leg. A citizen was also roughly handled by the mob, who accused him of being a "spotter." He was choked almost into insensibility in the presence of three militiamen and a policeman. He appealed to them for protection, but they said they could not help him. The excitement incident to the shooting of the boy detracted attention from this man, and he made his escape.

Governor Orders Sterner Treatment.

Governor Kimball, hearing about the passive attitude of the militia, issued more stringent orders, and later in the day the crowds were kept on the move. Car service in Pawtucket was almost entirely suspended. Owing to the excitement here the Providence police have taken renewed precautions against trouble in that city.

The police of Pawtucket, following the example of Mayor Fitzgerald, are in sympathy with the strikers, and will make no move to suppress disorder.

SOUTHERN GIRL REFUSES TO SING NORTHERN SONG.

"Marching Through Georgia," When Announced in a Louisville School, Causes Rebellion on Part of Student.

Louisville, Ky., June 12.—[Special.]—Laura Talbott Galt, 13 years old and a member of the eighth grade of the Eighth Ward school, has created a sensation by her action in refusing to join the class in the singing of "Marching Through Georgia" and by writing a defense of the action of Admiral Semmes in escaping in a yacht from the Alabama after he had surrendered that ship to the Kearsarge.

When the song was announced in the classroom Miss Galt not only refused to sing the song, but put her fingers in her ears that she might not hear the others sing it. Mrs. Laura Talbott Ross, the girl's grandmother, is a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Albert Sidney Johnston Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy. She said this evening:

"I visited the school today and expressed to Professor Taylor and Superintendent Mark my mortification over the whole incident. I told Professor Mark the treatment of the child was uncalled for. If she is not recommended for the high school I will take the whole matter to the School board."

Miss Allen, the teacher, said: "We are studying civil war history, and when any national or Southern air comes up that the children want to sing I let them sing it. When Miss Galt not only refused to sing, but put her fingers in her ears, I reprimanded her privately at recess and the next morning received a note from her grandmother, who is an unreconstructed rebel. I paid no attention to the note."

PLAN TO KNOCK OUT STEAM

HUGE SYNDICATE WILL CONVERT RAILWAYS TO ELECTRICITY.

W. C. Whitney and Other Americans Join with Largest Electrical Concern in Europe, Buy Big Massachusetts Plant, and Prepare to Furnish Power for All Lines—Will Begin with Lines Entering Big Eastern Cities.

New York, June 12.—[Special.]—An international combine, planning to convert the railroads of America into electric roads, is is being formed. In obtaining control of the great plant of the Stanley Electric Manufacturing company at Pittsfield, Mass., William C. Whitney and his associates were making the first move in the building up of this great electrical business.

It was ascertained today that the plant was to be increased and extended with the aid of Ganz & Co., the biggest electrical concern in Europe, and will be the central plant of the huge company.

G. Leve, a representative of Ganz & Co., left this city this morning in company with Dr. F. A. C. Perrine, President of the Stanley Electric Manufacturing company, and several engineers, and went to Pittsfield to make an inspection of the plant.

Working Out Details of Plan.

The financial details of the plans by which Ganz & Co. are to join hands with the Whitney syndicate in the establishment of a branch of the company in this country for the development of electrical railroads were not disclosed, but a representative of the syndicate said they had been arranged, and that Mr. Whitney, Thomas F. Ryan, Thomas Dolan, William L. Elkins, and P. A. B. Widener, who compose the syndicate, were looking ahead to the work of converting steam railroads into electrical railroads when they made the deal for the control of the plant at Pittsfield and for an enormous extension of its facilities.

The syndicate does not expect the displacement of steam by electricity on the railroads of America is to be begun immediately or that it will affect many of the railroads for a year or two. For the immediate future the increased plant at Pittsfield is to supply the demands of the street railways in this city, Philadelphia, northern New Jersey, and in Connecticut for electrical supplies. These demands have been increasing tremendously in recent years, while horse car and cable lines have been transformed into electrical lines.

It was said today that the companies controlling the lines have been furnishing 37 per cent of the business of the electrical companies in this country.

Begin Conversion in East.

The conversion of steam roads into electrical roads is expected to begin first along the Atlantic seaboards, particularly where the railway lines enter the big cities. The Pennsylvania railroad will have to haul its trains by electricity through the tunnels that are to be constructed under the North River and under Manhattan Island and the East River. The New York Central is expected to employ electrical locomotives for its traffic in the Park avenue tunnel before long.

Wherever there is a congestion of traffic on the steam roads in the East it is believed there will be a displacement of the puffing locomotive by the smokeless electrical engines. Having made a beginning, the railways of the East are expected to extend the use of electricity along their lines.

Railways Encourage Syndicate.

Mr. Whitney and his associates have not been making their plans in the dark. They have been in communication with railway managers and have learned that railways in the East are ready to spend $25,000,000 for the displacement of steam by electricity. That enormous sum would not be expended by the railroad companies unless there was reason to believe that the investment would pay.

The syndicate and the railway managers have been informed by their engineers that the superiority of electrical engines over steam locomotives has been proved, and that Ganz & Co. can furnish an electrical equipment that makes a saving of 15 per cent in the operating expenses of a railroad.

When the work of converting steam railroads into electrical railroads is begun in this country by the Whitney syndicate, with the aid of Ganz & Co., the plant at Pittsfield will supply the electrical motors for the engines and cars.

MORGAN URGES CANAL BILL.

Alabama Senator Discusses Diplomatic Phases of Question—Fairbanks Offers Amendment.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Mr. Morgan of Alabama occupied the floor of the Senate for three hours and a half today discussing particularly the diplomatic phases of the canal question. From this point he was diverted by an amendment introduced by Mr. Fairbanks of Indiana, providing for the issue of bonds for the construction of the canal. Mr. Morgan vigorously attacked the amendment, maintaining the expense of the canal's taxation should be paid from the Treasury's current receipts.

Incidentally Mr. Morgan again opposed the Panama route and assailed the effort of the new Panama company to dispose of the concessions it held from the old company. He declared there never was a "more mistaken piece of legislation" than the Spooner amendment and referred to it as having been "offered in the name of the Senator from Wisconsin."

Mr. Spooner warmly resented the intimation that he was not the author of the amendment and declared that he not only was its author but that he had devised it in every part. With certain amendments, he proposed to insist upon its adoption.

Fairbanks Offers an Amendment.

Mr. Fairbanks offered an amendment to the Spooner amendment authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to borrow from time to time $130,000,000 for the construction of the canal, bonds to be issued for the amount borrowed, to bear interest at 2 per cent payable in gold, the bonds to be disposed of at not less than par.

Mr. Morgan immediately criticised Mr. Fairbanks' proposition, declaring it was simply another feature of the methods being employed to delay the canal construction.

With some heat Mr. Fairbanks insisted that his amendment was perfectly reasonable and proper. He believed it to be in accord with the wisest statesmanship to distribute the cost of the canal over a period of years instead of putting the burden of the entire cost on the people of the present time.

Mr. Hoar formally offered his amendment, of which he gave notice some time ago, in the form of a substitute. The amendment provides that it shall be the duty of the President to cause an isthmian canal to be built by such route as he may select; that he shall obtain all advice necessary; and that $10,000,000 be appropriated to begin the work.

House Debates Irrigation Bill.

The House today adopted a special rule for the consideration of the irrigation bill, which passed the Senate some time ago, and devoted the day to general debate of the measure. Messrs. Mondell [Wyo.], Tongue [Ore.], Tirrell [Mass.], and Shallenberger [Neb.] spoke today in favor of the bill. Mr. Ray, chairman of the Judiciary committee, made a long legal argument against it. Mr. Olmstead [Pa.] enlivened the proceedings with a humorous speech in reply to Mr. Cushman's recent attack on the Committee on Rules.

DEMOCRATS ARE READY FOR FRAY

AGREE ON ADVISORY LIST.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARIES TODAY.

Polls open between 1 and 7 o'clock p. m.

Every Democrat who is registered; who resides in the primary district where he last voted; who has not signed the petition of any candidate for an office at the coming election, and who did not participate in the Republican primaries, is entitled to vote.

Weather will be hot and partly cloudy, with possible thunder-storms.

The recommendations of the Democratic Advisory committee were formally indorsed at a caucus of ward managers yesterday. Present at the meeting were Mayor Harrison and the men on whom he relies to bring in the delegates who will make up the majority of the Democratic county convention.

The resolution which was presented by the Mayor and unanimously adopted was that so far as it lay in the power of the men present all nominees of the convention shall be taken from the names submitted by the Advisory committee.

The organization of the convention also was considered, and while it was not actually determined on, the sense of the gathering was in favor of Moses J. Wentworth of the Twenty-first Ward for temporary chairman and John R. Caverly of the First Ward for secretary.

The desire was to secure Judge Tuley for chairman, but he does not intend to be a delegate to the convention, and under the amended primary law all officers of conventions must be members of the body.

These at the Caucus.

Those present at the caucus, which was held in the office of Commissioner of Public Works Blocki, were Mayor Harrison, Chairman Carey of the County committee, City Clerk Loeffler, Thomas Gahan, Aldermen McInerney, Coughlin, Brennan, Kenna, Martin, and Kunz, City Sealer Quinn, and City Attorney Owens. Robert E. Burke was not there and was not invited.

In addition to pledging themselves to select if possible the nominees for office from the Advisory committee list, the members of the caucus, all of whom are members of the Executive committee of the Democratic County committee, agreed to stand by the recommendation of the Advisory committee that the candidacies of Orrin N. Carter for Judge of the County Court and Judge Cutting for the Probate Court be indorsed.

The argument made in favor of the indorsement of Judge Carter was that it would make his office a non-political one, thus taking the machinery of the Election Commissioner's office out of politics, and would be a wise move of itself, as with Judge Carter's reëlection assured many Republicans who are interested in only this one candidate would stay at home.

The question whether it would not be a wise move to nominate Orville Bright to succeed himself as County Superintendent of Schools was brought up, but no action was taken.

Candidates Who Are Favored.

No attempt was made to form a slate, that work being left for the caucus which is to be held at party headquarters this evening after the primaries are over. The names most favored by those who were present, however, are reported as follows:

For Treasurer—Theodore Oehne.
For Sheriff—William Fennimore Cooper.
For County Clerk—Peter Kiolbassa.
For Clerk of Appellate Court—George Kersten.
For Clerk of the Criminal Court—J. H. Bowman.
For Clerk of Probate Court—Thomas Gallagher.
For President of the County board—John W. Eckhart.
For Board of Review—Frank Wenter or B. M. Winston.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction—George C. Howland or Edward J. Tobin.
For Assessors—James B. McDonald or Martin Emerich in the city and James G. Wolcott in the country.

Many Ward Fights On.

A résumé of the situations in the Thirty-five wards of the city shows that the First, Eighteenth, Twenty-second, Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, and Thirty-first Wards are the only ones in which there will not be some sort of a primary fight today.

The ward in which most interest centers is the Twenty-first, where City Sealer Quinn is fighting Robert E. Burke, and the latter is struggling for his political existence. But a number of other wards, especially the Second, Third, Seventh, Eighth, Thirteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-fourth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-sixth, Twenty-seventh, Thirty-second, and Thirty-fourth are closely contested, and on their results will determine largely the make-up of Saturday's convention.

Auto's Advent in Politics.

The automobile will make its first appearance in politics in the Twenty-first Ward during the day. Alderman Honoré Palmer has put his racing machine, "The Gray Wolf," at the disposal of City Sealer Quinn, and it will be used to carry Quinn voters to the primary polling places.

It is reported that Mayor Harrison has departed from his neutral positon in the Quinn-Burke fight in the ward to the extent that he will turn his head the other way if "The Gray Wolf" happens to break the speed ordinance.

"The automobile in politics on primary day is certainly a great improvement over the patrol wagon, which used to be mainly in evidence," was the comment of the Mayor. "It is evidence that times change and we change with them."

"It will be the first time in the history of local politics," said Corporation Counsel Walker, "that a horseless carriage has been employed to help out in a ward fight."

Burke or Quinn? Prophets Divided.

The Burke-Quinn war takes first rank in the ward contests, and the Twenty-first Ward is regarded as the central battle ground. Each principal has mustered all his forces, and the two factions are lined up for what promises to be one of the fiercest struggles the North Side has ever witnessed.

The result is difficult to forecast even to those who know Twenty-first Ward politics in all its details. Both sides expressed confidence last evening.

The opinion expressed by several close observers, including the Mayor, was that Burke has the better organization.

"Burke had made his campaign to carry a primary," said one observer, "while Mr. Quinn's mass-meetings were the methods that precede a general election. Burke organized by blocks while Quinn was making speeches."

Both Burke and Quinn have been factors in Mayor Harrison's three administrations, but from different wards until the Council in redistricting the city threw them together.

Almost as bitter a fight is being waged in the Thirteenth Ward, where City Attorney John E. Owens has led a crusade against Roger C. Sullivan and the Tilden Democracy.

The Tildenites also are conducting a furiously waged contest in the Seventh Ward, with Thomas P. Flinn as its candidate for committeeman and M. E. Hunt, son of Inspector Hunt, for Representative. The purpose here is to overthrow John T. Keating and John P. McGoorty as ward leaders.

In the Twenty-fifth Ward Walter S. Bogle, President of the Tilden Democracy, is leading a fight against the Mayor's forces. Bogle is a candidate for committeeman. Ed Lahiff, who lives in the ward and expects it to send a delegation to the county convention favorable to his candidacy for Clerk of the Appellate Court, predicts that Bogle will not carry a district.

Mr. Bogle flooded the ward yesterday with circulars calling on the Democrats to turn out, free themselves from boss rule, and administer a rebuke to the methods of "the City Hall crowd." Similar circulars denunciatory of Keating and McGoorty were scattered throughout the Seventh Ward.

Hopkins Leads a Fight.

Other fights of paramount interest are stirring the Second, Third, and Nineteenth Wards. In the Third ex-Mayor Hopkins is leading the Tilden Democracy as a candidate for committeeman, with Richard Corrigan as his chief lieutenant.

In the Nineteenth the contest is against Alderman John Powers, who wants the nomination for State Senator. Every friend of the Mayor has enlisted in the anti-Powers movement.

Powers made a coup during the day when he made an arrangement with Alderman Roach, who has been leading the fight against him, whereby Roach is to go on the County committee from the Senatorial district in consideration of becoming a Powers delegate to the Senatorial convention. The Glacken people are still fighting, however.

In the Second Ward John P. Ryan and Ed Cummings are fighting Frank Solon.

Mayor and O'Neill Act.

The Mayor has issued the customary proclamation requiring all saloons and barrooms to be closed during the hours of the primary election, from noon to 7 o'clock in the evening.

Chief of Police O'Neill has picked out men to guard the polling places and streets of the Nineteenth and Twenty-first Wards while the primary fight is waging.

Men from Inspector Hunt's division will be sent to the two wards, and the officers belonging in the wards will travel strange beats for a day.

TO NAME CANDIDATES TODAY.

Executive Committee of Democratic Advisory Board Makes Partial List of Aspirants to Legislature.

The Executive committee of the Democratic Advisory board put in the afternoon yesterday canvassing the names of candidates for the Legislature. It did not complete the list because a number of Democrats seeking nominations hesitated about submitting their names to the committee on the ground that its authority stopped short of State officers. But those who held to this opinion found they were so small a minority that they concluded to come into camp. The committee got word that several names had been mailed by candidates living in the outlying districts and would reach headquarters this morning.

The list for Representatives will not include Clayton E. Crafts and Benjamin Mitchell, who are making the race for Representatives in the Twenty-first District.

Judge Dunne, who resides in the district, kept them off. He protested that, on the records of these two men at Springfield, the committee could not afford to recommend their nomination, nor could the Democratic convention of the district afford to nominate them. No member of the committee took issue with Judge Dunne, and it is understood that Crafts and Mitchell were by unanimous consent turned down.

The recommendations for the Nineteenth District, where there has been so much dispute over candidates, are:

|---|---|
| Frank Sullivan, | J. J. O'Connor, |
| M. E. Ames, | Walter C. Mahon, |
| James Prendergast, | Henry M. Curtis. |
| James O'Bryan, | |

Mr. Sullivan declared during the day that he was not a candidate, but at the solicitation of F. S. Peabody, Austin Doyle, and John S. Cooper his name was added to the list. For the reason that other names are expected, Judge Tuley declined to give out the report for publication. The committee will meet at 9 o'clock this morning and try to finish its work before the polls open.

BLISTERED FINGERS RESULT IN UNION OF BAKERY GIRLS.

Hold an Indignation Meeting and Say Gas Is Spoiling Their Complexions—Boys Win Two Strikes.

All day yesterday girls went through the baking and packing rooms of the bakeries connected with the National Biscuit company giving the passwords, "Uneeda a Union," and last night 350 of them gathered in Horan's Hall at Halsted and Harrison streets and organized. The effort was to aid by sympathy about 100 girls who struck at the Schmidt bakery last Friday and the Sawyer bakery last Monday. All want higher pay and shorter hours.

The girls were indignant. Their fingers were blistered and they were tired. They had handled biscuits and crackers hot from the ovens and some of them had stood for hours in rooms directly above furnaces run by gas, which, oozing through the cracks in the floor, they claimed, made them sick.

The girls want to be permitted to wear gloves when handling the heated biscuits.

"How does it feel to have your hands all blistered on Sunday when you go out with your friend?" called out Miss Sophie Becker, who was organizing them. "Isn't it nice to have your fingers in a glove and feel the blisters break? Isn't it fine to have your complexion spoiled by the gas and heat? And then to get but $3 a week for it all."

In the morning seventy-five boys, varying in age between 14 and 16 years, walked out of the D. M. Goodwillie box factory, Twenty-second street and Center avenue. They wanted an increase in wage from $3.60 to $3.90 a week. After a strike of two hours this was given them and they went back to work. At noon they held a meeting outside the factory and decided that they wanted $4 a week and again struck. They were out an hour and got that.

FALLS LOOPING THE LOOP.

Fourth Man to Meet with an Accident at Minneapolis Is Badly Hurt.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 12.—Clarence Hamilton, a trick bicyclist, brought here from New York to "loop the loop" at the Elks' fair, followed the example of his three predecessors and fell from the giant wheel on the inside of which he tried to steer a bicycle.

E. L. Kilpatrick, John Larson, and Josiah Dougherty had each been injured in attempting the feat, and Hamilton, known as Moncrief, was hastened here from New York, where he has been looping the loop in a similar contrivance for several weeks.

In his second attempt he left the rim of the big loop just as he neared the top and was riding head downward. He was hurled with terrific force among the spectators and had several ribs fractured beside suffering internal injuries. He is now at a hospital in a serious condition.

YE HOUSEKEEPER'S CORNER.

Get all the fresh air you can in the sleeping rooms, which should be carefully screened in order that bugs may not come in.

Inexpensive jute tapestries may be had in strong, soft colorings that make desirable summer hangings; the blue and green are especially good.

Equal parts of alum and salt, or even salt alone, placed on a piece of cotton wool and inserted in the hollow of an aching tooth will often give relief when other means have failed.

To renovate a black dress or coat which has worn shiny sponge with equal parts of ink and strong coffee. This has so a good authority says, never been known to fail.

In using the white woodwork so fashionable now be careful to get a yellowish or ivory white instead of the cold blue white. The latter is decidedly harsh; a much softer effect is obtained from the ivory shade.

If you wish to get rid of tender feet bathe them daily in tepid water, wear soft woolen hose, but on no account silk or cotton; boots and shoes should be made of a soft leather or kid, with a good sole and not too thin.

Nothing is more disagreeable than burned milk. To prevent this first rinse the milk saucepan with a little cold water and then rub the interior of the vessel with a little fresh butter. This will prove an excellent protection for the milk. It must be noted that a milk saucepan once burnt should never be used for its original purpose again.

MEAT TEAMSTERS RENEW THREATS

TEN MEN DISCHARGED.

Fear Use of Trains in Place of Wagons and Call General Meeting of Union.

Stock-Yards teamsters again are making threats. They charge that the packers have not lived up to the terms of the compromise which closed the big strike, and a call has been issued for a general meeting of the union next Sunday to consider the situation.

The men say that conditions at the yards are worse than before the strike of two week ago was called. They say their positions are in danger, that many of the men have been unable to get work, and that the barn superintendents who were discharged because they refused to take out the strikers' wagons have not been reinstated.

Report Ten Men Discharged.

Ten men were told yesterday that their services were needed no longer as there was not sufficient work for them. Two of these men were employed by Nelson Morris & Co., four by Swift & Co., and four by Armour & Co. Twenty other men were kept waiting for their wagons from 8 a. m. until nearly noon, and when they asked for information were told there was no work for them. In their places they say non-union men were put to work.

Roused by the complaints of the men, the officers of the union started an investigation. They declare that three barn superintendents of the "big six," who refused to do the packers' bidding during the strike were told they would not be taken back. These men are Thomas Smith of Nelson Morris & Co., Peter Cavanaugh of Armour & Co., and John Miller of the Libby, McNeill & Libby company.

Receive No Satisfaction.

A committee of the teamsters visited the superintendents of the firms who have thus far refused to recognize the union, and say they received no satisfaction. At Swift's they were told the matter was in the hands of Louis F. Swift; at Armour's they were referred to J. Ogden Armour, and at Libby, McNeill & Libby's they were told they would have to wait. At the Nelson Morris plant they say they were denied an interview.

An indignation meeting of the leaders was hurriedly called and strike talk again became prevalent. The men fear the packers are ready to begin transporting their goods for local consumption by the various railroads via the Belt line, and are anxious to force an issue before the system is adopted permanently.

The teamsters are clamoring for reinstatement of the men, for the discharge of enough non-union men to give all members of the union employment, and for a formal agreement on the part of the packers to give up the railroad transportation scheme until all the teamsters have been given other situations. If the packers refuse to yield on these points the subject will be submitted to the union on Sunday.

At the request of the city officials the thirty-five teamsters and their sympathizers who were arrested for participation in the first day's riots at Clinton and Fulton streets were released yesterday without a trial. At the Stock-Yards Station six more men who were arrested for inciting riot on the second day were released.

Demands on Can Company.

The truck teamsters have decided to force the American Can company, better known as the "trust," to sign their agreement, or face a strike. The company employs between 100 and 200 men, and pays them $1 less a week than the union scale, and no overtime. The officers of the union will call on the company's representatives this morning, and if their request is refused a strike call will be made before noon.

"We are determined that no company in Chicago shall hire union men as the American Can company does and not pay them the union wages," said Business Agent Hugh McGee yesterday. "We are paying no attention to the joint arbitration board. The firm must sign or look out for a strike."

Tugmen's Demands Refused.

Lake line agents and vessel owners of Chicago refused to accept the striking tugmen's terms yesterday and will await the final issue of the strike. The tugmen offered to return to work if the vessel owners would agree to have none but tugs manned by union members to do their towing. This was refused. Then the tugmen demanded that should the Great Lakes company settle its strike the towing be divided between the company and the independetn concerns. This was also refused.

The members of the joint arbitration board of teamsters and their employers met at Kinsley's yesterday noon to select a fifteenth member of the committee. When the meeting was over it was announced that as neither party had a man to mention for the place, both agreed to leave the selection until a time of serious difficulty.

NOW WEAR THE CAR UNION PIN.

"The Little Street" Makes Its Appearance on Coats of Chicago Traction Employes.

Around the privilege of wearing "the little street," as it is known in labor circles, has been waged a long and bitter fight. Twice in the last three years attempts have been made to organize the street car men in such numbers that it could safely be worn, but each time the attempts have failed, and men who wore it have gone out to seek other work. Now all is changed. The officials of the local car lines have their fares and tickets taken by men who have just begun to wear the pin. It is seen in the barns, and soon will be seen in the offices.

The button, which is the national insignia of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employés of America, is the official badge that shows the man who wears it is in good standing. In every city where it is now seen there has been a struggle to get it recognized, and from the realization of this the officers of the union had the following motto printed on the minute rolls: "Freedom Through Organization."

There are now between 9,000 and 10,000 men in Chicago who have the right to wear it where there were but two three months ago. All will soon have theirs in public view. Some have now obtained them and all are expected to within the next two weeks.

COURT OUSTS REVIEW BOARD.

Cleveland Tribunal Holds That the Taxing Supervision Body Is Unconstitutional.

Cleveland, O., June 12.—Judge Babcock of the Common Pleas Court decided today that the Board of Tax Review, as provided in the "Longworth Ripper" bill, passed by the late Legislature, is unconstitutional. The decision is a victory for Mayor Johnson, who attacked the validity of the law.

GRAND CROSSING FLOOD REQUIRES BRIDGE BUILDING.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

The flood which has submerged nearly twelve square miles of territory in Grand Crossing has compelled many of the residents to provide themselves with rafts, boats, and other safeguards, against wet feet. William Kinney, whose house at Eighty-fourth street and Ellis avenue is surrounded by water over one foot in depth, had to build a bridge from the rear of his residence to the Illinois Central embankment. Until this had been done Mr. Kinney's children found a source of much joy in going part of their way to school on a raft. The present overflow is by far the most serious of the floods which generally overtake Grand Crossing at this season of the year. It covers practically the entire territory between Seventy-fifth and Eighty-seventh streets, and has caused no end of bad feeling between the inhabitants living on either side of the town line ditch. Those living north of the ditch charge that their neighbors have cut the dike to prevent the water from overflowing their land on the south.

UNION TRACTION OFFICIALS TO TESTIFY FOR STATE.

General Counsel Gurley Will Tell That Attorney Simon Failed to Explain His Expense Account in Transfer Cases When Asked to Do So—Company's Vouchers Offered for Evidence—Defense Is Surprised and Changes Tactics.

corporation issue transfers on certain of its lines.

"O'Donnell and Brady," he continued, "were not regular employés of the company, but were engaged to fight these cases. Mr. Brady was given instructions how to fight the city. The general of the forces was William J. Gallagher. He made O'Donnell & Brady's office his headquarters. His ostensible business was to assist the firm in such ways as it might desire.

"During the week preceding the case he met Homer Michaels, one of the conspirators, in the presence of Patrick O'Donnell, and requested him to act as a juror in this case, and told him there was money in it for him. Michaels told a friend, who saw these three together, 'They want me to go on a jury next Monday.' Michaels was told at a subsequent meeting that he should appear at the Revere House the next Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. He came over there at that time and met Patrick O'Donnell and William J. Gallagher side by side.

Pin Used as a Mark.

"In a conversation Michaels said he was going over, and Gallagher said to him: 'Have you got a pin?' and he either stuck the pin or told him about sticking the pin in the lapel of his coat, there in the presence of Patrick O'Donnell, who was listening to the conversation. Then Michaels went to the Revere House.

"During that week of April 14 there came into the office a young boy, named Ashworth. He had a particular friend in O'Donnell & Brady's office named Werner. He went into the room, and there were Michaels and Gallagher in conversation. Gallagher turned to Werner and said, 'How would John do for our business?' Then a proposition was made to John about going on the jury. He said, 'Will I have to be under oath? I won't lie.' He was told he would be asked about knowing O'Donnell and Brady by reputation. He said, 'I would be under oath, and that would be another lie. You've got the wrong man.'"

How Scheme Was Revealed

"Doc" Greene's part in the case was then detailed. It was Greene who professed to listen to Gallagher's offer and then carried the information to John M. Harlan, Secretary Fisher of the Municipal Voters' league, and Assistant Corporation Counsel Fyffe. It was Greene's evidence chiefly that brought the indictments against the alleged conspirators.

"Greene," said Mr. Barnes, "called up Gallagher at O'Donnell & Brady's offices. He went to the Revere House accompanied by Evans Holbrook, a clerk in Mr. Harlan's office. Pretty soon in came Gallagher and John O'Donnell, the brother of Patrick O'Donnell, and also connected with his office and his business. 'Ham' Lawrence and others were there. After they came in Gallagher put pins on them, or told them to do so.

"At any rate they got together there—Greene, Rothery, Lawrence, and Gallagher—and Greene turned around and put his pin on so that Holbrook, sitting on the other side of the room, could see it. O'Donnell was introduced by Gallagher as a brother of Patrick O'Donnell. They went into the bar to get a drink. Gallagher said, 'You will know the constable by his having a bunch of cards in his hand and a pencil,' and he gave a general description."

In detail Mr. Barnes told how Jones had entered, had approached the men, and said, "Take that pin out of your coat," and of how the "pin brigade" was marched to Justice Woods' court and there turned into a jury to try the first transfer case.

Simon Summons Constable.

"The constable in the case knew Simon," added Mr. Barnes. "Simon said to him during the week preceding the trial that he would be liable to get that jury, and asked if he (Simon) couldn't see him. Jones asked where, and later in the week he received a telephone message. 'Simon wants to see you at the office of O'Donnell & Brady,' he was told.

"Jones went there. Simon came out of the private office of Brady. Jones seemed to be in a hurry to get away. Simon told him not to be in a hurry. 'Your pay goes on just the same,' he said. Jones was taken into the presence of Gallagher, Simon, Patrick O'Donnell, and Brady and there introduced to them individually as the constable likely to get the jury.

"There," thundered Mr. Barnes, "Jones was told how it would be done. They entered into the scheme. O'Donnell and Brady walked back and forth from the next room and listened to the conversation about the plan. Gallagher said he would have the men on hand, some ten of them. He gave the names of Lawrence, of Rothery, of Michaels, and others, and Jones even took down the names that were given him. And Brady and O'Donnell were listening. Gallagher told Jones there that the men would have pins stuck into the lapels of their coats. He said he would have some of them in a saloon, and Jones said, 'No, not in a saloon.'"

He detailed how Jones got only four men out of the "pin" list, corralled at the Revere House, the city challenging the others and some being late. John O'Donnell then steered the constable to the reserve force at the Palace Hotel, a block north.

Where Men Were Paid.

Mr. Barnes next took up the payment of the men after the company had been given a verdict within three minutes.

"Simon, Gallagher, O'Donnell & Brady, Lawrence, and Michaels," he asserted, "went over to a saloon to celebrate. They had a drink. Gallagher nudged Michaels and the latter felt something in his pocket. Michaels went out and over the river with Lawrence. He kept his hands on this thing in his overcoat pocket. Then he pulled it out, and it was a five-dollar bill. They got to treating, and then Lawrence, too, pulled out a five-dollar bill.

"Jones was paid $5 on three different occasions by Simon in regard to that trial. The only legitimate expense incurred was the Union Traction company's half of the meal for jurors, which amounted to $2.50 or thereabouts. Simon was in this case a mere messenger, the go-between. The active part in the trial was taken by Brady, O'Donnell sitting by.

Simon Secures Expense Money.

"Simon said to the attorney for the company that he wanted some funds for expenses for O'Donnell and Brady. I think it was $25 he asked. He got that and asked for more later. He got $35. A little later he asked for $35 more and got it. When, after the revelation of what had taken place, he was called into the office of the general counsel to account for the disposition of those funds, he was unable to do it. We will show the money that was paid there for witnesses did not come from that fund at all. When O'Donnell & Brady rendered their bill for services they rendered no bill except $5 for services for witnesses. Portions of that $95 formed a corruption fund obtained by Simon and distributed with the knowledge of other parties in this case."

State Sees Traction Vouchers.

Mr. Barnes' concluding statement had made public the fact that General Counsel Gurley of the company has given the State free access to the company's vouchers dealing with the case. Not one request for information has been denied. When Mr. Gurley and Special Consulting Counsel John A. Rose take the stand for the State they will make full statement of all they know of the case, of Simon's "expense accounts," and of O'Donnell & Brady.

After the defendants' attorneys decided to delay their opening addresses Attorney Walker asked permission for his client, Simon, to take the stand in his own behalf. Nearly all the other defendants, as a result, will do likewise.

State Begins Its Evidence.

The State started its witnesses at once. Justice Woods taking the stand. He identified the documents in the case. To questions of Attorney Hardy for the defense he asserted that no one had solicited the appointment of Constable Jones, who has confessed, to secure the jury.

"He was the oldest constable there," said the justice, "and the man I have the most confidence in. I told him to get good, reliable business-men."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Fyffe told of Greene's information as to the conspiracy. Attorney Hardy cross-examined and wanted to know if Greene was paid.

"He said he was out of pocket $50," returned Mr. Fyffe. "He was paid that. I believe I paid him $29 of it, and Mr. Harlan advanced him $21. In all, I believe, Mr. Harlan gave him $50."

"When that jury went out, after your talks with Greene, did you believe it was corrupt?"

"Yes," was the reply, "I believed there were some dishonest men on it."

Assistant Corporation Counsel Goodwin told practically the same thing as Mr. Fyffe. The defense tried to make him admit the city believed it had a weak case, and at one time intended to enter a non-suit. This intimation was vigorously denied.

Today the State will call its witnesses in the following order: Homer Michaels, who has confessed; John Ashworth, Thomas Ashworth, "Doc" Greene, Evans Holbrook, Constable Jones, who has confessed; Charles Matthews, solicited by Gallagher; "Pin Brigade" men William Sheridan and Clark E. Rolfe, who have confessed; John A. Rose, and W. W. Gurley.

Jurors Who Will Hear Case.

The twelve who will render judgment on the alleged jury-bribers are:

August F. Dorn, 44 Bissel street, ship carpenter, former sea Captain, employed by the Ship Owners' Dry Dock company.
J. W. Thom, 364 Sedgwick street, clerk for Board of Trade house.
Edward E. Barnes, 880 Seventy-second street, stenographer for the Illinois Central railroad company.
Peter A. Johnson, 1482 North Rockwell street, grocer.
James McAdam, 3247 Oakley avenue, motorman for the Chicago City Railway company.
Nicholas C. Faber, 62 Howe street, papercutter.
Henry Cook, 4020 Cottage Grove avenue, formerly employed by A. M. Rothschild & Co.; unemployed at present.

In all 700 veniremen were called before the twelve men were secured. This breaks the record of Cook County's criminal courts. As each man rejected drew a fee of at least $2, the securing of a jury in this case, together with court costs and other charges, has cost the county almost $10,000.

The jury last evening attended a performance of "Ping Pong" at the Studebaker, in charge of bailiffs.

CHICAGO SWEPT BY WIND.

COURSE OF STORM CHANGED BEFORE DAMAGE RESULTS.

Gale Comes Up Suddenly and Many People Frightened by Fear of Tornado—Passengers Hurry Out of Surface Cars to a More Secure Shelter—Close of Hottest Day of Season, in Which One Man Is Killed from the Heat.

A wind-storm swept over Chicago last night, doing little damage, but alarming many people, who feared the approach of a tornado. It came at the close of the hottest day of the year, and with it came a drop of 16° in temperature as a relief.

"A gust of wind" is what it was officially called in the Auditorium tower. It struck the city with such suddenness that pedestrians were taken unawares and in a minute the streets were full of flying hats. Men and women were flattened up against buildings and all their breath jostled out of them by the fierceness of the attack.

Car Passengers Frightened.

Passengers on street cars became so alarmed they hastily alighted and sought refuge in stores. Women had to be supported against the wind by men. All the waste in the streets was thrown high in the air and dust was driven against the windows like hail.

People with ideas of tornadoes fresh in their minds were frightened by the vehemence of the "gust of wind," and men with costly hats watched them disappearing down the street. In a few moments the wind subsided as suddenly as it had arisen.

As observed from the Auditorium tower the storm was heralded by some ugly-looking clouds coming out of the north with great velocity. It hit the down-town district and then switched towards the lake, and the possibility of damage, which it might have done in the residence districts was averted. Rain accompanied the wind, and the temperature, which was 84 at 7 o'clock, dropped to 68 by 8 o'clock.

Discomfort from Heat.

Considerable discomfort was caused during the day by the high temperature, which exceeded the record for the year. At 4 o'clock the maximum was reached, 91 degrees being recorded in the Auditorium tower.

One man was killed as the result of being overcome by heat, and three were prostrated.

The Dead.

CAMPBELL, CHARLES, 5347 Armour avenue, overcome and fell down a flight of stairs at 6057 State street; neck broken; body taken to O'Donnell's undertaking-rooms, 6328 Cottage Grove avenue.

Three Overcome.

Smith, Charles, 29 years old, overcome while at work in the Illinois Malleable Iron Works, Twenty-sixth and Rockwell streets; removed to County Hospital; will recover.
Galop, Michael, 742 West Twenty-first place, overcome while at work in the yards of the John Spry Lumber company, Twenty-seventh and Paulina streets; removed to County Hospital; condition serious.
Beamish, John, 1525 Michigan avenue, overcome while walking along West Twelfth street; taken home.

It will be hot again today and for several days, with the possibility of other storms, according to the weather officials. The temperature during the day, as taken at the Auditorium tower, was as follows:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 6 a. m. | 57 | 2 p. m. | 87 |
| 7 a. m. | 58 | 3 p. m. | 90 |

BOY KILLED BY LOCOMOTIVE.

Willie Wegener Attempts to Pass Unguarded Grade Crossing in Evanston and Meets Death.

Grade crossings of Evanston claimed a victim yesterday in Willie Wegener, who was killed by a north-bound Chicago and Northwestern passenger train. The boy was the son of Charles Wegener, 1929 Dewey avenue, and was 9 years old. The accident occurred at the Foster street crossing, where the boy was attempting to cross the track.

At this crossing there are no gates, and the boy did not see the approaching train. He was struck by the engine, thrown under the wheels, and his skull was fractured. Dr. Chapin of Wilmette, who was on the train, took the boy in charge and had him carried to his office in Wilmette. The boy lived until the station was reached, but died on the way from the train to the office of the doctor.

In endeavoring to save a woman from death beneath the wheels of a Wabash avenue cable train at Twelfth street yesterday afternoon, Policeman Thomas Cullen of the Harrison Street Police Station was thrown to the street and narrowly escaped with his own life. The woman, Miss Nellie Mitchell, 1234 Wabash avenue, was bruised severely, but able to proceed to her home.

Steamer Disabled in Calumet River.

The new steamer Milwaukee of the New York Central line was caught between the bridge at Ninety-fifth and Ninety-second streets last night and swung across the Calumet River. The steamer was disabled and will be compelled to remain across the river until the current is lessened. It was the first trip of the Milwaukee since leaving the shipyards. The steamer has on board the largest cargo of merchandise and grain ever carried by a railroad liner out of Chicago.

BOAT CAPSIZES; FOUR DROWNED.

MANY OF CREW ESCAPE.

Wind Does Great Damage at Elgin, Injuring Three Persons—Other Storms.

Dubuque, Ia., June 12.—[Special.]—A cyclone swept across the Mississippi River about 4 o'clock this afternoon. At Maquoketa Chute, four miles north of here, it struck the steamer Ravenna and turned it over. Four of the crew were drowned and the remaining twenty-four escaped. The dead are:

DELL, CHARLES, 23 years old, La Crosse.
HOY, John, Captain, 52 years old, Stillwater.
TRASK, BYRON, clerk, 42 years old, Stillwater.
WALKER, LOUIS, 19 years old, Read Landing.

The Ravenna is owned by Bronson & Folsom of Stillwater, and was towing for the East Muscatine Lumber company. It passed this port north shortly after 3 o'clock and the storm struck it at 4:11, as indicated by the watch of one of the crew which stopped at that hour. The cyclone struck the steamer without warning and it keeled over to starboard.

Captain Dies at His Post.

The crew were thrown into the water, but some of them managed to crawl up on the bottom of the upturned steamer. Captain Hoy was at the wheel when the boat went over, with all the windows in the pilot-house closed, and was caught as in a trap.

Clerk Trask was in his office and likewise had no chance to save himself. Captain Hoy's son was asleep in a stateroom and, awakened by the overturning of the boat, kicked open a skylight and escaped.

The men, huddled together on the overturned hull and clinging to the slippery sides for their lives, peered eagerly through the rain for a boat of some sort to save them.

Long Wait for a Rescuer.

After nearly an hour of anxious waiting they sighted the steamer Teal coming down on its daily trip from Potosi. Coats, hats, handkerchiefs, and everything available were waved at it, but still the packet continued on its way. Finally, Captain Specht of the Teal sighted the unfortunates and turned his craft toward them. The course against the shifting wind was a hard one to make, but he succeeded in coming alongside and making fast long enough for the men perched on the hull of the overturned steamer to climb on the deck of his boat. In the choppy sea the Teal then proceeded to Eagle Point, where the rescued men were landed.

Three men were picked up from the Iowa shore by a gasoline launch and three others from the Wisconsin shore. These men, unable to see the boat, reached land by swimming across the river.

Three Injured at Elgin.

Elgin, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—Three persons injured and many hundreds of dollars' worth of property damaged are the results of a cyclone which swept Elgin and vicinity at 6:30 o'clock. Hundreds of persons took refuge in cellars and out of way places. Charles Dane, night watchman at the watch case factory, was hurt by a falling plank. Mrs. F. Jane of Algonquin was buried under the ruins of a barn. Charles Spiller was cut in the breast by flying glass.

In some parts of the city not the slightest damage was done, while in other parts telephone poles and trolley and electric light wires were a hopeless mass, interfering with traffic. The Illinois national watch case factory was unroofed, and an icehouse on Fox River was blown down. Boards carried two blocks landed on the roof of the D. C. Cook publishing house, breaking a $600 skylight.

Illinois Death List Grows.

Bloomington, Ill., June 12.—Wire communication through McLean County is being resumed and additional details of Tuesday night's tornado are coming to light. One more death is added to the list of McLean County victims. Cora Reynolds, 2 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Reynolds, residing east of Saybrook, was struck by flying missiles and her skull was fractured.

Her mother was seriously injured and lies in a critical condition with little hopes of recovery. Another child was picked up and carried to a field some distance away. The residence was completely demolished.

A train of empty box cars on the Lake Erie and Western railway was carried three miles, colliding with an east-bound train near Elliott. At Ellsworth, on the same road, a caboose was turned over. Conductor George Stevens of Rankin was knocked unconscious. He is in a serious condition.

Students Crushed in Schoolhouse.

Des Moines, Ia., June 12.—Four wagonloads of students enjoying a picnic at Coppoc, nine miles south of Washington, were caught by the storm during their return journey. One wagon, containing nine members of the high school class, sought shelter in a schoolhouse, which was blown to pieces, burying all in the débris.

Circus Crowd Caught in Panic.

Sigourney, Ia., June 12.—[Special.]—In the wind storm today the tent of the Harris Nickel Plate railway show was blown down and between 600 and 700 persons were left uncovered in one of the heaviest rains of the season. Between fifty and sixty were struck by poles and caught under the heavy canvas. No one was killed, but several seriously injured. Miss Clara Campbell and Samuel Utterback were so severely hurt that they cannot recover.

Disastrous Floods in Iowa.

Webster City, Ia., June 12.—[Special.]—A heavy downpour of rain visited this section of the county last night. The Boone River and its tributaries are torrents. The eastern part of this city has been under water all day. People in the stricken districts are moving out as fast as possible. Rain has been falling all day and gives no indication of discontinuing. Crops are badly damaged. Fields everywhere are under water, and in many places entirely washed out. No fatalities are reported.

Much Damage at Ottumwa.

Ottumwa, Ia., June 12.—A miniature tornado and cloudburst broke hundreds of plate glass windows in this city today, flooded basements, and did heavy damage to farm buildings in this vicinity.

Michigan Storm Wreaks Havoc.

Detroit, Mich., June 12.—A wind-storm of great force accompanied by lightning and rain passed over lower Michigan late today, doing thousands of dollars' worth of damage to growing crops. At Ensley a woman is reported killed by lightning and at Mulith a man was killed in the same manner.

Woman Dies in Railway Station.

Mrs. Sarah Waterhouse, 58 years old, former wife of M. K. Waterhouse, a merchant of Geneseo, Ill., died in the Grand Central Station yesterday morning. With her when she died were her daughter Pearl and Dr. W. W. Adams. Mrs. Waterhouse was on her way to Danville to be treated for a long standing illness.

Excursion to Portland, Me.

The Wabash road will sell excursion tickets, July 5 to 9 inclusive, from Chicago to Portland, Me., at $21.50 for the round trip via Niagara Falls; $20.50 via Montreal. Return limit, Aug. 15. For particulars call at or address city ticket office, 97 Adams-st.

CHICAGO TYPICAL AMERICAN CITY.

PARTY SAILS FOR HOME.

Dancing-Masters Decide to Introduce Three New and Odd Measures.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE, New York, June 12.

Sail with Kind Words for Chicago.

The Count said that Chicago came nearer to his idea of a typical American city than New York.

"In Chicago I was much pleased with Mayor Harrison and Mrs. Harrison," he said, "but I didn't care for the slaughter-houses."

The Count intends, he says, to come over again in 1904 and visit the St. Louis exposition. He was much impressed with Mark Twain, who, he said, had written a charming note to the Countess to give her bon voyage.

The Countess said she would drape her room in the Vendome Chateau with the American flag presented to her by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Countess thus answered the question, "Are American women more beautiful than French?"

"You see, I have seen only a few thousands of American women; many were beautiful, some were not. I have seen many more thousands of French women; many were beautiful, and many were not. I could not say whether or not there are more beautiful women here than in France. Your men, however, are handsomer and stronger than our men. Your President impressed me no less by his sound judgment than by his wit and cleverness. I never met any one in France with so many manly characteristics."

Hyacinthe Ringrose, the attorney who on April 10 last preferred charges against District Attorney Jerome in behalf of Frederick Randolph, a lawyer, received from Governor Odell today a letter in which the Governor said he did not consider the charges of sufficient weight to grant a hearing.

The dancing masters of the United States and Canada, who have been holding their convention this year at the Knickerbocker Academy in East Fourteenth street, decided today upon three new dances to be launched this year with the convention's stamp of approval. The morning session was devoted to their "exemplification by their authors." The dances are "The Antlers Gavotte," by E. J. Connolly of Oswego; "The Olympia," a fancy dance for children, by R. G. Bauman of Albany; and "The Military Dip Waltz," whose inventor is George Lovely of Springfield, Mass.

Masters Decide on Three New and Odd Dances.

The military dip, as demonstrated today by its inventor and Miss Helena Hanker of Fort Wayne, one of the danseuses, seemed to be much like the so-called "dip waltz" which has been in vogue for several years. The difference lies in the addition of a dip forward on one foot and a second dip backward on the other foot, and then a plain, ordinary waltz.

Only the professors whose dances had been rejected were the audience, but they applauded warmly. The three dances, according to them, will certainly be the rage next winter, no matter what their summer fate may be.

A special performance of "Dolly Varden" was given tonight at the Herald Square Theater in honor of the West Point graduating class. The class attended in a body, as did also members of some of the other classes.

The Empire State express had a narrow escape from a serious accident here today. With about 200 passengers on board, it was speeding on its way to Albany when it smashed into the locomotive of a work train that had been standing on the north-bound track, but whose engineer, on seeing the express rounding the curve, had put on full steam and sent his engine flying ahead in an attempt to avert a collision. The express train had such momentum that it could not be stopped, and the locomotive crashed into the water tank of the engine ahead and demolished it. The passengers on the express were severly shaken up, but only one was hurt, and his injuries were slight.

Narrow Escape of Empire State Express.

Two horses owned by John Morone of Hoboken got out of their stable early this morning and wandered into the meadows skirting the foot of the Palisades, where they got caught in a morass. Mosquitoes swarmed over the animals and bit them so that their cries woke up half the city. They were rescued with the aid of a derrick.

It was announced today by Santos-Dumont's agent in this city that plans were completed for the erection of a building at Brighton Beach for the accommodation of the inventor on his return. It is also announced that the flights that will be made by the aeronaut are to take place under the auspices of a club, now in process of organization, to be known as the Aero club, with quarters in this city.

Santos-Dumont Is Preparing to Fly in America.

This club already has on the list of its promised members the names of Thomas Edison, Nikola Tesla, and many other inventors. The building will be 150 feet in length, 75 feet wide, and 50 feet high. It will be built facing the sea, and the doors through which the huge flying machine will emerge open seaward.

YE ART AND ARTISTS CORNER

Thomas Moran, down at East Hampton, has and uses the gondola which Browning used at Venice.

Mrs. William Bouguereau of Paris, formerly Miss Elizabeth Gardner of Exeter, N. H., has given to that town her large painting, "Across the Brook," a scene of two children, boy and girl, carrying a younger child between them on their interlocked hands.

A miniature of the Hon. Mrs. Dawson Damer, painted by R. Cosway in 1785, was sold in London the other day for $3,100. At the same (Christie's) sale a miniature of George IV. and one of Mrs. Fitzherbert in a white dress, both by Cosway, brought $2,000 together.

An interesting specimen of the work of Thomas Cole, father of the Hudson River School, after whom a mountain in the Catskills is named, consists of four smallish paintings in one frame, separated by narrow gilt moldings, the whole plainly meaning "The Four Seasons of Life."

The Lenox Library in New York has on exhibition a selection from the Japanese color prints given by Mr. Charles Stuart Smith. Additions have been made to the exhibit of Rossetti material which is still to be seen. There is also a portrait of Rossetti, by Sherborn, the English engraver of book plates.

The painters of the country are already leaving the towns for the summer, and in a short time now most of them will be gone, either traveling or to the places they have chosen for work and rest. For artists of limited means it is becoming more difficult all the time to find suitable summer haunts where prices remain low.

The death of Jules Dalou, the sculptor of "The Triumph of the Republic," erected on the Place de la Nation, Paris, lessens the group of remarkable sculptors France produced during the last four decades of the recent century. Dalou was rightly held the peer of Carpeaux, his master, of Barrias, Falguiere, Paul Dubois, Saint Marceaux, Mercie, and of the two or three more who gave to France the leadership in the art of statuary.

ANALYSIS SHOWS HOW THE MILKMEN CHEAT.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, CHICAGO.
S. B. PRITCHARD, Secretary.

CHICAGO, June 12, 1902.

| Name. | Address. | Laboratory number. | Percent of Butter fat. | Remarks. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| V. Holub, | 659 S. May St. | 54206 | 2.6 | Below grade. |
| Morris Cohen, | 640 S. Sangamon | 54225 | 3.2 | Watered. |
| Morris Cohen, | 640 S. Sangamon | 54227 | 3.6 | Watered. |

D. B. Bisbee, Chemist.

Investigations made by THE TRIBUNE yesterday morning prove that the milk dealers who deliver to the houses by wagon are equally guilty with the "depot" dealer who sell improper milk to the people of the poorer districts. The above analysis, made by the city Health department, shows how three of the milkmen have offended. These three milkmen will be prosecuted, together with others, who have been found to be cheating their customers.

BAD MILK IN THE WAGONS

DEPOT DEALERS ARE NOT THE ONLY OFFENDERS.

Early Morning Inquiry Reveals That the Men Who Deliver to the Customers Employ Cheating Methods and They Will Be Prosecuted—Samples Found to Be Below Grade or Watered—One Driver Tries to Escape Investigating Party.

The sale of milk that is below grade or watered is not limited to the small stores. Tests made of milk taken from wagons that were delivering to houses yesterday morning showed that fully as much improper milk is sold to the consumers in this manner as from the small shops of the thickly settled tenement districts.

V. Holub, 659 South May street.
Morris Cohen, 640 South Sangamon street.
G. Bethke, 347 West Jackson boulevard.

These dealers will be prosecuted under the city ordinances.

Aided by Faulty Law.

A study of the methods of the wagon dealers, as well as those who sell from stores, shows that the "skim" milk feature of the trade is used as a cloak for many practices which otherwise would subject the dealers to fines for selling improper milk. A recent report of the Health department treats on the subject as follows:

"The most serious difficulty in the way of further improvement of the milk supply grows out of the section of the ordinances which permits the sale of skimmed milk if the vessel from which it is sold has attached a metallic tag with the words 'skimmed milk' thereon. This tag constitutes a perfect protection against the provisions of the law and is not the least objected to by shopkeepers, since the milk cans are necessarily kept in the refrigerator, where no customer even sees the vessel, to say nothing of the inconspicuous tag.

"With this protecting fetish a milk absolutely free from fat can be sold—if the customer will take it—without infraction of the law. The work of the inspectors shows that fully three-fourths of the milk in the shops in the poorer districts is so tagged.

"If the sale of skimmed milk were prohibited—except in large quantities for bakers' use and similar defined purposes—a measure of protection would be afforded the poor."

Inquiry in Early Morning.

The investigation yesterday began at 3 o'clock in the morning, just as the delivery wagons were starting out. The start was made from Indiana avenue and Twenty-second street. Under the shadow of St. John's Church, Eighteenth and Clark streets, THE TRIBUNE reporter and City Inspector Weiss noticed a lantern bobbing along. It was in the hands of an aged woman, who also carried a milk can under a shawl. She said she was Mrs. J. Mansfield, and was delivering milk from her husband's store at Eighteenth street and Armour avenue. The woman admitted that her husband had no license.

The wagon of V. Holub of 659 South May street was found at Morgan and Seventeenth streets, and three samples were taken from the cans. One of the samples fell below grade, and Holub will be called to account-ing.

Driver Tries to Escape.

As the investigating party turned into South Halsted street a peculiar looking wagon was driven across in Eighteenth street, and it was immediately followed on a run. The driver paid no heed at first to calls to stop, but the pursuers gained rapidly and soon were alongside.

The wagon was without a cover and contained a number of milk cans. It had no license tag, but the driver, John Oballi, 886 West Eighteenth street, explained this by saying his regular wagon had been broken. He was told he must obey the ordinances.

Morris Cohen, whose dairy is at 640 South Sangamon street, was encountered at Maxwell and Waller streets. A dirty horse blanket covered with horse hair was lying on the bottom of the wagon against the cans, and a sample of his can milk and one taken from a bottle were found to be watered.

When G. Bethke was met at Ewing and Jefferson streets he tried to avoid the investigating party, saying he had to stop a few doors down the street. He was not allowed to get out of sight, and a sample taken from his wagon was found to be below grade.

Belligerent Dealer Fined.

W. Kessan, a milk dealer at 852 West Twenty-second street, was fined $1 and costs in each of three cases in Justice Walter Gibbons' court during the morning. The charges were selling milk without a license, resisting an officer, and assault and battery. Inspector Weiss was the complainant.

The trouble between the milk inspector and milk man occurred on the morning of June 5. Mr. Weiss stopped Kessan and asked to be allowed to see his license.

"You are trying to get into my business," Kessan replied.

Then an altercation arose and Kessan attacked Weiss.

"You must respect a milk inspector," said Justice Gibbons. "I will fine you $1 and costs in each case to impress the fact on your mind."

SERIOUS BURNS FOR THREE.

Woman and Two Children Injured, the Former Through Her Efforts to Save.

Grasping two children whose clothes were on fire Mrs. Frances Muccal ran screaming from her house at 96 Bismarck court yesterday afternoon and fell fainting on the sidewalk. By this time her clothing also had become ignited, and all three were severely burned before the flames were smothered by neighbors who had hurried to their aid. A stove-polishing compound had caught fire while the woman was absent from the room and set fire to the dresses of her 5-year-old son, Frank, and a playmate, Mary Columba. The burns of the children are serious, and it is feared Mrs. Muccal may die.

TO ASK FRANCHISE AT NEXT SESSION

Alderman Mavor Says City Railway Will Present Application Wednesday.

COUNCIL TO FRAME BILL.

Formal Complaint Made That the Building Ordinance Is Being Violated.

Alderman William Mavor of the Committee on Local Transportation was authority yesterday for the statement that the Chicago City railway company would come into the Council at its meeting next Wednesday with an application for an ordinance extending its franchise. The understanding is the company will not present a formal ordinance, but will request that the Committee on Local Transportation frame one for submission to the Council.

As was stated in THE TRIBUNE some time ago, this company has been anxious to comply with the Palmer order, which requested all companies desiring extensions to come before the Council before June 15, but had delayed in the hope the Committee on Local Transportation would draw up an ordinance, as had been originally intended.

Building Ordinance Complaint.

Ex-Assistant City Controller Halsey made complaint at the Building department that the building ordinance was being violated at Diversey avenue and Clark street, where the Schoenhofen Brewing company is erecting a frame structure. Originally a one-story building was changed to a two-story one, and now, Mr. Halsey says, a fifteen foot addition is being made without permit. Mr. Halsey says the place is to be used as a beer garden, and added:

"It is not the fifteen foot addition I am protesting against especially, but the principle of the thing. I believe the building ordinance should be as strictly observed in the outlying as in the down-town district, and these 'mild violations' the department acknowledges should not be permitted."

Building Commissioner Kiolbassa explained that the permit to change the one-story building to two stories had been granted by the Council.

Rush for Building Permits.

The Building department reports an unusual rush for permits for buildings since the Mayor ordinance providing new and more stringent requirements was introduced. The idea is that prospective builders are anxious to get their permits before the Mayor ordinance becomes a law. In the meantime it is proposed that the Aldermen who compose the committee to which the ordinance was referred take trips throughout the city with representatives of the Builders and Owners' association to get better acquainted with building conditions.

"Chicago is not all Ghetto," said C. W. Mills of the association; "and it would be a good idea for the Aldermen to get a fuller grasp of the situation before acting. We are strongly in favor of the provision requiring absolute fireproofing, but we are opposed to all guesswork regarding specialties used in building."

The makeup of this proposed committee of visitation is to be: Aldermen Mavor, Young, Ehemann, and Dever, Miss Jane Addams, S. D. Tippett, I. H. Schoen, Thomas R. Bishop, and John R. Lyman.

Suggests Plot Against Bridges.

Mayor Harrison said yesterday, mostly in jest, but with some degree of earnestness, that he was beginning to believe the steamboat men were in a combination to knock down what few bridges the city has left. The fact that three of the structures have been rammed by steamers within twenty-four hours caused the Mayor to remark:

"It looks as if the river men have a grudge against the bridges and are trying to put them out of business. One thing is certain, the city will collect heavy damages from all such accidents so as to make the practice unpopular if it is being done purposely."

Bridgetenders say the chance of damage to the boat is too great for owners to take any risk of collision, and ascribe recent accidents to the fact that owing to the tugmen's strike only a few tugs are in commission, and they are not powerful enough to handle the heavy boats.

More Tax on Insurance Companies.

It was announced by the Board of Assessors yesterday that this year insurance companies doing business in Chicago will be taxed the same as other corporations. Formerly the only personal tax paid by these companies was on their office fixtures, but the proposal is to assess the credits, cash on hand, and other assets in the State.

TWO MEN ENTANGLED IN FISH NET AND DROWNED.

Accident in a Family Party in Pennsylvania Costs Lives—Women Stand on the Bank and See Relatives Perish.

Kittanning, Pa., June 12.—Two men lost their lives and a third was probably fatally injured at Rosston this afternoon by drowning.

The dead:
HILEMAN, ANDREW, aged 55 years; married.
BAILEY, KIRK JR., aged 19 years; single.

The injured:
Bailey, Dwight, aged 43 years; married.

The Bailey and Hileman families, about sixteen in all, left their homes in Rosston and went to the banks of Crooked Run, a short distance away, about 4 o'clock this afternoon. They had a fishing net with them. The net finally became entangled. After vainly endeavoring to release the net Kirk Bailey swam out to see what the trouble was. As he approached the net he suddenly called for help, saying that his feet had become entangled in the net.

Andrew Hileman started to his rescue. As Hileman approached, the fatal net also wrapped around his feet. Dwight Bailey, father of the struggling boy, now jumped into the water and started to release the imprisoned men. When he neared the net he was caught. Finally, A. B. Bailey, brother of Dwight, succeeded in rescuing his brother and getting him to the shore in an unconscious condition. Hileman and Bailey are well known and quite wealthy.

STEAMERS COLLIDE IN RIVER.

Passengers Frightened by the Crash, but No One Is Injured—Both Boats Continue Trips.

While coming to its dock at the foot of Wabash avenue early last evening the steamer Soo City of the Graham & Morton line was run into by the steamer Puritan of the same line. The Soo City's cabin was crushed in for some distance, but the steamer left at 11 o'clock on its regular run to Holland. Considerable excitement prevailed on board the Soo City when it was struck, but no one was injured. The collision occurred just at the dock as the Puritan was cast off for a trip across the lake. The Puritan continued its trip without delay.

TWO POISONED BY EATING SOUP

Mother and Son in Serious Condition—Tainted Meat Suggested as the Cause.

Mrs. Fantley Rattzes, 2340 One Hundred and Eleventh street, and her 4-year-old son, Henry, are at the point of death as the result of eating poisoned soup. The meat for the soup was purchased at a neighboring shop. Shortly after dinner Mrs. Rattzes and two children were taken suddenly ill. Dr. J. W. Was, 2622 One Hundred and Eleventh street, was summoned. James, 8 months old, had eaten but little of the soup and it is not thought his condition is serious. The physician gave it as his opinion, it is said, that tainted meat was responsible for the condition of the mother and children.

ARREST GANG OF KIDNAPERS.

Butte, Mont., Police Claim to Have Found Wholesale Plot to Steal Children and Others.

Butte, Mont., June 12.—[Special.]—The police today unfolded a conspiracy to do wholesale kidnaping business among the wealthy families of Butte, and the leader of the band, Sam Consetine, is under arrest.

An attempt was made several days ago to kidnap 12-year-old Hazel Gindrup, niece of Harry Simons, a wealthy merchant. A day later an attempt was made to steal the infant child of William Symons. The arrest of Consetine and three others followed.

Consetine is an Italian, and his countrymen say he was a brigand in Italy. He tried to induce his employé, Harry Keller, to join the band. Keller revealed the plot.

Consetine had a list of people from whom to select victims, including the youngest son of Senator W. A. Clark, Mrs. Lulu F. Largey of Butte and New York, and a number of the leading merchants, bankers, and mining men. Consetine has accomplices in Chicago.

SALVATION BRIDAL COUPLE GO TO ALTAR IN RAGTIME.

Ensigns Alfred Whitney and Elizabeth Sudworth of Englewood Corps Principals in Unique Wedding.

To the strains of ragtime, Ensign Alfred Whitney and Ensign Elizabeth Sudworth of the Englewood corps of the Salvation Army marched on to the stage last night to be married. After the ceremony, instead of being Mendelssohned out of church, they took their seats to the tune of "Break the News to Mother."

The wedding took place in Boulevard Hall, Halsted and Fifty-fifth streets, and officers and privates from all the Salvation Army corps in the city paid their ten cents to see their comrades married.

After a concert outside the hall the band took its place on the stage, and the wedding party filed in. Two little flower girls, carrying big bouquets of carnations, came first. They were Emily and Edith Bovill, nieces of the bride. Then came the bridemaid, Miss Emily Sudworth, and the bride, wearing the regulation blue army uniforms with the addition of white silk sashes over their right shoulders. Following them came Colonel Charles Sowton, who performed the ceremony, and then the bridegroom and his best man, his brother, Arthur Whitney, the only allen in the Salvation crowd.

When the two Ensigns, standing under the flags of the Salvation Army and the United States, had been pronounced man and wife, the big bass drum broke out in applause, which was followed up loudly by the crowd. Then the officers present made speeches, and it came the turn of the bridegroom.

"Friends," said he, "I'm glad to be here tonight."

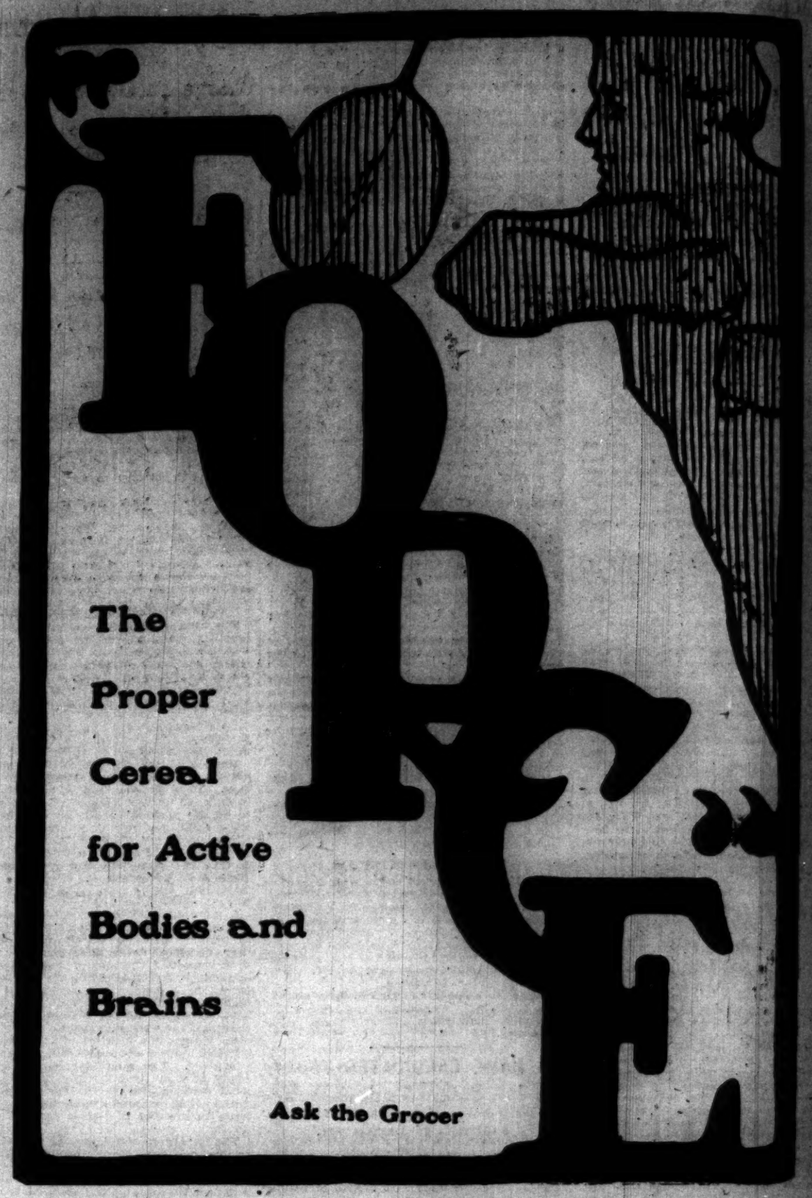

"Of course you are," said Colonel Sowton, and the laughter and applause stopped the speeches.

"I'm glad to be here," said the bridegroom in his attempt; and a voice from the band said:

"Sure you are."

When the laughter and noise subsided Brigadier Damon walked to the front of the stage and said quietly:

WALLER TELLS OF SAMAR WARFARE.

DID NOT TORTURE THEM.

Declares Little Island the Hottest Corner of the Earth He Ever Saw.

San Francisco, Cal., June 12.—[Special.]—Major Littleton Waller, who was recently acquitted by court-martial in Manila for executing eleven natives of Samar, arrived on the transport Warren today, and will leave direct for Washington tomorrow. He is suffering from a severe cold, but otherwise is in good condition. He said in regard to his case:

"I have completely recovered my strength, and were it not for my eyes I would be as sound as ever. My eyes were attacked by a small insect while struggling through the jungles, and I came as near losing them as a man wants to.

"Samar is about as fierce a country as there is on the face of the globe. I have fought in every country except Australia, and hades is a winter resort compared to Samar.

"My troubles are over, I think, at least as far as courts-martial are concerned. The charge against me was for murder practically. I pleaded not guilty to the charge but guilty to the specification, which was that on Jan. 20, 1902, at Basey, Samar, in time of war, I had killed or ordered to be shot and killed eleven natives, whose names are immaterial.

Ordered the Natives Shot.

"I did give the orders, but I believed I was acting under orders of a superior officer. The circumstances were unusual, but as I had plenty of precedent for the act I do not think I did anything wrong. It was a case of being right or wrong, and my contention was I was right, and the court sustained me. The censure of General Chaffee is a surprise to me, but as the orders were issued after we left Manila of course I knew nothing of it."

The Major described the horrors of the expedition across Samar, and then added:

"The execution was done at my orders. Eleven natives, of whom two had been prisoners but whom we released on their showing friendliness and a willingness to help, were shot. One attempted to get away, but was shot in the water after he jumped into a river. No, sir, there was no attempt at torturing the natives; that report was spread by an officer who also said other things that were not so. We had no communication with General Smith at the time, and I was acting as commander in that province."

Captain Porter, who accompanies Waller, substantiates all that the Major says in regard to the trip and the events that followed. He was one of the witnesses for Major Waller, and testified that General Smith had issued the orders which resulted in the Smith court-martial.

Convicted Officer Free.

Among the passengers who came in on the transport Warren was Captain Frank W. Barrowes, late of the Thirtieth Infantry, United States Volunteers, one of the officers who was court-martialed in Manila a little over a year ago for alleged frauds committed in the Commissary department.

Barrowes was convicted and sentenced to a term of five years' imprisonment in the United States penitentiary, but, although he has served only a small portion of his sentence, he finds an order for his release from custody awaiting him here. This release is due to the Supreme Court decision in the Deming case.

Many Soldiers Come Home.

The Warren also brought 300 marines and 850 casual and short term men. Company I of the Ninth Infantry, commanded by Captain Fred. Palmer, which made up a portion of the relief column that entered Pekin, and which saw desperate fighting at Tien-Tsin and Samar, is among the detachments brought back.

CHICAGOANS IN A PARIS COURT.

Two Men and a Woman Accused of Robbing American Express Office in French Capital.

PARIS, June 12.—The trial of George Miller, "Eddie" Guerin of Chicago, and May Churchill, known as "Chicago May," who were arrested in Paris last summer, the two former charged with having entered the offices of the American Express company here the night of April 26, 1901, and stealing $4,000, and May Churchill with being their accomplice, began here today. Miller accused Guerin of the theft, whereupon the latter became furious and endeavored to strike his accuser.

It was announced from London on April 10 last that three men named Grosberger, Lewis, and Juger had been sentenced respectively to five years' imprisonment at penal servitude, eighteen months at hard labor, and ten months at hard labor for having had illegal possession of twenty-two bank notes stolen from the American Express company's office in Paris. It is said that all the money stolen at that time has been recovered.

Mr. Champ expects to find the America in about 82 degrees. If Mr. Baldwin has succeeded in his dash to the pole he will be brought back. Otherwise the Frithjof will leave a well equipped sledge party to search for Mr. Baldwin. The Frithjof will return on Oct. 1 at the latest.

Liquidator of London and Globe Corporation Beaten in Claim for $5,000,000.

London, June 12.—The claim for $5,000,000 damages brought by the liquidator of the London and Globe corporation against a financial syndicate resulted today in a verdict in favor of the defendants. The plaintiff contended that the defendant syndicate agreed to advance the London and Globe $5,000,000 to tide over its difficulties. The verdict deprives the liquidator of a big asset, on which he counted to recoup the creditors of the Whitaker-Wright companies for their losses.

DEEDS HOME TO JOHN P. ALTGELD'S WIDOW.

For a nominal consideration Joseph M. Loughlin, a private banker, has released his claim upon the residence of the late John P. Altgeld and deeded the place to the widow of the ex-Governor. For some time previous to his death John P. Altgeld lived at 3225 Malden avenue in Sheridan Park. The deed for the property with such holdings as he had upon the property had been registered in the county records, and Mrs. Altgeld is to have the place. There is yet an incumbrance of $4,500 on the place, but there is a move to relieve the widow of this indebtedness.

FILIPINOS NEED FIRM GRIP

SOLDIER DEFENDS SEVERITY AS JUSITFIABLE.

Former Private in Volunteer Regiment Tells Senate Committee on Philippines That Natives of the Island Do Not Appreciate Humane Treatment—Look Upon It as a Confession of Weakness—Another Witness Describes the Water Cure.

Washington, D. C., June 12.—[Special.]—The Senate Committee on the Philippines today listened to a soldier witness, who declared that the severity practiced by American troops in the islands was necessary and justifiable.

The witness was Edward J. Norton of Los Angeles, late private in Company L, Eighteenth United States Infantry, at the afternoon session. He served two years in the Island of Panay. Answering questions by Senator Culberson, Mr. Norton stated that, except in isolated cases, the treatment accorded the natives by United States soldiers "was humane and all that could be expected or desired."

He said that the Filipinos regarded the kindness of the troops toward them as a weakness and became bold in consequence; also that the general understanding in the army was that the policy of General Hughes was one of kindness and humanity.

He took issue with Senator Culberson on the subject of the burning of villages, and declared it to be a military necessity.

Tells of the Water Cure.

Mark H. Evans of Des Moines, Ia., formerly a sergeant of Company F, Thirty-second Volunteer Infantry, testified concerning the administration of the water cure to Filipinos on four different occasions during his service in the islands. He also related the particulars of the burning of several native villages. Three of the cases of water cure occurred outside the town. In one case the cure was administered by native scouts and in the others by an American soldier.

The first case occurred at a little town where there were supposed to be some insurgents. The scouts picked out the suspected people, and taking one of them to a nearby creek, poured a quantity of water into his mouth from a canteen. The purpose in this as in other cases was to secure a confession.

On another occasion during an expedition to neighboring islands the witness said that he had seen an American soldier take two suspected natives into the water and duck them, holding them under for perhaps half a minute at a time. He secured a confession as to the hiding of guns in one case, but none in the other.

Why Villages Were Burned.

Evans said he had been present at the burning of four or five native villages and that the destruction of those places had been due to the presence of insurgents. The orders were to destroy all the native huts along the coast near the mountains for thirty miles in Batan Province so as to force the natives to come in, and this, he said, was done.

Replying to questions by Senator Beveridge, the witness said the orders to the troops were to treat the natives humanely. The natives had not, on the other hand, shown any appreciation of this consideration. They refused to divulge information in their possession, and in many cases they subjected the American troops to indignities. In one case, he said, where two soldiers were killed, their ears were cut off.

ECHOES OF DREYFUS SCANDAL.

Joseph Reinach Ordered to Pay Nominal Damages to the Widow of Colonel Henry.

PARIS, June 12.—As a result of the suit begun in January, 1899, by Mme. Henry, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Henry, against Joseph Reinach, former editor of the Siecle, and against that paper, 200,000 francs damages being claimed for alleged injury to herself through the accusations made against her deceased husband by M. Reinach in the Siecle, the court today condemned M. Reinach and the manager of the Siecle to pay 500 francs to the widow, 500 francs to her son, and the costs of the action.

Lieutenant Colonel Henry committed suicide in prison after having confessed to the forgery of a document in the Dreyfus case.

The court said it took into account the good faith of the defendants, and the absence of any intention on their part to injure the widow and orphan, and also the circumstances under which they acted "after the revelation of the odious crime committed by him against whose memory they produced their imprudent allegations."

CHEAP SEATS TO SEE KING

CORONATION STANDS IN LONDON BEG FOR BUYERS.

Entire Route of Both Processions Lined with Amphitheaters—Not One Place in Thirty Sold — Prices Fall from $25 to $10 and May Go as Low as a Few Shillings—Edward VII. Lets It Be Known That He Will Be Displeased if Benches Are Empty.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 12.—Coronation seats are almost going begging for buyers. Not one seat in thirty has been sold, and yet vast stands are rising along the routes of both days' processions.

People were asking $25 a week ago for seats are now offering good positions for $10, and there are few buyers even at that reduced rate.

It is understood that the King has intimated that he will be gravely displeased if the route of the procession on coronation day is lined by rows of empty seats, and speculators and builders will practically be compelled, if their seats are not sold at big prices, to let them go on coronation day at a few shillings apiece.

Why Public Is Backward.

The reason for the public backwardness seems to be partly the memory of the ease with which the crowd in the streets saw the diamond jubilee in 1897 without any particular crush.

The king's displeasure is particularly aimed at a number of lords, who refuse to take the trouble of attending the coronation. Truth mentions a large number of peers, who have intimated to the earl marshal, that they will not be present for the reason that they are not prepared to meet the manifold expenses involved.

King Inspects Westminster.

The King and Queen visited Westminster Abbey this afternoon and inspected the arrangements that have been made there for the coronation. Viscount Esher, Director of Ceremonies in the Abbey, explained to their Majesties that there had already been rehearsals of their parts by the Lords and Ladies in waiting so that it would be unnecessary to instruct them regarding their movements during the actual ceremonies.

First Coronation Poem.

The first coronation poem appears today. It is William Watson's "Ode on the Coronation of King Edward VII." It defends the splendor of the decoration and the pageantry. It says:

> Let London nestle with rich appareling,
> And the ways with festal laces;
> Casement and coign and fluttering balcony

Wants Big Hats Forbidden.

In the House of Commons today W. R. Cremer, member of Parliament for Shoreditch, sought the help of the First Commissioner of Works with a view to procuring a limitation in the size of hats to be worn by women occupying stands in Old and New Palace yards on the occasion of the passage of the coronation processions.

The stands in question, which are adjacent to the Parliament buildings, are allotted to the use of members of Parliament and their friends, and Mr. Cremer's plea was that legislators should have an unintercepted view of the display.

The commissioner replied that he was unable to prescribe any such conditions as desired by Mr. Cremer.

Coronation Regalia Moved.

For the first time in their history for the last sixty-four years the regalia of England have been removed from their time-honored home in the Tower. They are now in the care of the Lord Chamberlain, from whose office they will be taken to the Abbey on the day before the coronation.

PERIL SEEN IN SHIP COMBINE.

President of the French Chamber of Deputies Expatiates on the Danger in Morgan's Plans.

PARIS, June 12.—M. Etienne, Vice President of the Chamber of Deputies, was interviewed today regarding his letter sent on Tuesday to the Minister of Commerce, M. Trouillot, on the subject of the American shipping combine. He said the combine constituted a national peril for France, adding that a similar combine might be formed for the Mediterranean.

"I do not believe," he continued, "that Mr. Morgan made propositions to the French Transatlantic company, because he thought it was in such a precarious condition that it could easily be overcome. While I doubt his success will be so easy, still I think it necessary to provide for an eventuality. This is why I am calling on the government to intervene.

"The danger from an economic viewpoint is great, but there is also danger from a military point of view. All the ships in the combine will fly the American flag, and in case of war the United States could utilize them as cruisers, and our American colonies, which are so ardently coveted by American imperialism, might be endangered."

Michael Herbert Visits Choate.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 12.—Michael Herbert, the British Ambassador-designate to the United States, arrived in London this morning, and called at the Foreign office, where he had an interview with the Prime Minister, the Marquis of Salisbury. He afterwards visited the United States Embassy and had a long conference with Ambassador Choate.

FRANCE URGED TO DISARM

ALSACE-LORRAINE DECLARED TO BE LOST FOREVER.

At Opening Debate of Parliament M. Jaures, the Socialist Leader, Makes a Passionate Plea for the New Ministry to Take the Lead in Disarming — Declares Franco-Russian Alliance Insures Captured Provinces to Germany—Vote of Confidence.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, June 12.—The new French ministry won its first victory in the Chamber of Deputies today and was sustained by a vote of 329 to 124. The figures show the voting strength of the combination supporting the policy of Premier Combes.

The debate was enlivened by a passionate plea by M. Jaures, the Socialist leader, for the disarmament of France and the substitution of a militia system for the present standing army.

Alsace-Lorraine Lost Forever.

M. Jaures declared that the question of Alsace-Lorraine could no longer stand in the way of disarmament.

He declared that the Franco-Russian alliance—originally formed to support French claims to Alsace-Lorraine—had now become the principle agency in insuring to Germany the peaceable occupation of those provinces. This statement caused a sensation in the Chamber and brought out vigorous protests from the members of the right.

M. Jaures concluded, amid cheers from the Socialists, by asserting that disarmament was the best means to assure social reforms.

First Debate of Session.

The chmaber and the galleries were filled when the debate—the first of the session—began. According to the prearranged program, M. Bussiere (Radical) moved an interpellation of the general policy of the government, and said he hoped it would show the same firmness as its predecessors in defending the republic.

M. Bussiere urged the government to firmly carry out the Radical program and introduce measures tending to the separation of church and state, and providing for a progressive income tax and the partial purchase of the railroads by the state.

M. Jaures, in behalf of the Socialists, declared they would collaborate with the republican and reform policy.

The Minister of Finance, M. Rouvier, interposed, saying: "We intend to make economies in all the services."

M. Jaures said he was pleased by the government's promise to vigorously enfore the law of associations; but he regretted that the powers of the clergy were not further curtailed, and hoped that the reduction of the period of military service to two years would be the first step in the formation of a militia system. He continued at some length along the line indicated in the foregoing.

M. Jaures was followed by M. Sembat, who spoke for the uncompromising Socialists. He attacked the moderation of the government and said he would vote against it.

New Premier Declares Policy.

Replying to M. Sembat, M. Combes, the Premier, said that the recent elections had shown that the nation approved the policy of the last Cabinet and desired its continuation, and that this was the purpose of the government. After entering upon details of his policy, M. Combes concluded by saying that the Cabinet's attitude was one of combating nationalism and clericalism.

After listening to a speech by M. Ribot, (Republican) in which the speaker dwelt upon the vagueness of the ministerial declaration, the Chamber adopted a vote of confidence in the government by 329 votes to 124, worded as follows:

"The Chamber expresses its confidence in the government to apply the policy of laicism, fiscal reform, and social solidarity."

The Chamber then adjourned until next Monday.

CARDINALS AND TAFT TO MEET.

Three Members of the Vatican Commission to Negotiate Over the Philippines Are Named.

[Copyright: 1902: By the New York Tribune.]
[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, June 12.—All the documents which Governor Taft is to present to the Vatican and which have been carefully printed with explanatory notes by Bishop O'Gorman and Major Porter were distributed tonight to the Cardinals. Up to the present those appointed to treat with Governor Taft number three—Rampolla, Secretary of State, and one of the leading candidates for the Papacy, known for his strong Francophile policy; Serafino Vannutelli, also a candidate for the Papacy, but entirely of the opposite camp, and called the candidate of the triple alliance, because he is disliked by France; and Vives y Tuto, the most enlightened among the Spanish Cardinals.

What is important to emphasize is the fact that Rampolla and Vannutelli, although representing two opposite factions, are both favorable to Governor Taft's propositions as a whole, as is Vives, who belongs to the Capuchins, against which order no special measures are to be taken in the Philippines. This attitude principally is due to the fact that the Pope, speaking to the Cardinals, firmly expressed a desire for an amicable understanding with America.

Some believe that to the three already named will be added Gotti, the Carmelite monk, and a candidate for the Papacy should the next conclave decide on a non-political Pope. Gotti is rather favorable to Taft's propositions. Steinhuber, a Jesuit, is somewhat against Taft. He thinks the Philippines, not being annexed to America, are still conquered territory, where the constitution, laws, and rights of the United States have no validity. Therefore, he thinks the Washington government cannot expropriate the land of the friars, being obliged to observe the Paris treaty, which pledged it to respect all property rights. He thinks only the native revolutionary element is against the friars.

The Cardinals appointed to negotiate with that meet privately next Monday. Serafino Vannutelli returned the visit of Governor Taft today and their conversation was most cordial.

FIGHT IN VIENNA REICHSRATH.

Leaders of the Pan-German Party in Austrian Parliament Come to Blows.

CANADA DISOWNS EMPIRE LEAGUE.

MORE INTEREST IN SHIPS.

Need for Rival to the Big American Combine Regarded as Urgent.

[Copyright: 1902: By the New York Tribune.]
[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, June 13, 3 a. m.—Colonel Denison is moving too rapidly and talking too freely to suit the views of old-fashioned colonials. Dr. Borden, one of the Dominion Ministers now here for the coronation, said last night:

"Without reference to the merits or disadvantages of the Zollverein policies advocated by Colonel Denison, I have this to say—namely: that he does not represent Canada or the Dominion ministry, but himself alone. He has no authority to speak for Canada."

Colonel Denison has made a marked impression here by advocating a special tariff on all foreign goods at all British ports for imperial defense, and the Australians are showing signs of resistance to the Zollverein proposals and are contending that the plan is impracticable since it will be unjust to ask England to tax herself heavily for the benefit of the colonies.

If Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Canadian Minister are as cool and critical as Borden, Colonel Denison can have litle hope of influencing the conference of colonial Premiers, especially with Sir Michael Hicks-Beach a heavy drag on the wheels of state.

Interest in Shipping Question.

The shipping question appeals more directly to Englishmen than the policy of free trade within the empire and a common tariff outside. A well informed Dominion official said yesterday that no decisive action had yet been taken, but that there were strong grounds for the belief that the British government was preparing to join Canada in an effective subsidy policy.

George Penwick, member of Parliament for Newcastle, and a representative owner of tramp ships, was the principal witness before the steamship Subsidies committee yesterday. Like Sir Robert Giffen he saw danger in the Atlantic combine. He said all ships in the combine could in a quarter of an hour be transferred to the American flag. He advocated the appointment of a Minister of Shipping.

The British Empire league has decided that the question of maintaining a first-class steamship service between the United Kingdom and Canada can no longer be delayed without prejudice to imperial interests.

Lancashire does not relish being so largely dependent upon the United States for its supply of raw cotton. At a meeting of leading representatives of the manufacturing industry held at Manchester yesterday it was resolved to form a British Cotton association, with the object of extending the cultivation of cotton in the British colonies and protectorates.

American Visitors in London.

General Wilson and Admiral Watson are staying temporarily at Claridge's, but will be guests of the crown at Buckingham Palace Hotel as soon as the coronation festivities open. Each has two aids. General Wilson is accompanied by his two daughters. The members of the American special embassy and the ladies with them will be presented at court tonight.

Choate Gives Another Dinner.

Ambassador Choate had another large dinner party last night in honor of Special Ambassador Reid and Miss Reid. The Dukes and Duchesses of Sutherland, Wellington, and Marlborough, the French Ambassador, the Turkish Minister, the Japanese Minister, Lord and Lady Beauclerc, Lord and Lady De Grey, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary Brodrick, Mr. and Mrs. Cavendish Bentinck, and Percy Wyndham were among the guests. The artistic arrangement of flowers is always a feature of Ambassador Choate's parties.

Mrs. Laurens Townsend, wife of the American Minister to Belgium, is in London.

H. Clay Evans, the new Consul General has been welcomed by his associates at the consulate.

"David Garrick" Revived.

"David Garrick" was revived last night at Wyndham's Theater, and George Hawtrey, known chiefly as a versatile low comedian, invited judgment on his merits as a playwright at the Comedy Theater. His play amused and entertained the audience.

NOT TO THREATEN VENEZUELA.

Kaiser's Warships Sent to La Guayra Only to Protect German Interests, Not to Enforce Demands.

BERLIN, June 12.—The Foreign office here is without details of the reported bombardment of the seaport of La Guayra, Venezuela, by the forts and Venezuelan warships in consequence of a revolutionary movement in the suburbs. The Foreign office says that the German cruisers Gazelle and Falk were ordered to La Guira simply to safeguard German interests there, and that their presence in Venezuelan waters is in no way connected with Germany's long-pending claims against Venezuela. As soon as order is restored the cruisers in question will leave Venezuela.

AIRSHIP INVENTOR IS FREE.

German Accused of Gulling the Public Declared to Have Been Acting in Good Faith.

BERLIN, June 12.—Hermann Ganswindt, the airship inventor, who was arrested last April on the charge of deception and forgery and gulling the public into subscribing for shares of an aeroplane company, was given his freedom today.

It was found when Ganswindt was arrested that among others he had forged the name of Duke Ernst Gunther of Schleswig-Holstein, Emperor William's brother-in-law.

The experts selected by the court to examine the models of Herr Ganswindt's airship have decided that the inventor was probably acting in good faith, and that there is sufficient merit in his contrivances to disprove the charge of conscious swindling. The case against him was dismissed.

MAFIA VENDETTA BREAKS OUT ANEW IN NEW ORLEANS.

House of an Italian Family Stormed and Two of Its Occupants Killed—Brother of One of the Murdered Men Takes Revenge by Shooting the Supposed Slayer During the Funeral—Police Powerless to Stop the Fights and More Trouble Is Feared.

New Orleans, La., June 12.—[Special.]—As the result of a vendetta, which bears every mark of the Mafia, three Sicilians have been killed within the last twenty hours and three others are badly wounded. Two of the men were killed last night, when the stronghold of the Luciana family was stormed by the Geracchis and Calamias.

The third man was murdered this afternoon under circumstances unprecedented. He had joined the funeral cortège of one of the Lucianas, and was standing with the mourners when he was shot down by a brother of the dead man, who had just been released from prison under bond.

The vendetta first came to the surface on May 7, when Salvadore and Antonio Luciana, prosperous merchants of the Italian quarter, made an attempt upon the lives of Charles Di Christini and Francois Genova. Both the Lucianas were arrested, but released on bond. They never flattered themselves that they would be left for the law to deal with, but, well knowing the reprisal which would follow, laid in a big stock of arms and ammunition and fortified their home.

House Stormed by Armed Men.

Last night Salvadore and Antonio were at home. With them was Louis Luciana, a cousin, and Vincezo Vetura. They were playing cards. Suddenly the street door burst open and six armed men broke into the room, opening fire as they came. The Lucianas rushed for their weapons and Vetura drew a revolver. In a second the room was clouded with smoke.

When the shock of conflict was passed Salvadore Luciana and Vetura were stretched dead on the floor. Two members of the attacking party were so badly wounded that their capture was effected. They were Joseph Geracchi, shot in the groin, probably fatally, and Joseph Calamia, shot in the hand and forearm. Try as they might the police could not find out who the other four of the invading force were. Christini and Genova are suspected.

Later Murder Gives Clew.

The shooting this afternoon identified a third. Antonio Luciana and his cousin Louis were locked up as material witnesses. This afternoon they were released under bond. Antonio at once went to his home.

The funeral ceremonies attendant upon the burial of his brother Salvadore were under way. On the sidewalk in front of the house stood Barcello Ferreri. Antonio noticed him as he entered the residence. A moment later and he had reappeared with a shotgun. Without a word of warning he emptied both barrels into Ferreri's head and then commenced battering his skull with the gun stock.

"He killed my brother Salvadore," exclaimed Antonio, as he was placed under arrest. Little Italy is in a ferment tonight and more killings are feared by the police. The citizens are wrought up over the situation, fearing that the Mafia is reawakening.

CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Erroneous Dispatch from Omaha Names John Larson, Found Insane, as Former Chicago Alderman.

In a dispatch sent on Wednesday night from Omaha and printed in Chicago newspapers, including THE TRIBUNE, John Larson, who was found insane in the Nebraska city, was said to be "John Larson, for two terms a Chicago Alderman." John A. Larson, 305 Wells street, is the former Chicago Alderman, and was in Chicago when the insane John Larson was found in Omaha. Ex-Alderman Larson declares that he has been in Omaha but once, more than fourteen years ago, when he was there for three days. The ex-Alderman is a prosperous contractor and real estate man, and never has experienced financial reverses. The John Larson of Omaha is 68 years old, while ex-Alderman Larson is 48 and hale and hearty, never having suffered mental or physical disease. THE TRIBUNE regrets publishing the story from Omaha, as it is a plain case of mistaken identity.

VON ROUSE RUNS IN SECOND PLACE

Derby Candidate Finishes Second to Dandola After Meeting with Ill Luck.

John A. Drake's $15,000 Bend Or—Venue colt Von Rouse was beaten by Chinn & Forsythe's Odd Fellow—Sister to Pendleton II. colt High Chancellor after a stirring struggle the last sixteenth part of the journey.

The defeat of this supposedly best youngster in the West was the surprise of the day at Harlem yesterday. His previous performances stood out so strong he was conceded the race by nearly every man who professed to have horse sense, and 9 to 20 was considered a good price against him. The question of who would win was never asked nor even considered. What the public wanted to know was which of the other seven starters would finish in the notches behind Drake's high-priced colt, and High Chancellor and Mirance were the most favored.

Von Rouse Concedes Weight.

Von Rouse gave weight to every horse in the race, but his reputation as a weight carrier was such his admirers had no fear as to the result. The weight did undoubtedly hamper him some, still he should have won even after High Chancellor nailed him when near home, as with his neck in front and within a few strides of the wire Jockey Lyne grappled for his whip, thereby losing control of his mount at the crucial moment. This poor judgment on the part of Lyne might not have changed the result, but a number of close students of racing argued that it did.

Von Rouse had nothing to complain of as to ill luck. He got away third, led by a half length at the end of the first furlong, and therefore had clear sailing. He swung wide at the stretch turn, however, which cost him some space, but with all that he was in command when straightened out for home. Mirance, who was his nearest contender at the eighth pole, hung to him for a spell, then fell back in favor of the Oddfellow colt, who came strong at this point. Once within striking distance Conley rode for all that was in him and nosed out the Bend Or colt. It was a well contested struggle, with plenty of applause for the winner.

Andy Williams Is Beaten.

The opening event saw the defeat of the Derby aspirant, Andy Williams. It was hardly a true test of Andy's abilities, as he had bad racing luck. Off next to last, he was pocketed, cut off, and interfered with numerous times. He was lengths out of it at the head of the stretch, came strong, and beat out Blennenworth for the place. With good racing luck he would undoubtedly have won handily. Blennenworth, if of any account, ought to have won, as he had his field by several lengths until within hailing distance of the wire, where he "pegged" out.

Rome Respass' Sir Dixon horse, Six Shooter, one of the starters in last year's Derby, made his first bow of the season in the third race, a seven-furlong affair, which he won hands down. Incidentally the Shooter horse was touted as a sure deliverer of the goods, and was therefore backed heavily.

The betting suggested a difficult problem to pick the winner, and every horse was backed. Carl Kahler, one of the subjects of a plunge, had plenty of early speed and proved it by showing the way well into the stretch, when he fagged and was beaten out by Six Shooter and Scarlet Lily.

Sam Hildreth captured first and second money in the handicap, but only by a small margin. Ten yards from the wire Lucien Appleby and Prowl, the extreme outsiders, were struggling for supremacy, heads apart, when along came Hermencia from nowhere in particular and beat out his stable companion by a scant half length. Prowl was third, a head behind Appleby.

Track Notes.

Jockey L. A. Jackson will not be permitted to ride Lavator hereafter.

The bookmakers chalked 20 to 1 against Trentham, but cut it to 8 to 1 in a jiffy and took but little at the opening price.

Last Knight showed some of his class in the sixth race. Off among the trailers, he ran around his field and galloped home by himself.

King's Lady was played for a good thing, but the long delay at the post and the number of breakaways killed whatever chances she may have had of winning.

Charley Brossman, known throughout the turf world as the successful trainer of the ex-queen of the turf, Imp, has discovered a new system to beat the races. It is, play Pat Dunne's horses in the stakes, Sam Hildreth's in the handicaps, and Pa Bradley's "in the money."

George Bennett's Aladdin, Turney Bros.' Glenwater, and B. Schreiber's Otis were shipped to St. Louis last night to start in the Derby tomorrow. W. Dean went along to ride Otis. Hawthorne trainers say Glenwater has done the best work of any of these colts. Dean arrived from Canada yesterday.

Jockey J. Woods was yesterday engaged to ride one of S. C. Hildreth's horses in the Derby. Woods believes he will have the mount on McChesney, the best in the Hildreth stable. Woods will ride Flora Pomona in the St. Louis Derby tomorrow. Jockeys Otis and Mathews will also have mounts in the St. Louis classic. Mathews will have the leg up on Glenwater. The latter worked one and one-quarter miles yesterday on a slow track and with Derby weight up in 2:17.

HOMESTEAD RUNS DERBY ROUTE

Second to Major Daingerfield in Brooklyn Event Over Slow Track—Artvis Beats Youngsters.

New York, June 12.—F. C. McLewee's black colt Major Daingerfield, by Handspring—Mondroit, with Odom up, won the Brooklyn Derby for 3-year-olds at Gravesend today. Homestead ran second.

They were sent away to a good start. King Hanover was first away, and set the pace under a strong pull. Coming past the stand the first time he was leading by a length, with Major Daingerfield second and full of running. Turning into the back-stretch Odom gave Major Daingerfield his head, and he bounded forward and passed the leader. Steadily increasing his lead to the wire, he won easily by ten lengths from Homestead, who ran into second place on the far turn.

Ten high-class 2-year-olds faced the starter for the Tremont Stakes today, with Artvis favorite and also the winner.

M'CUE WILL PILOT HENO.

JOCKEY ENGAGED TO RIDE THE DERBY FAVORITE.

Mackay's Colt Given His First Real Work at Washington Park, Covering Mile and Quarter Route Without Pacemaker in 2:16—Trainer Hill Well Satisfied with the Showing—Hermis Expected to Gallop at Hawthorne Today.

Rail birds at Washington Park were repaid for much faithful watching by a glimpse of Heno in real action yesterday afternoon. The Derby favorite came out between 4 and 5 o'clock and was given a rather light workout of a mile and a quarter, the time being 2:16.

Jockey W. Pickering had the mount, and it was said the weight carried by the colt was about 122 pounds, the same he will have to carry in the Derby. Heno ran at a fairly even gait for the first mile, which was covered in 1:49¼; then he let out a little and ran the final quarter in :26¾, the last eighth in :13. The colt pulled up good and strong. Inasmuch as the track was not fast—in fact, was rather slow—the work was regarded as decidedly impressive, especially when the fact is considered that Trainer Hill has said that Heno is not a good work horse.

Even at that, however, the colt was not called on to show anything like his best, and it is announced he will not be "set down" until next Tuesday. On that day he will be accompanied by Frankfort. Yesterday he ran alone.

It was decided yesterday that Patsy McCue would have the mount on Heno in the Derby. He was engaged yesterday by an agent of Owner Clarence Mackay. This settles the one important worry which Trainer Hill had concerning the great race. McCue is one of the best riders in the United States. Two years ago he piloted Kinley Mack when that horse won both the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps, and he has won other noted stake events. McCue is a clever, jovial, good fellow, and a tendency not to keep himself in the best of condition has interfered with his engagement by the best stables. At the present time, however, he is said to be in the best of condition, and delighted to get the chance to ride Heno in the Derby.

There were no workouts at Hawthorne yesterday, the track being too heavy. Those at the track expect to get a glimpse of Hermis on the track today.

Belle's Commoner worked one and one-quarter miles at Harlem in 2:14 3-5.

"Lucky" Baldwin on Way to Chicago.

She established the first eighteen hole record under 80 ever recorded for a woman player in this country, and her card of 77 is within three strokes of the amateur record of 74 held by Mr. Howard A. ## HARVARD ROWS FOUR MILES.

Crimson Crew Makes a Good Showing Under Unfavorable Conditions on the Thames.

Red Top, Conn., June 12.—[Special.]—Harvard's varsity eight went over the four-mile course this evening on its first time row of the season. There was a fresh head wind and the tide was at three-quarters ebb, so the conditions was far from favorable. After the first 100 yards the stroke dropped from thirty-seven to thirty-four, which was the gait maintained during the trial. The four miles were covered in 22:56. As Yale was able to get over the four miles last Friday in only 21:20 under excellent conditions, it will be seen the Harvard crew has proved itself a trifle faster than its Yale rival. The Harvard oarsmen were not exhausted by their jaunt, but turned around after finishing their four miles and rowed up stream a mile before they were taken up by the launch.

Gale's Ferry, Conn., June 12.—[Special.]—The Yale coachers sent their crew only two miles. Every man in the eight finished in first-class condition. The time was caught unofficially at 11:30. Head Coach Cameron and Captain Kunzig denied, however, that it was better than 12 minutes. Both said the row was the most unsatisfactory since the oarsmen came here.

Badger Freshmen Will Go East.

Madison, Wis., June 12.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin freshmen crew will be taken East to compete in the Poughkeepsie regatta. Such was the decision reached last night at a meeting of the Executive board of the Athletic association, after long consideration. The subscriptions upon which the management had been depending had not materialized and the money will be borrowed on a note of the association, which must be paid within a short time by subscriptions from the supporters of the boating department. The belief that the junior crew will have a good chance to win the race was the chief motive behind the act of the association.

Cornell Crew Off to Poughkeepsie.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 12.—[Special.]—The Cornell crews left tonight for Poughkeepsie, where the annual regatta takes place June 21. The varsity is composed of Coffin, stroke; Hazlewood, 7; Frenzel, 6; Van Alstyne, 5; Lueder, 4; Petty, 3; Merrill, 2; Sebring, bow. Coach Courtney gave out a statement in which he said the varsity was neither better nor worse than last year's crew at this time.

ABEL AND M'MAHON FIGHT DRAW

Meet in the Windup of Boxing Show Given by Connemara Cuckoos—Farmer Beats Galligan.

Danny McMahon and "Kid" Abel fought six fast rounds to a draw in the windup of the boxing show given by the Connemara Cuckoo club at Apollo Hall last night. The bout was furious from start to finish and at the end there was nothing to choose between the two men. McMahon appeared the cleverer and had the better of the first and second rounds. In the latter he staggered his opponent with left swings to the jaw.

Abel came back strong in the third and landed a right swing on McMahon's jaw that staggered the latter, and in the fourth almost had him out, but could not land a knockout. McMahon did better in the fifth and had all the better of the sixth, and Referee McInerney decided it a draw.

In the semi-windup, "Kid" Farmer was given the decision over Joe Galligan after six rounds of good fighting. In the preliminaries, Jack Rowan defeated Jim Kidwell in six rounds, Jim Tater won from Carl Welters, and "Issy" Marks stopped Jack Gill Jr. in five rounds.

Cole Stays Before O'Brien.

Farragut Clubhouse Is Sold.

At the auction room of the Real Estate board yesterday the Farragut Boat clubhouse at 3010 Lake Park avenue, was bid in at foreclosure sale by Morton V. Gilbert for $2,600, subject to incumbrance of about $30,000. The decree was rendered in a suit in which George W. Cass and others on behalf of the owners of the club's building bonds were complainants. The Farragut club is the oldest boat club in the State, having been organized prior to the fire.

Lipton Cup Arrives in Chicago.

The Sir Thomas Lipton cup arrived in Chicago yesterday, and after being cleared through the custom-house was turned over to the officers of the Columbia Yacht club. The trophy, which is to remain in the possession of the club for contests on July 4, 5, and 7, is a beautiful specimen of work. Collector Nixon did not know whether the cup should be cleared free or a duty imposed, but allowed the cup officers to take the cup pending his decision.

At the Billiard Rooms.

At Mussey's last night Yarnell gave Shea, the three-cushion expert, a decisive defeat, score 50 to 26, in a challenge match for the Mussey trophy. In the balk-line game at Foley's Rein (250) defeated Adair (150), 250 to 97.

Elkes Breaks Hour Record.

Boston, Mass., June 12.—Harry Elkes tonight broke all accredited world's bicycle records from one mile to forty-one in riding forty-one miles 250 yards in the hour.

COLTS NOT DERBY CLASS.

MEET ANOTHER DEFEAT IN LAST EVENT AT BOSTON.

Selee Leaves His Former Home for Philadelphia Without Seeing His New Charges Bag a Game—Score 1 to 0 Favor of Chicago Until Eighth, When Hubites Bat Out Three Counts, Which Decide the Issue—Williams Weakens in the Pinch.

Boston, Mass., June 12.—[Special.]—Will the Colts ever win another game? They held Boston by a score of 1 to 0 until the eighth today, when Williams, who up to that time had been pitching good ball, weakened and the red legs got three men across the plate. As Selee's men were no more successful in hitting Willis' curves in the ninth than they had been during the previous eight innings the finish was tame enough.

Chicago's first and only run came after this fashion in the second: Williams singled and Cooley's fumble landed the old Tufts College player on second. Kling advanced him to the third station with a sacrifice, and he scored a moment later on a wild pitch by Willis. After Shafer had put one up into the sun for Carney, Lowe burned a beauty past Long, but Bobby was an easy out when he tried to steal second.

Willis, the first man at bat for Boston in the eighth, got a lucky single to right. Lush and Tenney followed with sacrifices, advancing him to third, from where he scored when Kling allowed a nasty low ball to get through his legs. Cooley then hit safely and stole second, Lowe playing the ball poorly. The crowd had Williams unsteady by this time and he contributed a wild pitch, on which Cooley took third. Before he could steady down Carney had drawn a pass to first and stole second. Then Greminger, who had struck out twice, connected for a fine little drive to right field and Cooley and Carney came in with the runs that sent Selee and his crowd to Philadelphia without a game in Boston. The score:

Comiskey's champions took the second game of the series with Boston at the South Side grounds yesterday afternoon by a score of 5 to 2. The White Sox made enough runs in one inning, the second, to win the game, but just to cinch matters added a couple more before the game was terminated.

The victory of Comiskey's men can be credited to the pitching of Jimmy Callahan combined with the support accorded him. Collins' team secured seven hits in all off his delivery, while Winters, who opposed Callahan on the slab, was landed on for a total of eleven. The former "Gettysburg wonder" had good and good benders, but in the second inning, when Chicago accumulated three runs, he lacked control and started his own downfall by hitting a batter. A moment later he made another grievious mistake by throwing the ball to the bleachers, and the climax was reached when Parent also made a bad throw.

The game was featured by three fast double plays, in two of which Davis, Daly, and Isbell were the performers. But on the other side "Little" Parent, Ferris, and Lachance created the only excitement by executing a chain lightning double which prevented Comiskey's men from doing anything dangerous in the first inning.

Win Game in the Second.

The White Stockings won the game in the second after two men were out. Isbell, after two futile swings at Winter's benders, made a martyr of himself and was awarded a base. "Issy" led off the base a few feet and Winter, thinking to catch him napping, whipped the sphere to Lachance. The ball went feet over the Frenchman's head and rolled to the bleachers, and before he had recovered it Isbell was perched on third. Then Daly, who is becoming quite a pinch hitter, singled and Isbell romped home with the first run. McFarland swatted the ball a merry whirl for three bases, sending Daly across the plate, and a moment later when Callahan hit down to Parent that player made a bad throw to first and "Cal" was safe, while McFarland registered. That ended the scoring for the time being, for the best Strang could do was to fan.

The visitors also scored their first run in this round, when "Buck" Freeman poked out a single, and was forced at second on Parent's grounder to Collins. Then Lachance placed a single in deep center, which advanced Parent to third, and when Ferris pumped a foul out to Green the little shortstop scored on the catch. Scores:

Notes of the White Sox.

Boston again today.

Jack Warner was forced out of the game in the second inning by having his right hand split, and Criger had to go in and finish the game.

Today is "Ladies day," and the champions' "hoodoo" may get working. It would be hard luck if that winning streak should be broken.

Dougherty is certainly making good in left field for Boston. He is hitting some, too, and got two hits. He is not much of a mudder, however, and had hard luck on one fly ball. He made a long run after McFarland's popup in the fourth inning, but just as he got under it slipped and took a graceful seat in a mud puddle.

WITNESSES TELL OF FIRE HORROR

LOOK TO OTHER ASYLUMS.

Washingtonian Home Is Found to Be Faulty—Kent Tempted His Fate.

When Fire Inspector Conway began his interrogation yesterday of witnesses who are supposed to know something about the St. Luke society horror, he recognized the first man who was brought in.

He was John P. Nagle, a resident at the sanitarium, patentee of the gasoline engine with which experiments were being made in the basement, and practically an employé of the society. He was one of the three men in the basement when the fire was discovered.

"Were you ever arrested before?" Nagle was asked.

"Yes, once before," admitted the witness.

"What for?"

"It was in connection with a fire in Cleveland avenue."

Inspector Conway produced the records of the Fire department and read the testimony it contained relative to an inquiry concerning a fire at 466 Cleveland avenue on Jan. 3, 1897. The house was owned by Mrs. Axeline Roseniof, for whom Nagle acted as an agent. Nagle was arraigned before Justice Kersten and was discharged.

Say Alarm Was Prompt.

George W. Bogan, formerly a lieutenant in the Fire department, and who also was in the basement when the fire started, took the stand and declared that he had kicked in seven or eight locked doors on the second and third floors, after he had turned in the alarm. Both Bogan and Nagle said there had been no delay in sending in the alarm or any slowness by the department in answering it.

Nagle said his attention had been called to the smoke by a grocer's boy and that he found the fire near the elevator shaft. Before he could get a bucket of water and extinguish it the flames were shooting up the shaft.

The police are still hunting for the colored man who is said to have been sweeping in the basement just before the fire was discovered. They also are looking for President Miller, to bring him before Inspector Conway. They were unable to locate either man yesterday and the Inspector's investigation was continued until they can be found.

Washingtonian Home Faulty.

Investigators from the City Building department began their inspection of hospitals yesterday morning when the Washingtonian Home was examined. Inspectors Barry and Peters did the work. The home, an institution for the treatment of inebriates, is located at West Madison street and Ogden avenue. The institution consists of three brick buildings, of old style construction, and the rear building, three stories high, contains the patients, now numbering twenty.

Patients who are violent are confined in windowless rooms, the walls of which are lined with wood, and the doors made of wire and heavily bolted on the third story. There are four keys to each room, each held by a different attendant, and the management of the institution declared that at least three of these attendants were in the hospital at all times. There is no fire escape, the building being only three stories high.

In case of fire the attendants would have to open the doors and then the patients could escape by way of a stairway or they might get out through a hatch hole in the roof.

Fire Escapes Inadequate.

In the front building there are no elevators, but there are fire escapes, which the inspectors pronounced faulty.

The necessity of taking measures to confine such patients as the institution gets was illustrated while the inspectors were making their investigation. Max Boas, a man being treated for a drug habit, made his escape down the dumb waiter, got out on the street, bought some morphine, and returned to the home. He said he did not want them to cut his supply off too suddenly, and so he got out to get some himself.

In methods of confinement the place was found to be not so much different from the St. Luke society sanitarium. Orders for changes will be made as soon as Deputy Building Commissioner O'Shea has examined the report which the inspectors have given to him.

The Building department will secure a list of hospitals from the Health department and will continue its investigation probably next Monday.

Kent Tempted His Own Fate.

It developed during the day that Alderman Kent met death in an institution that he had aided in defeating the Health department's regulations. The blind Alderman was instrumental a few weeks ago in having remitted a fine of $50 imposed by Justice Gibbons on the persons who were operating the St. Luke's Sanitarium.

The hospital authorities, Kent argued, were being persecuted, though they were doing a good work. The fine was remitted, the hospital was allowed to operate, Alderman Kent went there for treatment, and met a terrible death.

This statement was made by Secretary Pritchard of the Health department to Aldermen Alling, Williston, and Butterworth, a subcommittee of the Judiciary committee having in charge the proposed modification in the hospital ordinance.

It was decided by the subcommittee to recommend the repeal of the provisions requiring the securing of all property consents in the block where the hospital is to be located and also on the side of the street facing it and to substitute a requirement for consents from two-thirds of the property-owners.

Rescue Work by Firemen.

Any suggestion that the Fire department was tardy in its work of rescue was disproved by reports which reached Chief Musham during the day. Altogether the firemen saved forty-five persons from the burning building.

Hook and ladder company No. 4, 322 Twenty-second street, had the lion's share of the rescues, its men, aided by others, taking from the blazing building twenty-seven persons.

With Chief Musham and Assistant Chief Campion, the commanding officers on the scene were Battalion Chiefs O'Connor and Sweeney.

Miss Mary McMannus, who was rescued from the fifth story of the St. Luke society building, was an employé and not an inmate of the institution. Miss McMannus aroused many of the patients to their danger and later led them to the front of the building, where the firemen took them to the ground.

"You can appeal to the wealth of Denver until you grow black in the face for an auditorium, for monuments, museums, art galleries, and all you will get will be an allopathic dose of ennui. ### Frank Jarvis Threatens to Kill Lieutenant James Miller and Is Detained at Police Station.

"I am looking for some one to kill, and you look about right," were the words which startled Lieutenant James Miller of the East Chicago Avenue Police Station yesterday afternoon, as he looked up from a paper to see a stranger standing beside him. As the Lieutenant looked the man reached into his breast pocket and drew out a pistol. The Lieutenant quickly disarmed the man, who was identified as Frank Jarvis, a shoemaker at 254 Wells street. In his pocket was found a letter addressed to his wife. It read:

"Dear Christina: Good-by. If you are going to bury me, see that I have a decent funeral. JARVIS."

The contents of the letter led the police to believe that Jarvis contemplated suicide. He is thought to be demented and an examination of his mental condition will be made. Pending an examination Jarvis will be detained at the police station.

GRAIN MAN SAID TO BE SHORT.

Arrest of the Manager of a Milwaukee Firm Follows an Alleged Deficit of $38,000.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 12.—[Special.]—James B. Orth, manager of the firm of Karger Bros., grain dealers, with offices at 54 Chamber of Commerce, was arrested today on a warrant charging him with having embezzled large sums of money from the firm by whom he was employed. The police place Orth's shortage at $38,000, and a representative of the firm said this amount was practically correct. Orth left for an Eastern trip a week ago and it was discovered his accounts were not straight. A complaint was sworn out against him, and search was begun by the local police upon clews furnished by letters which Orth had written to friends from Cleveland and other Eastern points. He was caught here today. Orth refuses to make any statement and the firm will not reveal his methods, as it hopes to effect a settlement with him.

WOMEN AT THE GAMING TABLES.

Substance of Testimony in Case Bearing on Handsome Residence in Prairie Avenue.

Exclusive and patronized by richly dressed women as well as men who arrived in automobiles, where the play was heavy and champagne corks popped an accompaniment to the rattle of chips, was in substance the testimony furnished yesterday bearing on alleged occurrences in a brown stone front residence near Thirty-eighth street and Prairie avenue.

The case is being heard by Justice A. V. Lee. The defendant to the State charge of conducting a common gaming house is Abraham Rose. He denied there was any gambling in the house.

"To be sure, I have entertained my friends as I had a right to do in my own apartments," said Rose. "I had invited a few good fellows to attend a smoker on the evening in question, and I am willing to show you the invitation."

The defendant drew from his pocket a card, which he presented to the court, bearing these words:

Yourself and friends are cordially invited to attend a smoker to be held at 3803 Prairie avenue on Thursday evening, May 29, 1902, at 2 o'clock. Trusting that you will be present, I am, yours truly, A. ROSE.

The name of George Weed, a stockbroker at 189 La Salle street, appears on the warrants charging Rose with keeping a common gambling-house. After taking the testimony of the prosecution the court continued the hearing until next Tuesday morning.

C. T. Hass, manager of a detective agency, testified that he had made an effort to have Rose move away from the premises and that Rose smiled meaningly and said:

"You can say for me that I am willing to move out of the house I have rented if they will pay me my price. One thousand dollars is all I demand."

FATAL FIGHT IN RESTAURANT.

Cooks Quarrel in Kitchen of Boston Oyster House and Edward Kuhn Kills Niles Brewster.

In a fight following a quarrel over the possession of a kettle, Niles Brewster, a cook at the Boston Oyster House, Madison and Clark streets, was fatally stabbed yesterday afternoon by Edward Kuhn, a cook, employed in the same establishment. Brewster died on the way to the County Hospital. The fight took place in the kitchen of the restaurant and the patrons of the place knew nothing of the trouble until after the arrival of the police. Kuhn made no effort to escape and gave himself up without resistance. He claimed that he had used a butcher knife in self-defense.

MINNEAPOLIS MAYOR IS TO GO.

City's Chief Executive Said to Be Preparing His Resignation Because of a Scandal.

Minneapolis, Minn., June 12.—[Special.]—The sensational development today in the Minneapolis municipal muddle was the announcement that Dr. A. A. Ames would resign as Mayor. The Mayor himself will neither deny nor confirm the rumor, but close friends declare that the resignation will go to the council tomorrow night. What gives color to the report is the fact that Mayor Ames resigned this afternoon as President of the Board of Charities and Corrections.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

PINGPONG.
A Comedy in Three Acts.
BY CLAY CLEMENT.

Presented at the Studebaker Theater, Chicago, by a Company Under the Management of L. J. Rodriguez, June 12, 1902. The cast:

|---|---|
| Maxwell Goodale | Wilfred Clarke |
| Alexander Polk | Charles Harbury |
| William Connor | W. J. Ferguson |
| Sam Kerr | Charles Canfield |
| Tippy Deacon | Bert Haverly |
| Officer Ghoul | Willis Hall |
| Officer Orton | Edward Wodiska |
| Mrs. Belinda Connor | Grace Griswold |
| Angel Connor | Mabel Hazlett |
| Marjorie Polk | Karra Kenwyn |
| Delia | Mabel Strickland |

Pingpong has found its way into the theatrical world, in name at least, even if not in actual presence. The horserace, the automobile, the bicycle had been there before it—it was inevitable that society's latest fad should make its appearance sooner or later. But let no admirer of the fascinating table tennis go to the Studebaker expecting to witness any brilliant playing of his beloved game or to discover anything new as to its laws or its worth as a means of entertainment. For he will hear even the name of the all-engrossing sport mentioned only twice during the entire evening, and as for seeing anything in any way suggestive of the diminutive racquets and the touchy celluloid spheres, he will wait in vain.

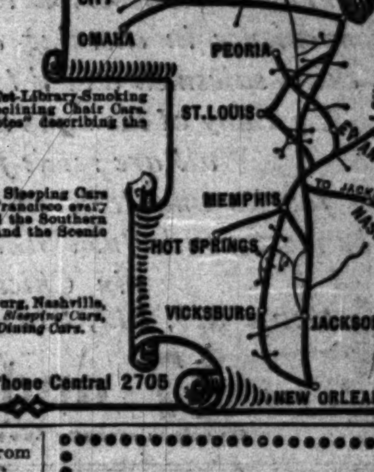

Mr. Clement's play might be called the beef trust or the steamship combine with just as much justice and reason as it now is entitled, "Ping Pong." The original title, "I'm from Missouri," which the play bore when it was produced originally in New Haven, Conn., some months ago, had at least some slight relevance, but the present one is purely arbitrary and entirely meaningless. Its sole merit lies in its possible power to arouse curiosity and thus draw patrons, but any other excuse for its employment is not apparent.

As for the piece itself, the playwright calls it a comedy "because it contains no impossible situations." This test, if applied, would result in a new classifying of a number of present-day dramatic productions as well as several of the classics. It is the manner of handling rather than the possibility or impossibility of situations that determine the character of a play, and gauged by this measure "Ping Pong" is a farce, and one of decidedly pronounced character. The extravagances and gullibility of the enthusiastic new investigators of spiritualism are used by Mr. Clement not in any spirit of comedy but in that of the broadest farce. And the workmanship is often crude and the dialogue heavy and pointless. There are bright lines here and there, and several situations which by their pronounced farcical character are laughter provoking, but as a whole the play is at best only mildly entertaining, and at no time above the strictly conventional and ordinary.

The performance went with marked smoothness for a first night, and the audience, which despite the unfavoring weather conditions comfortably filled the theater, received the work of the players with hearty applause and frequent recalls. The cleverest piece of acting offered was that done by Bert Haverly, who as a sporty individual abundantly supplied with frequently unreliable tips, looked, moved, and spoke true to the life. Mabel Strickland as the servant Delia was probably next in excellence, although Mr. Ferguson as the ambitionless, bibulous husband, Connor, offered a bit of character work that merited and won immediate commendation. Wilfred Clarke gave the duped banker with considerable spirit and effectiveness, and Charles Harbury was a genial, humorous "friend from Missouri."

Karra Kenwyn pleased her auditors by her good looks and her cleverly awkward attempts at portraying a girl unwillingly disguised as a boy. Miss Griswold gave the extravagantly enthusiastic Mrs. Connor with sufficient exaltation of spirit, and Miss Hazlett was acceptable as Angela.

HAUNTED BY THE DOG POUND.

Policeman Who Dreams of Yelping Canines Must Be Transferred or He'll Resign.

"Where is the dog pound, please?" is a question that rings in the ears of Policeman John Schumacher during the day and haunts him in his sleeping hours.

Yesterday Schumacher trudged into the office of Inspector Lavin.

"I'll either have to be transferred or quit the force," he said. "I can't stand it any longer. Why, I even dream of the dog pound."

Inspector Lavin promised to take the matter under consideration.

Schumacher has been stationed at the Taylor street bridge for many years. Some time ago a newspaper printed a report that the dog pound would be moved to that vicinity, and since then, Schumacher says, he has been accosted by no less than 200 anxious dog owners each day.

Make a shawl from Shetland floss.

Third floor, State street.

Shetland floss is a yarn originally spun from wool obtained in the Shetland Islands, north of Scotland.

Its fineness and lightness are due to the delicacy of the wool and the dexterity of the women who spin it.

A shawl was made some years ago 2¼ yards square and containing 10,200 yards of yarn, yet so fine and tenuous that it could easily be passed through an ordinary finger ring.

Of course, this was exceptional, but each year marks an increase in the demand for this web-like yarn, its lightness in weight and fluffy texture making shawls and scarfs of wondrous beauty and serviceability for summer use.

Women find the crocheting of these dainty shawls a pleasant pastime and make them for their friends.

We are showing many new samples in exquisite designs—all easy to execute. Procure your floss and we will start your article for you free of charge.

RELAXATION

WHAT are you doing by way of relaxation? How do you get relief from the daily worry and application to business? A man can hardly live at fever heat all the time. There come times when one gets tired of thinking of money-getting. The brain becomes exhausted and won't be attentive. Effort at such a time is of little value. What do you do when you reach that point? Some people resort to stimulants to keep the mind going, but that is forcing nature and cannot be done long with safety. There are men who have hobbies for relaxation. They breed fancy dogs or horses, or plant a garden. Some go into some branch of knowledge as far removed from business as it is possible to secure. Some people take long walks, or go boating or horse-riding. A great many men realize the necessity of a relaxation of some kind, and live the better and longer for indulging that idea. There are many ways of securing relaxation, but what is of greater service to that end than a study of nature, which has no relation, one way or another, to business? What could be more effective in diverting the mind—taking us out of daily pursuits—than the acquisition of facts about fish, about flowers, about birds, reptiles, races of mankind, etc. The study is in itself of great interest once you get started. Nature is an ever-changing picture; the habits and customs of animals are of absorbing interest; the study of man's distribution over the earth, his origin, and the peculiarities of races is most fascinating. There is a freshness and reviving power in all nature's phases because they are so different from the routine of business. There is now being given every day with THE DAILY TRIBUNE a colored nature study of a bird, flower, lion, tiger, parrot, Indian, Arab, reptile, etc. They come free with THE DAILY TRIBUNE. An instructive article on the editorial page tells about the picture, giving interesting facts worth remembering. They give a valuable insight into nature's world, and afford opportunity for gaining a knowledge that is invaluable for relaxation, instruction, and amusement. To one who has not learned much of nature they open the way to continued pleasurable occupation and relief from business cares—and when one has retired from business the knowledge so gained affords a pursuit of inestimable value. It requires but a few minutes daily to read the articles and look over the studies. They are of service for the entire family. An album of these studies would make a family wonder-book of interest and instruction. Why not order THE TRIBUNE today? The newsdealer is just around the corner—or a postal or telephone to THE TRIBUNE will do.

SPECIAL PORTFOLIOS cost you but 25c at Room 328 Tribune Building, or of your carrier or newsdealer, postage or express prepaid to any address.

SAMPLE COPIES OF THE TRIBUNE, with picture, will be sent to any out-of-town address on request. Address Country Circulation Department, Room 342 Tribune Building.

Illinois Contributions for Testimonial to William McKinley Aggregate $44,553.70.

A little over $4,000 will complete the contribution of Illinois to the McKinley memorial fund. The National Board of Trustees started out to raise $650,000, of which sum Illinois was asked to contribute $50,000. According to the latest report made by Chairman Alexander H. Revell there has been subscribed by Illinoisans $44,553.70, which, with other promises available only when the fund is complete, leaves to be raised $4,300.

DALTON OWNS TO HIS GUILT.

North Side Politician Admits He Operated a Lottery Scheme—Others Make No Defense.

Having failed in an effort to prove the indictment against him faulty, John H. Dalton, a politician and North Side saloonkeeper, pleaded guilty in the United States District Court yesterday to a charge of operating a lottery scheme through the mails. He will be sentenced next week.

Frank Clark, former postmaster at Minooka, Ill., was sentenced by Judge Kohlsaat to spend one year in the Grundy County jail for embezzlement of postal money order funds. He pleaded guilty. The shortage amounted to $1,743.

William W. Tull and C. W. Thompson admitted having used the mails to defraud. They will be sentenced next week. They operated a "letter chain" scheme.

Herbert F. Robinson pleaded guilty to operating a swindling scheme. Robinson ran a get-rich-quick business in Room 508 Association building under the name of Frederick E. Parker & Co., brokers.

FIRST WATERMELONS IN CITY.

Four Carloads of Luscious Fruit Arrive from Texas and Florida and Command High Prices.

There was evidence of summer on South Water street yesterday in the presence of four carloads of watermelons, three from Texas and one from Florida. The former, rather the better looking, was held at $40 a hundred and the latter from $30 to $35. Some of the larger melons from Florida weighed around forty pounds. They are expected to retail from 60 cents to 75 cents apiece. This is the first large consignment this season.

FOREMAN IS FOR SMALL PARKS.

Says His Action on Bond Issue Was to Learn if the People Wanted to Spend the Money.

South Park Commissioner Henry G. Foreman yesterday declared he favored the small park project. "I don't want any one to think," said Mr. Foreman, "that, because I introduced the resolutions to submit the $1,000,000 bond issue to the people first, I am at all lukewarm toward small parks. The people need them and ought to have them, but I believe that the residents of the South Park district should have a voice in deciding whether $1,000,000 or any other sum should be spent in buying ground for and improving these parks. I also think they ought to have a chance to do this at next fall's election, so that if they favor the issue we can begin preparations for the work next winter."

FINES FOR SMOKE VIOLATORS.

Four Offenders Against City Ordinance Are Taxed in Justice Walter Gibbons' Court.

Smoke ordinance violators were fined in Justice Walter Gibbons' court yesterday as follows: International Salt company, $5; American Can company, $5; C. F. Gunther $10; S. E. Dickinson, $5.

THE TRIBUNE prints 2½ (two and one-half) times as much advertising as its "nearest two-cent competitor," and it has every Sunday from 50,000 to 75,000 more circulation than its "nearest two-cent competitor" claims in its own sworn statement.

"GOLDEN DOZEN" OF NEWSPAPERS.

The American Newspaper Directory (the highest journalistic authority in the United States) for December, 1901, gives some facts concerning the notable newspapers of the country. The American Newspaper Directory uses certain signs to denote the relative standing and merit of the whole field of newspaperdom which comes under its notice, and one of these signs is the mystic symbol [◎] denoting "golden," which stands for high quality, and is thus explained:

"Advertisers value this paper more for the class and quality of its circulation than for the mere number of copies printed."

Such papers are credited with a single symbol; but there is a higher grade, according to this standard authority, which have BOTH QUALITY AND QUANTITY, and require the DOUBLE GOLDEN SYMBOL [◎◎] to describe adequately their standing. This baker's dozen of thirteen "famous newspapers" is named in the supposed order of their merit in the following list:

New York Times.

Why Wait for a Fire? It is intolerable that in a city like Chicago a hospital like the St. Luke sanitarium, occupying a building like the one that burned down last Monday, could continue in existence for a single day. A proper State supervision of private charities would have put a spoke in Mr. Miller's wheel before it had time to do much traveling, and an enforcement of even moderately good building ordinances would have left the St. Luke building without tenants. If the ordinances are not even moderately good, why has not the Building department been clamoring for better ones? But better ones are not absolutely needed until we do something with those we have. That something can be done with those we have is clearly to be seen in the resolution which has now been taken by the Building Commissioner. From this time on he will oblige all hospitals to obey the law to the letter. So say the reports that describe his awakening. Now why should it be necessary to have ten people burned to death in order to secure the enforcement of the law? That is a heavy price for a thing that should come gratis. Of course the Building Commissioner ought not to have all the blame put on his shoulders. He is part of a system. He inherited certain disadvantages from his predecessors. For years the enforcement of the building ordinances has been neglected. It is difficult now to insist on things which, though they are old, seem new, and which have not been recognized while buildings and institutions were taking their present form. Such things now seem as if they were ex post facto. If it is necessary, however, for the good of the community, that they should be regarded as absolutely obligatory, the Building department should not hesitate. The people will appreciate thoroughness in this matter.

THE PACIFIC CABLE.

The House has killed the bill for the construction of a Pacific cable by the United States government by a vote of 116 to 77. The bill, like that for the transfer of forest reserves to the Agricultural department, was doomed from the moment that Mr. Cannon raised his voice against it. He favored the laying of the cable but was opposed to the government's undertaking the work when private capital was ready to do it. The appropriations for the year are already enormous and should not be increased needlessly.

The construction of a cable will cost from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. It is questionable if private capital will earn a fair interest on the investment for many years. It is certain that the government would not. Except for the few miles of military lines laid in the Philippines the government has not engaged in cable laying, and it has no machinery for the management of such a tremendous enterprise. The Commercial Cable company has long been engaged in the business. Its head, John W. Mackay, has been known as a breaker of monopolies rather than a monopolist. There is no reason to suppose that the cable would be operated on a different basis from the Atlantic lines owned by his company. The tolls to the Orient are now too high. It costs $1.90 a word to Manila, and, as a result, the number of messages sent by the English companies is small. The great volume of business done by the Atlantic cables is due to the reasonable commercial rate, and this Mr. Mackay knows. The English companies are afraid of the competition of his company and have declared that they control the exclusive right to land cables in China and the Philippines. If the Spanish charter granting this privilege in the archipelago be found valid by the courts it will become the object of the Commercial Cable company to extinguish this right by purchase or lease. The American government will not consent to a monopoly of the Chinese coast line by an English company. Whether the cable is built by a private company, as the House has decided, or by the government, the line will be "all-American," and will not be shut off from the Asiatic mainland by the claims of any English corporation.

THE REBATE SCHEME.

It is said President Roosevelt has given notice that a Cuban rebate bill, if passed, will be vetoed by him. Such a bill will provide for the payment by the United States government to the Cuban government of one-fifth of the customs receipts from sugar and other commodities imported from Cuba. The advocates of such a measure do not seek to aid Cuban producers and Cuban and American trade, but to subsidize the Cuban government—to make official announcement that it is dependent on the alms of the American nation. It is contended by some that a donation of this kind to the government of a professedly independent country would be unconstitutional. Perhaps the Supreme Court would so hold it. On the other hand, it might assume that if the legislative department deemed it expedient to make so unusual a use of the revenues of the government it had authority to do so. The Sultan of Jolo is on the American pay roll. The Supreme Court might hold that a Cuban government could be put on it.

The rebate project, even if free from constitutional flaws, is a scandalous project. It proposes to make a pensioner of the Cuban government, but to disregard the just claims of Cuban producers. The reduction of sugar duties will enable the Cuban planters to escape bankruptcy. The subsidizing of Cuban officials will not give the planters living prices for their products.

The Cubans are not asking for charity for their government. They are asking for the closer commercial relations with the United States to which they are entitled—commercial relations which will make them prosperous and enable them to support their own government instead of its having to depend for support on the doles of the stranger. The rebate proposition is an insult to independent Cuba.

THE RECIPROCITY CAMPAIGN FUND.

The appropriation of $8,000 or $9,000 by the military government of Cuba to defray part of the expense of the literary campaign in favor of reciprocity will meet with criticism in many quarters. There is no doubt that an independent Cuban government would have been justified in taking such steps to influence public opinion in the United States in favor of a measure which it considered necessary to the prosperity of the island. Canada annually spends large sums in advertising to increase immigration. It has not been suggested that the money which General Wood paid to the Exporters' association was used for any dishonest purpose, but he was an officer of the administration and as such spent public revenues, collected under the direction of the War department, to further legislation which the administration favored. It is easy to see what abuses might arise from such a practice. General Wood may have been impolitic, but no one will say that he was not actuated by disinterested motives.

The fact that Mr. Havemeyer subscribed $2,500 to the campaign will not confuse the issue. Mr. Havemeyer is himself a Cuban planter. THE TRIBUNE does not think that the expenditure of Cuban funds was necessary or judicious. But no matter what Congress may think of the wisdom or the ethics of that expenditure it will not be confused as to the real issue. The fight for a reduction in the tariff on imports from Cuba is too nearly won for the Senate leaders to be balked at the last moment by the evidence which Senator Teller has saved for a melodramatic finale in the second act of the Cuban-American drama.

COEDUCATION AT CHICAGO.

In this matter of coeducation the University of Chicago seems to be in the position of the gallant knight who has befriended the helpless lady and then does not know quite what to do with her. There the lady is. She has been rescued from the lonely castle in which custom confined her and has been brought with much sounding of trumpets to the "freer atmosphere" of campus and quadrangle. Now comes the suggestion that for the first two years of the course she should be kept in a separate part of the campus with a quadrangle of her own and provided with classes at which no men will be present. This is the meaning of that horrific word "segregation" which has been rumbling through the South Side.

Naturally, some people are pro and others are con. Professor Vincent took a vote in his class a short time ago and most of the men were in favor of the change and most of the women against it. The Social Economics club, roaming up and down the earth seeking what it may discuss, has found a quarry in "segregation" and is decidedly in opposition. "Segregation," said the speakers at a recent meeting of the club, "is a plan to dwarf woman and keep her man's inferior." Meanwhile, however, the woman students at the university have recovered from their consternation and having called for the salts were able to say in the woman's edition of the university weekly that "we await the sounding of our knell with unalterable calm." Jenkin Lloyd Jones is not so phlegmatic. In the last issue of Unity he calls upon all progressive persons to rally to a position which was carried in the face of a determined resistance and which is now in danger of being regained by the enemy. Shall the wave of progress be retarded, checked, hurled back upon itself? Surely the progressives will not allow such a thing to happen.

While all this is being rumored and debated, the university authorities are not allowing their real intentions to leak out. All that is definitely known is that a plan looking toward the separation of the sexes during the first two years of the course is being considered. "Administrative" and not psychological or pedagogical reasons are said to have given rise to the new idea. It may be suspected, however, that at the University of Chicago, just as at Northwestern University, the rapid growth of the woman element in the student body has been the cause of some alarm. "Female seminary" is a damning epithet when applied to a college which both men and women attend. The graduating class at the University of Chicago this year was composed of seventy-nine men and eighty women. About the same proportion of men and women holds good throughout the academic department. At Northwestern the women have become so numerous that the faculty has long contemplated taking some action on the subject. "Men's men" do not care to go to a college where women are predominant. This is nasty of them, but characteristic. Achilles is said not to have enjoyed himself when he was sent to live in the court with the girls. He liked girls well enough, as he showed afterwards, but he thought it was possible to have too much of them. He has many successors today. This being so, the universities are naturally anxious not to let the girls increase so fast as to drive the men away. Here is the explanation of some things that seem like unjust discrimination between the sexes. The men who like the atmosphere of a man's college cannot be antagonized. They have their little peculiarity and they must be humored. They are not engaged in any project to "dwarf" women. They simply want to be left alone. Hence the plans on the part of Northwestern and Chicago to keep the woman attendance down.

GOING BACK TO NATURE.

Booth Tarkington, who heads the "innumerable caravan" of Indiana authors, has followed the example of Horace, Cincinnatus, Washington, and many other celebrated men and announces his intention of retiring to a farm, where he will be "far from the madding crowd." His motive is different from that which actuated the others named. Horace was wont to retreat to the Sabine farm, not because of discontent or melancholy but probably because the Falernian was easier to procure and it was too warm in the city in summer for comfort. Cincinnatus and Washington retired because they had accomplished their public work.

Booth Tarkington is too young to be melancholy or to retire from work. He is simply tired of dances, and cards, and small talk, and says he is convinced that the only happiness for him is in a bucolic existence. He no longer delights in people. Even his doughnut factory has no charms for him. Prior to settling down upon his farm he is going to get married and take a trip abroad, and will probably hunt up M. Beaucaire's descendants. After that he will retire to the seclusion which an Indiana farm grants, enjoy the companionship of Mrs. Tarkington, a horse and a cow, and some chickens and ducks, and, communing with the "visible forms" of nature, listen to her "various language." He confesses that he does not know anything about farming, but "allows" that he will make an earnest effort to get enough out of the ground to live upon.

This remains to be seen. Nature may not be in so generous a mood as he fancies. Mrs. Tarkington may not take kindly to the giddy whirl of a farmer's wife's existence. And there may be droughts, and cyclones, and deluges, and failing markets, and seventeen-year locusts, and brown-tailed moths and moths with tails of other colors, and glanders and pip, besides other bucolic blessings of which old farmers can tell him stories by the hour. After Mr. Tarkington has had a little experience with the four-legged children of nature and their wild ways, and more experience with some of the two-legged ones who will insist upon being neighborly, he may prefer dances, and cards, and small talk. He may even long for the savory delights of the doughnut factory. There is quite a difference between enjoying nature somewhat remotely and as a looker-on and enjoying her near at hand with a shovel and a hoe. Perhaps, however, the change, even should it be temporary, may not be without some compensation. Mr. Tarkington may drop the historical and take to the idyllic.

HONORS ARE EASY.

Day before yesterday the King and Queen of England dined with Ambassador Choate. According to the cable dispatches, foreign diplomats look on the unprecedented fact that the King has been dined by an Ambassador as the greatest triumph ever won for American prestige in England. That is not the way Americans will look at it. They believe American prestige in England has been more advanced by the purchase of great English steamship lines by American capitalists, by the transfer of supremacy in the iron and steel industry to the United States, and by other industrial triumphs than it can be by the King crossing his legs under Mr. Choate's mahogany, eating his food, and drinking his wine.

Ambassador Choate has simply returned in kind courtesies extended to some of his predecessors by Queen Victoria. She had them to dinner. The dinners were tiresome, perhaps, but they were dinners. It is the custom in this country to repay civilities of this kind. Hence it was only ordinary politeness on the part of Mr. Choate to pay the American dinner debt to English royalty.

It is to be hoped that the dinner was a good one. The dispatches, while saying something about the dress of the men and the jewels of the women, do not give the bill of fare. That is unfortunate, for knee breeches and diamond tiaras do not make a dinner. It is said the dishes bore American names and were prepared by the best cooks in London, which is not saying much. Presumably they were not the really American dishes which are fit to set before a King. A triumph would have been won for American culinary art if the best cooks in the United States could have prepared the best American dishes. The King and Queen would have acknowledged with one voice the supremacy of American viands.

Even if Ambassador Choate's dinner was not all it could have been the American dinner debt has been paid. Americans can say to his Majesty that the next invitation to dinner must come from him.

THE ARMY APPOINTMENTS.

[illegible] reported from Washington that two [illegible] President's selections for the vacancies in the list of Brigadier Generals have called forth bitter criticism from the army officers stationed there. Major Tasker Bliss of the Commissary department and Colonel William H. Carter of the Adjutant General's department have been promoted over the heads of a large number of their seniors. Promotion in the staff departments is more rapid than in the line, and line officers are offended because two members of the staff have been made general officers of the line.

It appears they feel that since pleasant stations and rapid rise in rank are the lot of the men on the staff, the Generalships should be reserved for those on whom falls the bulk of the work in the field. It is not hard to understand how they reach this opinion. Their work is less agreeable, if no more difficult, than that of the staff. The line officers of the army would be the last to contend that Generals should be appointed for any other reason than merit, but they do not recognise that extraordinary services by staff officers may entitle them to promotion in the line. When General Funston was made a Brigadier for capturing Aguinaldo there was hard feeling among the regulars. When General Wood was appointed to the same position, not for services in the field but for services as an administrator, there was a storm of disapproval among the graduates of West Point because a medical officer, whose chief claim to distinction was not his record in the field, should be given the coveted position.

In modern warfare it is almost as important that there should be administrators in the army as strategists or fighters. The occupation of Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines has shown this. There are doubtless officers as able as Major Bliss and Colonel Carter who have had no opportunity to prove their executive ability, just as there are men, no less gallant under fire and no less able to command than those who have been promoted. It is the fortune of war, as of peace, that opportunities come to some men and not to others. The Secretary of War and the President doubtless realize this, but they are compelled to select for the responsible positions men whose ability they have seen proved.

THE TRIBUNE has had occasion before to point out that there is no such jealousy in civil life over the promotion of a junior to a position which his seniors have coveted. It has no place in the army and navy. The men who have been passed by are bitterly disappointed, and so are their friends, but this will not justify them in joining the ranks of the lobbyists about the Senate to hold up the confirmation of the President's appointees. There is no reason to suppose that he or his Secretary of War was actuated by any but patriotic motives. In the exercise of their duties it is their privilege to select the men whom they deem most fit for promotion. The appointment of a General should receive the same consideration as that of a Judge, an Ambassador, or a Cabinet officer. Seniority does not justify the appointments of Generals any more than it does the appointments of civil officers.

WHAT WEST POINT IS AND DOES.

In the course of his speech at West Point President Roosevelt touched upon two things which are as striking as they are gratifying.

"The average graduate of West Point," he said, "has given a greater amount of service to the country than has the average graduate of any other institution in this broad land." Of course, it may be said that this was only to be expected, since West Point exists expressly for the purpose of providing men for the public service. On the other hand, not every institution fulfills the purpose of its existence. West Point has. Here lies its merit. It has not proved false to the trust which the people have reposed in it. Capable military men is what West Point is supposed to produce and capable military men is what it does produce. It is in the nature of a machine erected by the country for defense against the enemy. It has to work. It does work. And the country is satisfied.

The second thing the President mentioned is in a way an explanation of the first. If the West Point boys were drawn only from the rich or only from the poor, only from the upper ten or only from the submerged tenth, only from the East or only from the West, only from among college people or only from among grammar school people, it would not have the broad, strong tone it has today. "Of all the institutions in the country," said the President, "none is more absolutely American, none more, in the proper sense of the word, democratic, than this. Here we care for nothing save the boy's personal worth." The result is that West Point is one of the best composites in the world. It takes elements of all possible kinds and fuses them together in a product which contains an unusually large number of all necessary human qualities. It is an epitome of the United States. May it never cease to be so.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Able to Recall It.

"How old is your boy?" asked one of the neighbors.

"Well," said the Missouri farmer, reflecting a moment, "he was born the last time we had them seventeen-year locusts. You kin figger it up fur yourself."

The Professor.

"That," remarked the professor, eying with some distrust the ragged and dirty greenback the grocer had given him in change, "is certainly a filthy looker."

Echoes of the Strike.

"You bet!" exclaimed the driver that hadn't gone out, as he dodged a stray brickbat. "They're heart-rendering!"

There came a volley of paving stones this time.

No Repetition Probable.

"Doctor," asked the anxious father of the quadruplets, "how often does this sort of thing happen?"

"About once in 40,000,000 times, according to statistics," replied the doctor.

"It isn't likely to happen twice in the same family, then," said the anxious father, drawing a long breath. "I guess we're safe enough."

Thought He Might Need It.

"Albert," said his wife, "are there many rattlesnakes where you are going?"

"Hundreds of them," replied the doctor, who was packing his valise for a vacation trip.

"Didn't you tell me once that there was no authentic instance of a person bitten by a rattlesnake being cured by whisky?"

"I did."

"Then why are you taking all this whisky along, Albert?"

Among the Modern Terrors.

"Where is that brass band?" inquired the man who was hunting an eligible flat.

"That isn't a brass band," answered the agent of the apartment-house. "That's a phonograph on the floor above."

"Come, Hester," said the other, hastily, to his wife. "We'll go and look at some other building."

Caution.

"No, sir," said O'Johnson, "I haven't a word to say against the automobiles that race along the boulevards."

"Don't you have to jump out of the way of them sometimes?" asked O'Jones.

"Of course I do, but if I were to make a loud holler about it everybody would know at once that I couldn't afford to keep an automobile myself."

Sounded Alluring.

Mr. Gaswell—"No, I didn't take a lease of that ground for the new building. The agents asked too much money for it."

Mrs. Gaswell—"But didn't you tell me they offered to mark it down to ninety-nine years?"

GOLDFISH.

Description of the Nature Study Picture Given Free with To-day's "Tribune."

The goldfish (Carassius auratus) is found in the wild state in China and Japan, where it has long been domesticated. Normally it is of a brown or black color with a touch of gold and silver. Under domestication it loses the darker shades and becomes the gold and silver colored (Albinos) seen in the aquarium varieties. It was introduced into Holland about 1641 and into England in 1691, and is now to be found in every civilized country, being cultivated for its beauty.

Experimental breeding has developed many interesting and often abnormal varieties, some being long and thin, others short and high, while some have a three or four lobed caudal fin or tail. In others the nose is malformed by shortening until it resembles that of a bulldog, and one, the "telescope fish," has the eyes protruding from the head in such a way that they resemble "telescopes," whence its name. It is the most prized variety. Sometimes the scales entirely disappear, or are present only in ridges on the sides or back.

The goldfish belongs to the genus Cyprinidæ of the subclass teleostei of the order Physostomi, commonly known as the carp, which are most numerous in rivers and fresh water lakes of the old world and North America. Fossil remains of the ancestors of the carp, but little different in formation from existing species, have been found in fresh water formations in Europe and also in Idaho.

The genus Calostomina includes the common suckers, red horses, stone rollers, and white mullets of our own rivers and lakes, all of which are of the carp family, which includes over 1,000 species in Europe, Africa, and North America. They are soft rayed fish with smooth or cycloid scales and no teeth. They are usually tasteless and full of small bones, and are not much used for food. They feed mostly on vegetable and animal matter, a few, however, being strictly vegetarian. Their work in nature's economy seems to be to keep ponds and rivers free from a superabundance of vegetable growth. They are partial to ponds, and will subsist a long time in a small pool, though insufficient nutriment stunts their growth. Their fecundity is remarkable, and they would become excessive in numbers did not their enemies destroy their spawn. No less than 700,000 eggs have been found in the ovary of one small carp. They grow rapidly and sometimes attain a considerable length. Goldfish range from 2 to 7 inches in length. In Germany carp have been taken weighing from thirty to forty pounds, and it is asserted that one weighing seventy pounds was taken near Frankfort-on-the-Oder.

In winter the carp assemble in large numbers and bury themselves in the mud and among the roots of aquatic plants, where they remain many months without food.

Fish generally have changed less in structure than any class of the animal kingdom, being now for the most part as they were millions of years ago, but one new order, the bony fishes, having been evolved. There are but four orders of fish, while among land animals there are sixty.

Thurman Never Was a Democrat.

[From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

"You spoke awhile ago, Governor, of Mr. Thurman having no chance for the Presidential nomination of 1880. Would you care to be a little more explicit?" I suggested.

"Allen G. Thurman," said Judge Hoadly, "was an accomplished gentleman, a member of a good old Virginia family, but he never was a Democrat."

"What! Never a Democrat?"

"No, sir; he was a soft-money Whig. When he went upon the stump at Hamilton, O., in that memorable soft-money campaign, and declared that he had always been a paper-money man, he knocked us all clean out. I was at Newport at the time he made that speech and heard of it from Senator Bayard, who had sat side by side with Thurman in the Senate and who had voted with him for sound money again and again. There were literally tears in his eyes as he told me. 'What can be mean?' 'What can he mean?' said Bayard again and again.

"The next time I met Thurman at Columbus the matter was referred to and I said to him: 'Senator, I cannot see with your spectacles. Shall I tell you what Senator Joe McDonald says?' 'What does he say?' Thurman asked. 'That while the United States has a right to issue money, it has no right to make money out of paper.' 'Did he say that?' 'Yes, sir,' I answered, 'and it's good law, too.' He had no more to say and changed the subject."

FOOD and DRINK On the Stage

THE late James A. Herne was one of the few actors who always insisted that whenever in one of his plays there was a supper scene the food brought on the stage must be real food. Thus, in "Shore Acres," there was a turkey supper at the old farm, and for every performance Mr. Herne had a big roasted turkey brought on. He always insisted, also, that every actor and actress at the table should eat at least a little of the "turk." As a result of this policy it happened that long before the long run of the play was over the people who took part in it were so sick and tired of turkey that the mere sight of a gobbler, even with its feathers on, was enough to drive them to drink. Several people who were with the show almost from the start have never got over the distaste for the bird of Thanksgiving acquired on the stage, and cannot, to this day, look upon a brown and steaming turkey without a feeling of repugnance amounting almost to disgust.

Mr. Herne was, in fact, the first actor of prominence to introduce real food on the stage, at least in any quantity. In his first success, "Hearts of Oak," produced more than twenty years ago, he introduced a real old-fashioned New England dinner, baked beans, boiled cabbage, and all, and, although it made a great hit with the audience when it came steaming on to the stage, it caused about ten well-developed cases of dyspepsia in the unfortunate people who were compelled to eat large quantities of it eight or nine times a week.

Most actors are not so exacting. As a rule they follow the example of Homer Linn, who in his sketch of "Gringoire, the Street Singer," serves a dinner to King Louis, in which a beautiful papier-maché turkey and a red and brown paper roast of beef play the chief parts. This, as Mr. Mansfield would say, "may destroy the unities," but it saves the appetites of the actors.

Some vaudeville people go even further and burlesque the food which is served to them on the stage. One old sketch team which played a little one-act play, the scene of which was laid in a boarding-house dining-room, used to have a turkey brought on which was made of india rubber. When one of them tried to carve it it would slip off the platter and bounce half as high as the table after it struck the floor. Thereafter it was made to serve the purpose of rough and ready humor by being bounced around the room like a football.

Often when a dinner scene is called for in a play the realities are preserved by serving a beefsteak and other dishes made up of milk toast, which can be molded and colored to represent almost anything, while at the same time the viands can be masticated easily. It will readily be appreciated that an actor who is expected to make a long speech at the dinner table would have a hard time of it if his mouth was full of stringy beefsteak. Elaborate stage desserts are counterfeited by serving sliced bananas and cream in various disguises and for the same reasons.

In the café scene of "The Suburban" different colored ices and slices of brick ice cream are served. The ices are made by filling little ice cups with tissue paper of the desired shades, while the pretty bricks, apparently made of chocolate, vanilla, and strawberry ice cream are in reality small blocks of wood painted in stripes of brown, white, and pink. Really they are quite appetizing in appearance even at close range, and it must be rather tantalizing on hot nights to pretend to eat these wooden substitutes when the real thing would be so grateful.

Stage fruits, such as apples and grapes, are nowadays usually made of cotton molded into the desired shapes, and then coated with a glazed surface which may be painted any color. This produces fruit of good appearance, which is at the same time as light as possible. In "Jim Bludso," for instance, a barrel apparently full of apples is introduced. As a matter of fact, the barrel is empty except for a single layer of cotton apples on the top, and the whole arrangement does not weigh more than three or four pounds.

on the stage, and in "A Parisian Romance" there is a supper scene in which both the table setting and the quality of the food served are beyond criticism. Henry Irving also demands reality, as will be remembered in "The Lyons Mail," where, at the wayside inn, the serving man brings in a huge tureen of smoking hot soup, the steam from which rises in full view of the audience. The late Sol Smith Russell also ate real food in "A Poor Relation," and it is said he acquired in this way an aversion to sliced boiled ham that amounted to almost a mania.

But if stage performers suffer in eating stage dinners much greater is their suffering when it comes to stage drinks. In the old classic plays no attempt is usually made to convey to the audience even an impression that the big gilt beakers are filled with anything more substantial than air. In comic operas the same free-and-easy methods prevail. Everybody is familiar with the fat and jovial landlord of the comic opera stage who comes bustling out of the inn door carrying in one hand a little pint pot. Around him gather about ninety-seven more or less beautiful chorus girls, each of whom has a cup almost as large as that of the landlord. Yet from his pitcher he is supposed to fill all the other mugs without replenishing and—on the comic opera stage—he does it easily. But that, of course, is simply to give the chorus a chance to sing a drinking song, in the course of which they wave their cups around in a reckless manner that would have spilled every drop of "the brown October ale" if they had contained any.

But in the more realistic dramas when it comes time for the hero to take a drink of whisky, for instance, the ethics of the stage demand that he actually take a drink of something. On most stages the use of real whisky is entirely forbidden. In its place the property man makes an awful brown mess, composed of water, in which a sufficient quantity of burned brown sugar has been dissolved to give the mixture the required color. To be forced to take even a sip of this mess every evening, with extra doses on matinée days, is an affliction from which actors shrink as from a spell of sickness. But in some plays it is necessary, and when the run is long the moment when it becomes necessary to put that sticky, sweet

When beer is the article to be consumed the stage manager or property man will frequently send out and bring in a bottle or a pail of the real stuff, but when it is supposed to be distributed among a large number of people he more frequently contents himself with stuffing some loose cotton batting to simulate foam into the top of a lot of papier-maché steins, and lets it go at that. Tea and coffee are rarely served on the stage. It is too easy to fool the audience by putting the spout of the tea or coffee pot down into the cup, where it cannot be seen from the front of the house whether or not anything is really being poured out.

Champagne on the stage is represented as a rule by another fiendish decoction, prepared by the property man, the effects of which upon the human stomach are said to be worse than those of the real article. Sometimes a bottle of home-made champagne is used, however, and Mr. Mansfield, as usual, insists on realism by opening a bottle of his favorite brand at every performance at which a glass of the sparkling wine is called for. Sometimes a bottle of sparkling cider is used instead of the higher priced original.

In "Camille," it will be remembered, there is a banquet scene, in which, as a piece of the regular business, Mme. Prudence empties out on to the floor a high glass standard filled with celery and refills the glass with wine, which she drains to the bottom. It is a favorite joke with malicious wags of the stage to put drugs of awful taste into the glasses of those who are forced to drink on the stage. On one occasion in a traveling company which was playing "Camille" the actress who played Mme. Prudence had a couple of enemies in the cast. They prepared a most awful mixture, containing a lot of nauseous and biting drugs, and put it into the bottle from which, in the banquet scene, she filled her big celery glass. In order to make her point and get her laugh Mme. Prudence is obliged to really drink every drop of the supposed wine in the celery glass. In this instance the poor woman who had the part never faltered. She tasted the fiendish mixture which had been prepared for her, and without a change of muscle drained it to the bottom. The people who had expected to break her all up failed entirely in their attempt and were released from the company immediately after that particular performance had been completed.

Thrashed a Foreign Minister.

[From the Washington Post.]

"When Mr. Blaine was Secretary of State," says Mr. Clark, "he deputed a young man in his office to go with a message to a certain foreign Minister here. The young man, after searching in vain at the legation, finally found the Minister at a club and gave him Mr. Blaine's message. The Minister, who was rather testy, flared up and gave the young man a tremendous 'cussing.' Thereupon the latter administered a good, sound kicking to the foreign Minister and departed. The Minister complained, and so the young man was publicly reproved. In private, however, Blaine congratulated him, 'only,' he added, 'thank God it was not Pauncefote whom you kicked.'"

One of Cannon's Stories.

[From the Washington Post.]

Representative Cannon, who hopes that Mr. John Y. Thompson of Illinois will be appointed a Judge on the District bench, told the President a story the other morning in order to hasten the appointment.

"Out in Danville," he said, "I went to see a friend, and after a pleasant visit I asked him to come and see me. 'Bring your little boy, also,' I said, 'for I have a pony on my farm which I will give him.'

"The gentleman thanked me, but the little boy pulled at his father's coattails. 'Papa,' he whispered, 'when is he going to do it?'"

The President laughed at the story, but did not answer the question as to when Mr. Thompson would be named.

Thousands of 'Em.

Some excited body telegraphs that Paris has a literary prodigy because a 10-year-old girl is writing a play to be submitted to the Comédie Française. Prodigious, indeed! There are thousands of literary prodigies who are today writing things to be submitted to other things, but which will never be heard of after submission.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Strawberry sherbet is made with one quart of berry juice, four cupfuls of sugar, the juice of two lemons, three pints of water, and a few whole strawberries. Serve in a punch bowl with a block of ice, or freeze for frappé.

A sweet dressing for a fruit salad is made by boiling half cupful sugar into quarter cupful cold water until sirup threads; add unbeaten white one egg and allow mixture to simmer three minutes. Remove from fire, add juice two oranges, two tablespoonfuls lemon juice, half cupful pineapple juice, and strain through cloth.

For Alcross pudding line a dish with short or puff paste, as desired; boil pint and a half milk; add three ounces butter and stir until it melts; set half pound bread crumbs in basin and pour milk and butter over; grate peel of lemon fine and stir in with three ounces sugar and two eggs; bake pudding to delicate brown in moderate oven, and serve hot.

An effective way of serving anchovies is as follows: Cut twelve rounds of crumbs of bread slightly larger than silver half dollars and fry them in butter. Drain them and lay on each round a thin slice of cucumber previously marinaded in oil and vinegar, and seasoned with salt and cayenne pepper. In the middle of the cucumber place, with the cut side downward, half a stoned olive, and curl round it a fillet of anchovy. Decorate the dish with tomatoes and endive.

Salted almonds: Pour boiling water over shelled almonds; let them stand over the fire for one minute; turn into a strainer and pour cold water over them; rub off the skin and dry thoroughly; for each cup of nuts allow one tablespoonful of melted butter; stir the almonds in it; sprinkle well with salt; put them in a pan and place in a moderate oven until a delicate brown, shaking the pan occasionally; add more salt if needed.

CHAPTER XXXI.—IN WHICH THE TOILER RESTS.

The eighth day dawned in the midst of melancholy rain. At 7 a. m. a liner from New York dropped anchor in the harbor and sent a number of small boats ashore. For the first time since his arrival at St. Pierre, after leaving Miss Wall in Fort de France, Whitelaw looked aghast at the task. His limbs acted unwillingly; the forces of his brain did not move aright; Gleason was insistent toward the end on his leaving for the capital; the men about begged him to go away, to lie down, to seek his cabin on the ship, to do anything, so long as he rested. And above all the rest was the word that the doctor had brought from Fort de France—that she wanted him there.

"Gleason," he said, catching the little fellow by the collar, "if you have lied to me about what she said, I'll—I'll—you'll—break—my—heart."

He was pitifully weak. Something was wrong with his eyes, and there was a tremble in his limbs that he had never felt before. Gleason saw how the poor body of his chief had been brutalized by overwork.

"Have I ben in the habit of lyin' to ye—tell me that? I'll take a phonygraft along wit me the next time, an' make her talk to it. Shure, ye bother the soul of me. Come along now—the poor lady is dyin' to see ye."

Two men were running toward him, one far behind.

"Who's coming, Doc? I don't seem to see well."

"Glory be to hivin—it's ye're father!"

Whitelaw stretched out his hand. It was seized.

"How does it happen you're alive? I thought everybody was dead down here," old "Gold Dredge" panted savagely. His manner belied the harshness of his words. He was squeezing and shaking the younger man's hand for dear life and there was joy in his eyes, which ranged from the head to the toes of his son.

"Luck—pure luck, father," Joseph replied. "My, but I'm glad to see you."

"What's the matter with your eyes?" the other asked quickly.

"Too much sunshine, that's all. They'll be fine when I rest them a bit."

"But it's raining, you—you—what's the matter with your arm?"

"Little strain—that's all."

"Let me see the back of your neck. They told me you were burned."

Joseph bent forward, disclosing a bunch of ugly half-healed scars, where the molten stuff had fallen. His father's face was white.

"Is there anything else the matter with you?" he asked quickly.

"Not a thing, dad. My, but I'm glad to see you."

"Only he's played out, sir," put in Gleason. "Liable to fall any minute, shure. Make him rest, sir. Anyway, he's needed in Fort de France."

"Come with me, sir," the father said sternly. "By the way, this is Mr. Wall. Came down from New York on the same ship with me. His wife and daughter—they told us you know something about them."

The father of Louise was a tall, fine looking, gray-haired gentleman, whose face and hands the tropics had darkened. He had stood by patiently during the preceding conversation, yet his whole nature was crying for words from this young man.

"And they tell me that you were with my wife at the last moment?" he asked slowly.

"Yes, sir," Whitelaw replied. "I had that honor, and I have to say that the courage of the gods was her courage."

"He was with her—not only the last moment, but the whole last day," put in Gleason.

"And you'll tell me about it—sometime, if you're too weak now?" Mr. Wall asked softly.

"I'll tell you now, sir," Whitelaw replied. He was trying to force his eyes to see the stranger's features, which a queer blur spoiled. He told the story of the cistern, the ineffectual search for the Hatteras, and of the rainy night far out in the harbor, adding:

"She hesitated naturally to accept the hospitality of a stranger like me and the stranger's ship. In fact, no one seemed to believe that there was any actual danger from the mountain."

"She—bless her—allowed me to lead her to the Hatteras four hours before the end, and, as you know, she is safe this moment in Fort de France—isn't she, Gleason?" he turned triumphantly to the surgeon.

"Shure, she was at 10 o'clock last evenin', sir," said the Irishman.

Mr. Wall looked intently upon young Whitelaw and with a sudden impulse gripped his hand a second time. "All I can do at present," he said falteringly, "is to thank you."

"And now you must come with me," announced old "Gold Dredge," in a way that defied opposition.

"But, father," Whitelaw said unsteadily, "there is so much to do here—and I must go to Fort de France."

"Don't anger me now—don't you dare to anger me. I don't care where you go—Fort de France or—or—but you get away from here now! I suppose—that you're ashamed to have your old father on your yacht——"

"Please don't talk that way, dad. I've asked you a hundred times to honor 'Lady Hat,' and you must now.

Mr. Wall looked in amazement at the elder Whitelaw, who was abusing an ill and brave boy. It had been so different on the way down that the father of Louise could not understand at all. Mr. Whitelaw had depicted his son to be the greatest lad that ever delighted a father. The two had become intimate in their common fear and common hope. They had paced the deck late into the night when only the watch was left. Each day had been a long-drawn terror, and when at last they sought their staterooms sleep was impossible. Mr. Wall, though filled with bitter grief at the death of his wife, could not but rejoice to know that his daughter had been saved. He was a little bit angered because the elder Whitelaw did not treat his son as he demanded that the whole outer world should treat the boy.

"You must all come with me to Fort de France," Mr. Wall said. "I have a big house—plenty of room—and the young man will have an opportunity to rest."

"For all the world that's what he needs," said Gleason, whose arm was about Whitelaw's waist, steadying him.

"Is it a go, Dad?" Joseph asked, with a pleading note in his voice. . . . "And when we get back to New York I am going to get to work—as—as you want me to," he added pathetically. "I see lots of things differently now."

"Drop that work business, will you?" the old man snapped. "You've done enough work for the present."

Gleason, remembering the tenor of previous domestic struggles, had a quiet grin to himself after that last remark.

As they helped Whitelaw from the field of his labors a crowd of men cheered him and a half-dozen correspondents ran up to shake hands.

"They're such good fellows," the fagged one muttered, "but I don't see why they make a noise about me."

"Shure, I do then, so don't worry," Gleason remarked.

The look in the haggard faces about the words that were spoken, and the hands that were put out gave the two fathers an inkling of what the young man had been doing in the past two weeks. Though they were fearfully anxious concerning his condition, they were not altogether surprised when he gave way altogether on the beach and had to be lifted into the boat which the Hatteras had sent ashore.

"You're a doctor, at least you rank as one," the elder Whitelaw said to Gleason. "Why didn't you make him quit before he ruined his health?"

Gleason stared savagely at the father. Day after day of sticking faithfully to his chief had worn him down to the quick. If ever a man tried to show Whitelaw the better way Gleason had been that man, and he knew it. Moreover, the manner and the words of old "Gold Dredge" had succeeded in whipping to the surface all the irritability in him.

"Shure, that's what's botherin' ye, is it?" he asked. "Well, I'll tell ye. I didn't make him quit before he ruined his health because he's the son of his father an' comes honestly be havin' his own way—there ye have the why of't in a neat little package."

A minute afterward Gleason was sorry for what he had said, not only because the father did not reply but because he saw that a deadly fear was eating at the vitals of the old man.

"I'm sorry, sir," he added humbly, "to have been so abrupt-like, but it sort-o' puts a lump of ice in me chest to see him this way, an' truly, sir, I tried to make him give up, an' go to Fort de France; in fact, everybody here did, but it wasn't no good."

Captain Hayes greeted them on deck. His face was still covered with bandages, but he was past danger and able to move around on crutches. Whitelaw awoke when he reached the Hatteras, saw dimly his father, Mr. Wall, and Gleason standing about.

"My, but I'm glad to see you, Dad," he said, and then added to Gleason. "Will you bear with me a little longer, old man, I want a bath, a shave, and a whole lot of clean clothes. I've—I've kind of got in the habit of havin' you help me lately."

The surgeon saw him through the tub process, and collected a clean outfit while the barber attended to the other detail. Meanwhile, the Hatteras, with scarred upper works, but sound vitality, was pointing about toward the capital. After that they helped Joseph to the deck once more, where he stretched out upon a steamer chair and fell asleep. Old "Gold Dredge" did not leave his side.

Miss Louse, standing upon the veranda of the Santos house, saw them from afar off, and hastened forward. She saw, too, that they were half carrying the man who had done so much. A dreadful fear clutched at her heart. She did not linger in her father's arms, but ran to Whitelaw.

"Put your arm about him—so," advised Gleason, and she obeyed, remembering, perhaps how ofen and well he had supported her.

She spoke to him, but he did not answer. There was a faint smile upon his white lips, and even though he did not speak nor open his eyes, he must have known that she was there, and with her arm about him.

(To be concluded tomorrow.)

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright, 1902, by the Marquise de Fontenoy.

SERVIA'S new prime Minister, Nikola Pasitch, has, like so many other statesmen holding office in the east of Europe, known what it is to be sentenced to death and to suffer imprisonment. By profession he is an engineer, but served during the war with Turkey a quarter of a century ago, after which he became a newspaper editor. In 1883 he was tried on a charge of conspiracy and sentenced to be hanged, but after lying some time in a dungeon at Belgrade, loaded with chains, he was pardoned by King Milan. In 1898 he was again tried on a similar charge and was sentenced to four years' penal servitude, but after serving for about eighteen months he was pardoned by the present King.

Some of the Ministers of Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria have not only been sentenced to death but have actually been subjected to severe floggings and to torture in prison.

Of all the peers who will do homage to King Edward in Westminster Abbey on the day of his coronation there will be none whose dignity surpasses in luster and antiquity that of Lord Mar, the premier Earl of Scotland, an elderly clergyman, whose title is indeed the oldest in Europe. For although the present Earl figures in the peerage as merely the twenty-sixth of his line, the members of his family have been Earls of Mar an initio—that is to say, ever since the dawn of Scottish history. One of them married a sister of King Robert Bruce, and their names figure on almost every page of the annals of Scotland.

Some 300 years ago a curse was hurled against this family, according to which the latter was to be overtaken by such ruin that the grand hall of its castle should be used as a stable for horses, its state apartment as a workshop for weavers, while trees should grow upon its battlements, and that the line should be broken, but not until the honors of the house were doubled. This prophecy has been fulfilled. The house of Mar was ruined by its adhesion to the Jacobite cause. In the beginning of the last century fifty yeomanry horses were stabled in the grand hall, and twenty years later a weaver was found working in the state chamber, while in 1820 a couple of ash saplings were discovered sprouting on the ramparts. King George IV. restored in 1824 the earldom that had been forfeited at the time of the Jacobite rebellion, and in 1875 the honors of the house were doubled by the succesful claim of the thirteenth Earl of Kellie to another earldom of Mar, created in 1865 by Queen Mary.

The consequence is that there are now two Earls of Mar, who are distinguished from one another by the fact that whereas the one is known as the Earl of Mar and Kellie the other is known only as the Earl of Mar. It is the latter who is the premier Earl of Scotland, and he strongly resents the pretensions of Lord Mar and Kellie to the Mar earldom of the Queen Mary creation, denouncing him as a usurper.

In fact, at every meeting of the representative peers of Scotland at Holyrood Palace, Edinburg, the old Earl of Mar invariably arises to protest in the most solemn manner against the Earl of Kellie voting as the Earl of Mar.

Among the many romantic episodes that figure in the annals of both of these branches of the great Scotch houses of Erskine may be mentioned one in the records of the Earls of Kellie. Early in the reign of King George III. a ship foundered in a gale off the coast of Rosshire and the sole survivor was a baby girl, who was washed ashore in a little cot on the land of Adam Gordon of Ardoch. Gordon took the foundling home to his wife, who brought her up with their own two daughters. Sixteen years went by and one stormy night another vessel was wrecked almost at the same spot, one passenger and the crew being saved. Gordon extended hospitality to the passenger, a merchant from Gothenberg, who had no sooner set eyes on his host's adopted daughter than he discovered in her an extraordinary resemblance to his sister. That lady, it appeared, had perished in the wreck fifteen years previously, and the clothes that the baby found in the cot had worn proved beyond a doubt that the girl was indeed her daughter and his niece.

The girl and her uncle went back to Sweden, accompanied by Anna Gordon, who there met and married a Scotch merchant, Thomas Erskine. One wedding led to another, for Joanna Gordon went to stay with her sister and became the wife of Thomas Erskine's brother Methven.

Though they belonged to a noble family, neither of the two Erskine brothers had at that time any hope of achieving a title. But a series of unexpected deaths brought them into the direct line of succession, and in 1799 Thomas Erskine woke up one morning to find himself Earl of Kellie. At his death he was succeeded by his brother Methven. Thus had come to pass that through the two shipwrecks each of the Gordon ladies wore a coronet.

As everything concerning the new British Ambassador at Washington is of interest, it may be well to call attention to the fact that Michael Herbert has a strong strain of Russian blood in his veins, his grandmother, the Countess of the eleventh Earl of Pembroke, having been a daughter of Count Simon Woronzow. The Woronzoffs are among the oldest and most illustrious families of the great territorial nobility of Russia, and Count Simon Woronzow—that is to say, the great-grandfather of Michael Herbert—after having been a distinguished figure of the courts of Empress Catherine and Emperor Paul, became Muscovite Ambassador in London, where he died in 1832, after marrying his daughter to the Lord Pembroke of the day. But this is not the only foreign connection of Michael Herbert, for his uncle, the twelfth Earl, married the Princess Octavia Sinelli, daughter of the Roman Duke of Laurino, while the wife of the seventh Earl, Henriette de Querouailles, was the sister of that Louise de Querouailles who was one of the fair friends of King Charles II., and by him the ancestress of the Dukes of Richmond and Gordon. Michael Herbert has therefore a combination of Russian, Roman, and French blood in his veins, in addition to which he is married to an American girl.

His elder brother is the present Earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, who occupies the principal office at the court of King Edward as Lord Steward of the household. Lord Pembroke and Michael Herbert had yet another and elder brother, the late and thirteenth Earl, who was a brilliant man and a great traveler. When quite a young man he went in search of health on a yachting cruise in the south seas in charge of Dr. George Henry Kingsley, one of three clever brothers, the other two, Henry and Charles, being better known to fame. The result of this cruise was the publication of one of the most successful books of travel ever written, entitled "South Sea Bubbles," by "The Earl and Doctor." The late Earl was also the author of a particularly fascinating volume written in the most free and unconventional spirit, entitled "Roots." Both of these books were the subject of much criticism, owing to the humorous approval expressed therein of the lax morals of the South Sea Islanders and "South Sea Bubbles" in particular was on that account banned from the circulating libraries.

MOTHER KIDNAPS HER CHILD.

Takes Boy from His Father, but Is Accidentally Found by a Sheriff and Arrested.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clayton E. Gifford of Kalamazoo kidnaped her son Robert, 4 years old, and got as far as Grand Rapids Wednesday night. Then she called up a friend by long distance telephone, and Sheriff Shipman, who was looking for the woman, accidentally overheard the conversation. The result was a communication with Grand Rapids officers, and Mrs. Gifford and the boy were soon taken into custody. This morning the father swore to complaints charging both Mrs. Gifford and her mother, Mrs. Albert Buck of Battle Creek, with kidnaping. The whole affair is the sequel of a divorce granted to Gifford last March, at which time the court gave him the custody of the child.

SHORTAGE IN FUNDS ALLEGED.

Former Treasurer Heritage at Anderson, Ind., Said to Be $13,000 Behind in His Accounts.

Anderson, Ind., June 12.—[Special.]—Auditor O. P. Crim this evening made public his report covering an investigation of the record of retiring Treasurer C. F. Heritage, Republican, and chairman of the Republican committee during the last campaign. Mr. Heritage on retiring had an expert go over his records, and upon that showing the County Commissioners paid an allowance of $4,000. A few months ago Auditor Crim called the commissioners together and stated there were grave errors in the settlement. He asked to be permitted to make an investigation, and today completed his work with the statement that Heritage is short $13,084.38. Heritage denies the statement and says it is all an error in the bookkeeping, and is ready to pay over any amount he owes. There is much feeling over the matter here, and Republicans allege it is a scheme of the Democrats to secure control of the county at the fall election.

WHEAT MAKES HEADWAY.

EXCELLENT BUYING BRINGS ABOUT HIGHER PRICES.

Leading Locals as Well as the New York Contingent Taking Hold of the Market with a Little More Vim—Receipts Light Enough to Attract Attention and Create Comment—Talk of a Late Movement — Cash Oats Climbing.

The general tone of wheat was strong yesterday, with closing prices showing an advance of ¼c on July, ⅝c on September, and ¼c on December. July sold up to 72½c and September to 70¾-⅞c, December touching 73c. The buying was good throughout the session, Southwestern traders flopping to the long side of the market and local houses taking considerable quantities. New-Yorkers were also represented in the pit on the buying side.

July Wheat Range.

The weather map was wet in spots, showing rains throughout Iowa, Nebraska, and the Northwest, but not in Kansas, Missouri, Texas, or Illinois, where harvest is either under way or approaching. The Armour people gave the cue to the early market by buying good-sized lots of September, although later this house was moderately on the selling side of July. Other good buyers were McReynolds, Trego, Lester-Kneeland, and Bartlett-Frazier.

The Price Current was somewhat bearish but not enough so to have any special influence on prices. Weather on the other side was generally unfavorable, with Liverpool and London slightly higher in consequence. Some of the private cables from France indicated prospects for a large wheat crop. Northwestern markets were decidedly strong, Minneapolis up at one time 1c and closing about the top for the day. The situation in the Southwest was not quite as strong on wheat, although at St. Louis the July was fractionally up.

Poor Showing in Receipts.

Receipts are sufficiently light to cause some uneasiness on the part of shorts and to create more or less of a fear that they may not increase. The movement would indicate that reserves were pretty well out of the way. All through the session there was less of a disposition to take the short side and evidences of more buying for speculative account. Locally there were only fifteen cars received, of which one was contract. Estimated for today, twenty cars. There was a substantial falling off at Minneapolis as compared with the previous week, all points showing a decided decline, as compared with last year, when 416 cars were received. Yesterday's total at Minneapolis, Duluth, and Chicago was 179 cars. The total at all primary points was 230,000 bu, against 492,000 bu a year ago. Shipments were 372,000 bu, against 250,000 bu last year. Locally there were 177,200 bu withdrawn from public houses and thirty-three cars from unlicensed.

The cash wheat market was strong, but failed to show much activity, only 80,000 bu being worked. This was No. 1 Northern, and brought ½c over July. New York reported nine loads and cleared 277,000 bu.

Firm Tone in Corn.

Corn was bullishly affected early in the day by fears that recent heavy rains in Iowa and Nebraska might delay cultivation and more or less impede the movement. Largely on the strength of this July sold up to 63½c, September to 58⅜c, and December to 44⅝-¾c. Closing prices were about ¼c below the high point, although fractionally over the closing of the day before. Cables were somewhat indifferent, but help from that source was not particularly needed. A firming influence was light offerings both in the pit and at country points on Wednesday night elevator bids. The Cudahy interests bought a little September early, although they were said to be sellers later. The bull leaders were not actively in the market. There appears to be little more July for them to buy, having already bought the market to a standstill. Receipts continue to run light, the day's inspection being 312 cars. The out-inspection was 112,700 bu. All primary points reported 346,000 bu, against 419,000 bu a year ago. The shipments were 346,000 bu, against 761,000 bu last year.

There was moderate activity in the cash market, sales of 30,000 bu No. 2 and 40,000 bu No. 3 being reported. Prices on the sample side were steady.

Cash Oats Strong.

The oats situation is governed entirely by the cash market, which is showing a continued strength surprising to the trade. This strength pushed the new July delivery up to 40⅜c, 1c over the opening. The entire advance, however, was not sustained. There is talk of too much rain in Nebraska and Iowa, but otherwise the crop situation was good. The Price Current was rather bearish, saying that all indications point to a large yield in the chief States and a moderate one in the others. Local receipts are running decidedly light, 88 cars for the day, of which 11 were contract. About 50,000 bu were withdrawn from regular houses and 9 cars from unlicensed. The light receipts are making July shorts nervous. The cash demand continues excellent throughout the New England States, sales for shipment to that section being 1¼c over prices asked on Wednesday. No. 3 white readily brought 46½c, about everything offered being sold. There was rather less of an inquiry for No. 2 mixed, although Patten sold 50,000 bu of this grade at a good premium over July. Mixed oats in St. Louis were also reported 1c higher. There is some talk of recent wind-storms lodging oats in the southern part of the State.

Short Ribs Recover Late Loss.

The provision list, with the exception of July ribs, lost a little ground as the result of the day's trade. Business was in fair volume. The higher prices on ribs were largely in the way of a recovery from Wednesday's serious break; otherwise there was not much in the trade. The demand for pork was good, but inquiry for lard was rather tame. Ribs were lightly offered all through the session. The Cudahy Packing company sold them for September delivery, Roloson buying July. Steever was about the best lard seller. Hog receipts were 34,000, with 28,000 estimated for today. Packing for the week is reported at 495,000 head, a falling off of 80,000 as compared with last year. Shipments of cured meats were 1,880,600 lbs, against 1,741,000 lbs a year ago, and of lard 676,500 lbs, compared with 908,300 last year.

There was a slow but reasonably steady market in rye, September selling at 54⅜c, while July was offered at 56⅝c, with 55½c bid. Cash stuff did not sell, No. 2 in store being nominally 56⅝@57c. Receipts were 5 cars, with 28,800 bu withdrawn from store.

Barley was about unchanged and generally quiet. Only 5 cars were inspected, which left few samples on the market. The range on screenings was from 50c to 63c and on malting from 63c to 68c, choice being quoted nominally at 69c. This market received some strength from oats. There was a slightly stronger tone to timothy seed, although not much business was done because of light offerings. For August $5.10 was bid. First half of September was offered at $4.85, with $3.75 bid. For all September $4.60 was bid. Clover remains entirely nominal at $8.35 for contract. There were moderate sales of No. 1 Northwestern flax seed at $1.76. Southwestern was nominally $1.56. For September $1.44 was asked, with $1.42 bid. October was offered at $1.39½, $1.38 being bid. Receipts were 4 cars here, 2 at Minneapolis, and 1 at Duluth.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

The sharp little bulge to 40⅝c on new July oats shows the strength of the cash market. On the sample side No. 2 mixed, which are not particularly popular, sold at 43c, and No. 3 white at 46½c. The new July will be No. 3 white in six weeks. Considering the abnormal present spread, the trade is interested in knowing how the two prices will come together. There is not the slightest manipulation in oats, the July getting its entire strength from the cash situation. The East is taking about everything offered. As one trader put it: "You can sell anything that looks like oats; shoe pegs will do almost as well as the real article." Boston furnished an instance yesterday of the Eastern demand. A local house sent bids there on Wednesday, but because immediate requirements were filled the bids were turned down. Yesterday Boston was a buyer here at 1¼c over the price at which the same grade of oats were offered there on Wednesday. Patten worked 40,000 bu of his No. 2 mixed at a substantial premium over the July. He declined to say how much.

The Price Current says: "Excessive rains were a slight setback, but all crops are now progressing favorably. Moisture is slightly prejudicial to the quality of a portion of the wheat. Oats indicate a large yield for the chief States, others moderate. Corn stands good. Interior supplies are light of corn and oats and moderate of wheat."

The Northwestern Miller says: "Crop conditions are generally good and prospects indicate a large yield, acreage considered. In the Northwest spring wheat is in splendid condition. More rain for some weeks is not needed. Too much rain is the only damage feared for the growing crops."

The Cincinnati Price Current reports the packing of the West for the week at 495,000 hogs, compared with 400,000 for the week previous and 525,000 for the corresponding week in 1901. Total since March 1 estimated at 5,575,000, compared with 6,540,000 for the corresponding time last year, a decrease of 965,000.

"We look upon the wheat situation," says Jackson of White & Co., "as an exceptionally strong one. There is no pressure of old wheat anywhere in the world. Our receipts are phenomenally light in face of last year's large yield. Argentine and Australia are out of the export business. Canadian supplies have been reduced to almost nothing. The Southwestern crop promises about one-half of last year. Minneapolis is again in the Kansas City market, buying hard winter wheat for milling purposes. In 1900 the same state of affairs existed, owing to the shortage of the spring wheat crop, but Kansas and Oklahoma raised enough wheat to fill the export demand to a large extent and at the same time provide enough wheat to the Northwestern millers to carry them to their new crop. In comparison to all other commodities and necessities of life wheat is the cheapest and leads in consumption. Should anything happen to the French crop this year it will enhance values materially, as France will have to be a large buyer, owing to the fact that the old stocks of wheat are nearly exhausted."

More or less of an uncertainty has sprung up in the wheat trade as to the early movement of the new crop. An original theory is advanced by Mark Bates of W. P. Press & Co., who said yesterday: "It is impossible, as I look at it, that the early movement will prove at all embarrassing to this market. Ordinarily it is a depressing influence, but I do not think it will be so this year. An analysis of the recent government report shows some surprisingly low conditions in the Southeastern winter wheat States, among them Maryland, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee, and Kentucky. One of these States shows a condition of 49, and few are over 60, which clearly does not indicate more than half a crop of wheat. It will be news to the trade generally that wheat buyers are now making a tour of some of the Southwestern Staes, principally Missouri, for the purpose of supplying the milling demand in Tennessee and States in that neighborhood. This demand is decidedly strong, and its existence can only be construed as an argument that there is little if any wheat in farmers' hands in the Southeastern States. It is evident that had farmers any wheat on hand the millers would not be going abroad for grain to grind. The wheat crop from the States named generally finds its way to the Kansas City or St. Louis markets, but I believe this year it will be diverted, and the Chicago market lose both the direct and indirect influence of heavy early receipts. This is one of the reasons why I am a bull on the market. Values may sag temporarily from a variety of purely local causes, but I believe eventually we shall see much higher prices."

The directors of the Chicago Board of Trade have appointed the following delegation to the ninth annual meeting of the National Hay association to be held in Put-in Bay Island, Ohio, July 10 to 12: George S. Bridge, John G. Walters, W. H. Moorhead, Hector L. Randall, William Wittman, Henry H. Freeman, James W. Fernald, George S. Blakeslee, William J. Thompson, Sherman W. Edwards, James B. Carter, and Lowell Hoit.

There was a moderate supply of hogs, with a number left over from Wednesday, which made the early supply look large enough to justify buyers in getting 10c decline. Choice to heavy shipping hogs sold at $7.50@7.62½. Fair to good packing hogs sold at $7.30@7.50. Light bacon hogs sold at about $7.20. Inferior to choice light mixed sold at $7.10@7.40. # WEST SIDE 'L' BONDS SOLD

METROPOLITAN PUTS OUT $1,500,000 FOR EXTENSIONS.

First National Gets the Issue at About 93 1-2—State Bank of Chicago Elected a Member of the Clearing-House Association—American Ship Building Stock Placed Among the Unlisted Securities on the Local Exchange—Financial Notes.

Directors of the Metropolitan Elevated have sold to the First National Bank 1,500,000 4 per cent extension bonds. The issue is being put out to meet the cost of construction of branches. The price realized is not disclosed, but is understood to be about 93½, with interest. About a year ago the board sold to Otis, Wilson & Co. $1,250,000 of the same issue at a price approximating that realized on the last sale.

Public bids were not invited, though a number of local bond houses and banks were asked to submit figures. It is reported there was some difference of opinion in the board over the matter of not advertising publicly for bids.

State Bank Enters Clearing-House.

The State Bank of Chicago was yesterday unanimously admitted to membership in the Chicago Clearing-House association. The admission of the State Bank brings the membership up to sixteen. The number of the newly admitted institution will be 18. Since the numbers were rearranged last year, in accordance with precedence of admission, the Merchants' National, which was number 2, has been absorbed by the Corn Exchange National. The Metropolitan National, which was number 6, has been purchased by the First National. Since the banks, however, dislike to have their numbers changed, the vacancies probably will not be filled for a long time to come. The list of banks and their numbers follow:

1—First National Bank.
2—Commercial National Bank.
3—Merchants' Loan and Trust company.
4—Corn Exchange National Bank.
5—Hibernian Banking association.
6—Bank of Montreal.
9—Union Trust company.
10—Chicago National Bank.
11—Continental National Bank.
12—Fort Dearborn National Bank.
13—National Bank of the Republic.
14—Bankers' National Bank.
15—Northern Trust company.
16—Illinois Trust and Savings Bank.
17—American Trust and Savings Bank.
18—State Bank of Chicago.

Following the usual custom the Chicago State Bank will sign the bylaws and pay an admission fee of $1,000. The regular dues thereafter are $100 a quarter. The Chicago State Bank has a capital of $1,000,000 and $200,000 surplus. Its deposits at the date of the last State bank call were $9,581,736. The bank was established in 1879. H. A. Haugen is President and John R. Lindgren cashier.

American Ship Building.

By reason of the earnings of the company, American Shipbuilding stocks are beginning to attract considerable attention. The shares were yesterday placed among the unlisted securities on the Chicago Stock Exchange. Trading was only moderate, but prices were firm. The common closed at 42 and the preferred at 100¼, being an advance of ¼ for the common and ⅛ for the preferred.

The capitalization of the company consists of an authorized issue of $15,000,000 7 per cent non-accumulative preferred, of which $7,900,000 are outstanding. The common stock issue is $15,000,000 authorized, with $7,600,000 outstanding. The preferred has been paying regular dividends of 7 per cent.

The properties were taken over and preferred stock issued in payment therefor at par on the valuation of public appraisers. There was also paid into the treasury $20 per share on the common stock to create a working capital. In connection with the listing of the shares the following statement of earnings has been prepared by friends of the property.

Financial Notes.

The Milwaukee Gas Light company has applied to the New York Stock Exchange to list $6,000,000 first mortgage 25 year 4 per cent bonds of 1927.

It is announced that negotiations between the Panama Railroad company and the Pacific Mail Steamship company, which have been in progress about six months, looking toward a renewal of traffic relations between the two properties, have been consummated.

Officers of the United Steel corporation deny that they have been making conditional contracts for steel, deliverable at intervals during the next twelve months. On the contrary, it is declared consumers are willing to make unconditional contracts.

American Strawboard people say the straw crop in territory tributary to their mills promises to be an abundant supply this season. This will be good news for Strawboard stockholders, since it was a poor straw crop which caused the company to borrow over $100,000 and suspend payment of dividends.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Pennsylvania Steel company has been called for Aug. 12 to vote on the proposed increase of the indebtedness of the company from $7,000,000 to $14,500,000.

It is announced that a company to be known as the National Paper Bag company is being organized, with a capital stock of $500,000. The incorporators are Henry A. Callan, Henry R. Curtis, and Charles N. Hickoll of Jersey City. They say a large plant will be erected in Chicago.

Money Market.

The local money market shows a trifle firmer tendency. The best of borrowers can get money at 4 per cent. The ruling rate, however, is more nearly 4½ per cent. One Chicago bank was offered a $500,000 loan by New York at 4½ per cent for six months. It was declined.

The New York money market is a shade firmer, but London remains unchanged. The Bank of England left its minimum rate of discount at 3 per cent, the figure at which it has obtained for a number of months.

Swift Stock Advances.

The stock of Swift & Co. has in the last week shown a sharp advance. It was yesterday 108 bid, with a probability that sales could easily be made at 110. Ten days ago the stock was selling at 103. Officers of the company say there is nothing special in view. However, a stock does not ordinarily move up without some good reason.

Burlington, Cedar Rapids.

Stockholders of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern are moving in the matter of getting better terms from the Rock Island. The following has been issued by three New-Yorkers:

"The undersigned, acting upon the request of the owners of a large amount of stock of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern railway company, which is not controlled by the Rock Island railroad company, have consented to act as a committee for the protection of the rights of the minority stockholders in the matter of the leasing of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern to the Rock Island railroad company. From the report of the earnings of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern railway company, showing as it does net earnings of upward of 15 per cent on the stock of the company, the proposed lease on the basis of a 6 per cent guaranty to the stockholders of the Burlington, Cedar Rapids and Northern railway company would seem to work a great injustice to the minority stockholders. A general meeting of the dissenting stockholders will be held at an early date.

Sec. and Treas. . . . . R. W. WAITE, formerly of Chicago Edison Co.

OFFICE OF
UNITED GAS & ELECTRIC COMPANY

THE TROWBRIDGE & NIVER COMPANY, CHICAGO.

Gentlemen:—A consolidation has been effected by which the two Electric Light plants and the Gas plant in New Albany, Indiana, and the Gas plant in Jeffersonville, four miles distant, have all been put into one corporation, under the name of the UNITED GAS & ELECTRIC COMPANY.

Immediately after the consolidation the two Electric Light plants at New Albany were combined, and duplicate operating expenses thus avoided. A contract has since been made with the New Albany Railway Company to supply, for a period of years, the electric power required to operate the entire street railway system of New Albany, which will add considerably to the company's revenue.

Orders have been given to make the necessary extensions of gas mains in both cities, and a large increase of revenue from this source can also be confidently expected.

The Company intends later to install a hot water heating system to be operated in connection with the electric plant, which will bring a large increase in revenue with a comparatively slight increase in operating expenses.

FRANCHISES AND CITY CONTRACT—The City of New Albany is lighted by the Company under a contract running eight years from 1902, the minimum cost to the city being $15,000 per annum. The franchises in New Albany run for 45 years from 1902. The Jeffersonville franchises run for 30 years from 1902.

(Or over twice the present fixed charges).

I believe that the combination of so large a portion of the public service enterprises of two thriving communities will result in low operating cost, affording the Company the opportunity to sell its product at reasonable prices, thus popularizing its service with the public, which is the best guarantee against competition.

Both in my original investigations into these properties and in present plans for the larger development of the system and the business, I have availed myself of the close co-operation of the Company's engineers, Messrs. Sargent & Lundy, of Chicago.

Very truly yours,

SAMUEL INSULL,
President United Gas & Electric Co.

We offer any maturity at 101 and interest.

SATURDAY LAST DAY
ADVANCE 25% JUNE 14.

An advance of 25 per cent in the price of stock of the

to take place after June 14, has been ordered by the Board of Directors.

This advance is more than justified by the demand for the stock and the state of development. The holdings of this company are on the rich vein of the famous "Camp Bird," which has produced $12,000,000 within last five years and was recently sold to the Venture Co. of London, England, for $11,000,000. Eight mines within a radius of three miles of this property have produced over $121,000,000, proving it the RICHEST DISTRICT IN THE WORLD, WHOSE VALUES ARE UNKNOWN.

One half of the capitalization of the Company of $2,000,000 has been placed in the Treasury to be sold only as authorized by the Board of Directors.

I am offering a limited amount of this stock for 20c a Share, Par Val. $1.00, Until June 14 Only.

When the price will advance to 25 cents a share. Don't miss the opportunity to buy at ground floor price, as developments will necessitate rapid advances in price. Remember, all orders must bear date and postmark not later than 6 P. M. SATURDAY, JUNE 14TH.

To secure stock at 20c per share. These mines will pay in dividends daily the present price of stock. For prospectus and shares address or wire

STOCK DEALINGS FALL OFF PRICES DROP.

Heaviest Transactions of Day in Missouri Pacific, Which Small Net Gain—Chicago and Northwestern Advances 5 1-4 Points—Light Trading—Market for Copper Issues Shows Some Strength—Monetary Outlook Not Bright.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.] NEW YORK, June 12.—[Special.]—The dealings in stocks were considerably smaller than yesterday, and the market reflected profit-taking by the professional element which engineered the advance of the last two days. The heaviest transactions were again in Missouri Pacific, which was exceptionally strong throughout and at a moderate reaction from the best price closed fractionally higher than yesterday. St. Paul, which was second in respect to activity, lost a little more than half of the improvement recorded last night. These were the only two stocks in which the dealings aggregated more than 10,000 shares.

The anthracite stocks and those of the bituminous coal roads, as well, were neglected, and closed unchanged, or slightly lower than yesterday. Less active railway issues that showed a tendency to advance were Chicago Terminal, Colorado and Southern, Kansas City Southern, and Wabash preferred.

On the purchase of less than a thousand shares, Chicago and Northwestern preferred advanced 5¼ points. Chicago and Eastern Illinois also enjoyed a noteworthy net gain, namely: 7½ points.

The industrial list received little attention, and the most important net fluctuation was a decline of 1¼ per cent in Sugar Refining. A moderate buying movement in American Grass Twine carried it to the highest price yet recorded for it. The market for dividend issues reflected profit-taking, caused by denial of the rumors current yesterday that the company is likely to declare a dividend upon its preferred stock in the near future. International Pump common was higher on the declaration of the first dividend on the stock, and International Power, after selling at 90, closed 2 points higher than yesterday at 85.

The transactions in bonds were upon about the same scale as yesterday, and the demand for them was in the main firm. In the outside market, the more important transactions were in Northern Securities at 102⅝@...

The market for the various copper stocks was strong, notwithstanding the reports of open manipulation of Tennessee Copper. American Window Glass was dealt in for the first time at 62⅞@63, and Camden and Trenton railway at 4@4½. Havana Tobacco common sold at 51, and Corn Exchange rights at 26½.

Regarding the local monetary situation it is to be noted that since the beginning of the clearing-house week to the close of business last night, the banks had lost to the Subtreasury $1,751,000. On the other hand the banks are receiving money from the interior in fairly large amounts, and during the next week or ten days the Subtreasury will make liberal disbursements on account of pensions.

STOCK DEALINGS FALL OFF AND PRICES DROP.

Heaviest Transactions of Day Are in Missouri Pacific, Which Scores Small Net Gain—Chicago and Northwestern Advances 5 1-4 Points on Light Trading—Market for Copper Issues Shows Some Strength—Monetary Outlook Not Bright.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, June 12.—[Special.]—The dealings in stocks were considerably smaller than yesterday, and the market reflected in profit-taking by the professional element, which engineered the advance of the last two days. The heaviest transactions were again in Missouri Pacific, which was exceptionally strong throughout and at a moderate reaction from the best price closed fractionally higher than yesterday. St. Paul, which was second in respect to activity, lost a little more than half of the improvement recorded last night. These were the only two stocks in which the dealings aggregated more than 10,000 shares.

The anthracite stocks and those of the bituminous coal roads, as well, were neglected, and closed unchanged, or slightly lower than yesterday. Less active railway issues that showed a tendency to advance were Chicago Terminal, Colorado and Southern, Kansas City Southern, and Wabash preferred.

On the purchase of less than a thousand shares, Chicago and Northwestern preferred advanced 5¼ points. Chicago and Eastern Illinois also enjoyed a noteworthy net gain—namely: 7½ points.

The industrial list received little attention, and the most important net fluctuations was a decline of 1¼ per cent in Sugar Refining. A moderate buying movement in American Grass Twine carried it to the highest price yet recorded for it. The market for distilling issues reflected profit-taking, caused by a denial of the rumors current yesterday that the company is likely to declare a dividend upon its preferred stock in the near future. International Pump common was higher on the declaration of the first dividend on that stock, and International Power, after selling at 90, closed 2 points higher than yesterday at 85.

The transactions in bonds were upon about the same scale as yesterday, and the market for them was in the main firm. In the outside market the more important transactions were in Northern Securities at 102⅜@102½.

The market for the various copper stocks was strong, notwithstanding the renewal of open manipulation of Tennessee Copper. American Window Glass was dealt in for the first time at 62⅝@63, and Camden and Trenton railway at 4@4½. Havana Tobacco common sold at 51, and Corn Exchange Bank rights at 26½.

Regarding the local monetary situation, it is to be noted that since the beginning of the clearing-house week to the close of business last night, the banks had lost to the Subtreasury $1,751,000. On the other hand, the banks are receiving money from the interior in fairly large amounts, and during the next week or ten days the Subtreasury will make liberal disbursements on account of pensions.

IN NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Railroad Stocks, and Other Securities in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The stock market lapsed today into a torpid condition and dealings fell off one-third from yesterday's aggregate. There was no actual weakness developed and the selling was pretty well absorbed. The market closed dull, but steady.

The movements in the bond market were irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,990,000. United States 2s registered declined ¼ and the new 4s ½. The old 4s registered advanced ½ per cent on last call.

Close: Money on call, steady at 2½@3 per cent; closing bid and asked 2@3 per cent. Prime mercantile paper 4@4¾ per cent; sterling exchange firm, with actual business in bankers' bills at 487½ for demand and at 484¾@485 for 60 days; posted rates, 485½@486 and 488@488½; commercial bills, 484¼@485⅝. Bar silver, 52¼. Mexican dollars, 42.

PRODUCE LINES NOT ACTIVE.

Leading Staples, However, Are About Steady, with Moderate Quantities Moving.

In some of the staples there was a slightly better feeling yesterday, although business in the bulk of the produce lines was not particularly good. Dairy product generally remains quiet and easy, receipts of eggs showing a slight falling off, but the demand, as an offset, is not as urgent as formerly. The higher grades of butter are taken readily, with receipts running steady compared with both last week and last year. Offerings of potatoes were larger and prices easier in consequence. Cheese is slightly stronger, although buying is only to supply immediate wants. Berries generally were unsettled and easier, many of the consignments coming on to the market late. A car of watermelons was received from Florida and three cars from Texas. A considerable consignment of California gems is expected today.

Range of Coffee Prices.

LEAK IN QUOTATIONS GOES ON.

Board of Trade Officials Fail to Find How a Kansas City Firm Gets Its Market Reports.

Kansas City, Mo., June 12.—[Special.]—The Christie Grain and Stock company posted the quotations of the Chicago market as usual today, and the expert detectives and the members of the Kansas City Board of Trade who have been trying to learn the source of Mr. Christie's market reports were puzzled more than ever. The discovery of two sets of secret telephones in the walls of offices in the Exchange Building and the destruction of the instruments has not interrupted Mr. Christie's business.

When it was learned that Christie offices were posting Chicago quotations this morning numerous theories were advanced concerning the source of the reports.

"Those are 'fake' quotations on the Christie boards," said John Hill Jr., the detective employed by the Chicago Board of Trade. "Christie has employed runners, who copy quotations from offices in the Board of Trade and then telephone or carry the quotations to the main office of the Christie company in the Gibraltar Building."

"Will you continue to tear out the walls of offices in the Exchange Building in your search for the source of Mr. Christie's information?" was asked.

"No, I think the firms which have private wires will be allowed to search their own offices," he said.

A special meeting of the Quotations committee of the Board of Trade was held this morning behind closed doors to take some action in the case, but nothing definite was agreed upon.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

MOORES THWARTED THROUGH REPUDIATED AGREEMENT.

Failure to Gain Representation on Northwestern Board Said to Have Been Due to an Antagonism of Vanderbilts on Account of Rejected Plan for Stock Dividend—Michigan Central to Put on Fast Train Between Chicago and New York.

Considerable comment is being made in railway circles regarding the reason why the Moores were not given representation on the Board of Directors of the Chicago and Northwestern at the recent annual meeting. The Moores, it is said, wanted representation on the Northwestern board in order to be able to guard the interests of the Rock Island, which to a certain extent competes with the Northwestern. A few days before the meeting in Chicago last week the Moores, it is understood, sent all the proxies they held to Marvin Hughitt, President of the Northwestern. It is now said the reason the Moores did not get the representation they desired on the Northwestern board was that W. K. Vanderbilt repudiated an agreement which had been reached between the Moores and their associates and H. McK. Twombly, representing the Vanderbilt interests.

An agreement, it is said, had been reached between the Moore and the Vanderbilt interests to declare a stock dividend of 50 per cent of the present capital stock, but this now has been abandoned, or at least postponed.

The Northwestern has outstanding $39,114,678 of common stock and $22,395,120 of preferred, or a total of the two issues of $61,509,798. This would require for a 50 per cent stock dividend $30,754,899 of new stock. During the last three years the Northwestern has taken from income and spent on construction and improvements more than $13,400,000, or $1,000,000 in excess of the amount paid in dividends in the same three years. The present book value of the Northwestern properties and its present book cost per mile is now far below actual cost.

Fast Limited on Michigan Central.

The Michigan Central, on and after next Sunday, will put on a fast limited train that will make the time between Chicago and New York in twenty-four hours, the same as the Lake Shore and Pennsylvania limited trains. It has found it necessary to do this in order to meet the competition of the twenty-hour trains these roads will inaugurate next Sunday. The New York special of the Michigan Central now leaving at 5:30 p. m. will leave on and after Sunday at 5:20 p. m., and reach New York at 6:30 p. m. the following day. This will be an extra fare train, $4 more being charged than on the twenty-eight-hour trains.

Train No. 14, now leaving Chicago at 3 p. m., will shorten its time and reach New York at 8:15 p. m. instead of 9 p. m., as at present.

The fast train west-bound from New York will leave there at 4 p. m., reaching Chicago at 3:15 p. m. the next day, making the time in twenty-four hours and fifteen minutes. This train will carry a through Pullman sleeping car to Grand Rapids, Mich.

Accused of Cutting Rates.

One of the east-bound lines from St. Paul is accused of cutting lake and rail rates. That this line is shading the rates is indicated by the heavy movement of west-bound merchandise across Lake Michigan via car ferry route, instead of by the upper lakes. The line held responsible for this diversion has also been handling unusually heavy shipments of flour, and this is hurting the business of the upper lake lines and carriers at competing Michigan ports. Traffic officials are making a thorough investigation before taking further steps.

The offending road is not one of the sixteen that were enjoined by the federal courts. It will be one of the arguments of the railroad attorneys before United States Judges Grosscup and Phillips in this city on June 23, when the question of making the temporary injunctions permanent comes up, that justice and equity require that all lines should be treated alike. The fact that some of the smaller and indirect lines were not enjoined from paying rebates or cutting rates has, it is claimed, been taken advantage of by the latter, and the direct lines, which were enjoined, could not meet the rates made by those lines, and in consequence lost much traffic which otherwise they would have secured.

New Joint Agency Established.

Members of the Central Passenger association were notified by Chairman Donald yesterday that a joint agency for the execution of return portions of Niagara Falls excursion tickets has been established at Niagara Falls. The agency will be open from June 21 to twelve days after date of the last excursion, and the office hours will be from 6 a. m. to 11 p. m. During the first four days following date of sale tickets only require for execution the stamp of the joint agent. Tickets deposited for extension beyond this period, however, are not available for return unless affixed to validation paster by the joint agent.

Granted Excursion Rates.

Excursion rates at a fare and one-third for the round trip have been granted by the Central Passenger association lines for the following occasions: College students' conference of Young Men's Christian associations, Lake Geneva, Wis., June 21 to 27, from all points in Central Passenger association territory; Illinois State Undertakers' association, Peoria, Ill., June 24 to 27, from all points in Illinois and from St. Louis, Mo.; Music Teachers' National association, Put-in Bay, O., June 1 to 4, from all Central, Trunk Line, Western, and Southeastern Passenger associations points; International Typographical union, Cincinnati, O., Aug. 11 to 16, from all Central Passenger association points.

The Alton, Missouri Pacific, Chicago Great Western, and Santa Fé roads gave notice yesterday that they will accept the tender of the St. Paul and Minneapolis roads of reduced summer excursion rates from the Twin Cities to points in Minnesota for business purposes from their territory.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Sending Postal Cards "C. O. D."

Chicago, June 10.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Permit me to suggest that the government adopt a C. O. D. system in connection with the Postoffice, which could be restricted to postal cards and half-ounce letters with two-cent stamps only. The results would be a large increase of the postal revenue and the system would prove a great advantage to large business houses who do considerable advertising, and very much so in the business I am engaged in—life insurance. Of course there would have to be some restrictions to prevent the system being abused by irresponsible persons. Under the present system there is a great loss in certain lines of business. Every real-estate office in Chicago and elsewhere receives stacks of printed postal cards from contractors, not 1 per cent of which will ever be used, the other 99 per cent being a total loss. Every contractor gives out hundreds of printed postal cards, and only a small per cent of them come back. The C. O. D. system would prove a great saving to them. Every business house would be glad to furnish their regular and prospective customers with order blanks and envelopes, or printed postal cards, and the extra work would not interfere much with the letter carriers as a limited number of people would receive such mail, and then it would be in paying quantities.

THOMAS WARWICK.

Have Precautions Against Fire Been Taken?

Chicago, June 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will you allow me to inquire what precautions against fire have been made by the faculty of the University of Chicago? After the awful catastrophe in Wabash avenue, and the sight of the various heaps of ruins scattered over Hyde Park, testifying to similar holocausts, it does seem appropriate to investigate what the chances for the lives of the students would be should fire break out in the halls or buildings of the University of Chicago.

The new quarter begins on June 18, and young men and women are flocking hither from all parts of the United States to attend the summer course. Are the halls and dormitories supplied with the necessary fire escapes, and has every precaution been taken to insure the safety of the inmates?

If this is not the case, would not the immediate purchase of iron stairs, extinguishers, and apparatus be an excellent expenditure of any recently acquired funds? I should be glad if some member of the faculty would kindly answer this question openly, for it would be reassuring to many who greatly dread dormitory life on account of the risk of a conflagration.

NEWS OF THE INSURANCE FIELD.

Inspectors of Illinois Survey Bureau Will Apply New Schedule Under Auspices of State Board.

It was learned yesterday that there was considerable discussion at the meeting of the Illinois State board at Delavan Lake, Wis., this week, over the proposition of the Insurance Survey bureau to contribute the assistance of such of its inspectors as were working in Illinois for the purpose of applying the new schedules. Some of the managers have been afraid that this organization was trying to supplant the Western Union, and they opposed acceptance of the offer. After explanations that the survey bureau inspectors were merely to apply the schedule as they went over risks for their own purposes, the offer was accepted, with the proviso that the work is to be done under State board auspices and results announced through its channels.

The Janesville (Wis.) Leaf Tobacco Dealers' association protested against the recent increase in rates, and received offers from a number of companies in Chicago to write the business at the old rates. Some one suggested that the companies be looked up before premiums were sent them, and the insurance commissioner of Wisconsin promptly advised the members that the concerns were all wild cats without legal or financial standing.

The Home of New York announces that it will not enter England.

Tornado losses are severe this week, some unusually large claims coming from Peoria and Bloomington. It is evident that this business will be unprofitable this year.

The organization of the Ohio league, the non-union field men's association, was completed in Ohio this week. At present it will not coöperate with the union organization.

Central Illinois towns are suffering from a plague of firebugs. They have set scores or fires in Peoria in the last three months, and are now operating in Champaign and Urbana. Rates may be raised in the latter place unless the authorities take action.

George E. Haas, chief clerk of the Atlas office in this city, stood second in the examination for insurance clerks, recently conducted by Rough Notes, an insurance journal. Of nine who secured special mention three were from Chicago.

Fifty years ago this month, the Western department of the Royal was established at Cincinnati by John S. Law, the father of Law Bros., its present Western managers at Chicago. A month or two later, during the summer, John H. Law, the elder of the brothers, became connected with the department, with which he has been associated ever since. This notable semi-centennial will doubtless be appropriately observed when the time comes.

LAKE CAPTAIN LOSES LICENSE.

Pilot in Command of Steamer Hadley, and Who Sunk the Whaleback Wilson, Is Disciplined.

Duluth, Minn., June 12.—Captain Michael Fitzgerald, who was in command of the steamer George G. Hadley, which sank the whaleback steamer Thomas Wilson off this harbor last Saturday with the loss of nine lives, was today deprived of his license by the United States steamboat inspectors. M. C. Cameron, commander of the Wilson, had his license as a pilot suspended for sixty days.

The inspectors found that no passing signals were exchanged between the Hadley and Wilson, although they were approaching each other nearly head-on. The movement of the Hadley in starboarding its wheel when too near to avoid a collision was, the inspectors found, not authorized by any rule.

The fault of the Wilson was in continuing at full speed after the Hadley had turned towards it. It was also found that no alarm signals were used by either ship.

MOVE TO EXTEND 'L' LOOP

SCHEME IS TO HAVE POLK STREET SOUTHERN LIMIT.

Property-Owners in District Affected Take Up the Plan and Will Organize to Secure Its Success — Meeting Called at Grand Pacific Hotel for Next Tuesday Afternoon, When a Campaign Will Be Outlined—Much Interest Is Shown in Project.

An organized effort is to be made by the property-owners in the district south of Van Buren street and north of Polk street to secure an extension of the Union Elevated loop from Van Buren to Polk street. They will meet at the Grand Pacific Hotel next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to further the plan.

Although the movement took active form only about a week ago, responses have already been received from over 100 of the more prominent property-owners who have signified their intention of being present at the meeting. The majority of them also indicated their approval of the plan and promised coöperation.

The movement was started by Frederick S. Oliver of Oliver & Scott, who in a circular letter calling the meeting said he represented L. Z. Leiter, Henry Siegel, C. C. Heisen, J. W. Blodgett, and other owners of property in the southern business district.

Will Hasten the Extension.

"I have been surprised," said Mr. Oliver yesterday, "at the large number of favorable replies which I have received from the leading property-owners in the district, the majority of whom have expressed their approval of the proposed movement. There is no doubt the association will be formed. It is likely the loop will be extended to Polk street in any event, as this seems to be the only practical solution of the congestion trouble, but it is believed that concerted action by the property-owners will both hasten and make this result more certain.

"The extension to Polk street would give the loop about 50 per cent additional trackage, sufficient for many years to come. In addition it would give a greatly needed expansion of the central business district, which every one knows is badly congested at present. It would increase the value of property in this southern district and would give the city additional revenue as the result of increased taxes."

Green Tree Tavern Leased.

Bernard A. Eckhart has leased for fifteen years the ground at the southeast corner of Milwaukee avenue and Fulton street, west front, 63x44 feet, to the Independent Brewing company for an annual rent of $650. The property is of interest by reason of the fact that upon it is the famous old "Green Tree Tavern."

Harry C. Duffy has sold to Mereb Fawcett the property on Sixty-third street, seventy-five feet west of Eggleston avenue, north front, 50x100 feet, for $22,500. The property is improved with a three-story apartment-house and bears an incumbrance of $12,000 assumed by the purchaser.

C. W. Card has conveyed to Henry W. Thompson the property at 6401 Eggleston avenue, 50x125 feet, for $10,000.

INDIANA BARS CHICAGO SCHEME

Co-operative Home and Farm Purchasing Company Ordered Out of the State.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 12.—[Special.]—The Coöperative Home and Farm Purchasing company of Chicago has been ordered out of the State by Auditor W. H. Hart.

The company had agents in all parts of the State. Its plan was a monthly assessment of $1.35, of which 25 cents went to expenses and 10 cents to meet unforeseen contingencies. There is no definite time set at which the contract will mature.

The Auditor will notify the prosecuting attorneys of the counties in which the concern is operating to prosecute its agents unless they cease business at once.

Not in Shipbuilding Combine.

Chester, Pa., June 12.—There is no truth in the report that the Delaware shipbuilding and engine works, or Roach's shipyard, as it is more generally known, is to be included in the new shipbuilding combination, which, it is said, is being promoted by Lewis Nixon of Elizabeth, N. J.

Veterans Name a Commander.

Stevens Point, Wis., June 12.—James H. Agen of West Superior was today elected Department Commander of the Wisconsin G. A. R., and Chippewa Falls was selected as the place for holding the next encampment.

CAN'T STOP KISSING HERE.

RAILROAD WILL NOT ENFORCE ITS RULE IN CHICAGO.

Pennsylvania's Order Against Osculatory Farewells in Jersey City Station Has Geographical Restriction—Labial Salutes Permissible West of Alleghanies—Local Justices Pass Upon Question of Loving Demonstrations in Public.

Chicago people who are addicted to osculatory farewells in railway stations need not worry because kissing is barred in the Jersey City station of the Pennsylvania railway. Such a rule will not do here, according to the opinion of no less a legal authority than Corporation Counsel Walker.

"I'd like to see somebody stop me from kissing my wife at a railway station," said Mr. Walker yesterday when asked if the rule were legal. "If you want to kiss a woman, and you have a right to—which means, according to the courts, that neither of you object—nobody can prevent you. If somebody does, in a railway station or in any other place, he is guilty of assault. The order is without legal value."

Justices Pass Upon Point.

Two Chicago justices have passed upon this same point. A young man who kissed a woman while they were in Jackson Park was arraigned before Justice Quinn last summer. The court asked that the women be produced. The policeman who had arrested the man and charged him with disorderly conduct said he didn't know where she could be found.

"Well, if he was guilty she was, too," said the justice. "Why didn't you arrest her?"

The policeman had no answer.

"If she had made an outcry then you would have had a case," said the justice. "You admit she didn't. She's not here as a prosecuting witness. It isn't any crime to kiss a girl. The prisoner is discharged."

Justice Callahan had a case somewhat different. A man was arrested in South Chicago for an "osculatory demonstration" near the Madison Park Station of the Illinois Central railway. Both he and his wife were arrested. Justice Callahan asked her if she objected to the show of affection which caused a crowd to gather. The woman answered in the negative, so the justice decided that as man and wife they had the right to kiss each other as often as they pleased, and when and where they pleased, and they were dismissed.

Kissing Goes by Geography.

At the Pennsylvania Station in Chicago yesterday Benjamin McKeen, superintendent of the lines west of Pittsburg, said:

"There will be no enforcement of the order against kissing west of the Alleghanies. Kissing doesn't delay trains here so much because they start out on time, but it does make us lose time at our stops because people insist upon saying:

Take care of yourself.
Now, be sure and feed the canary.
Write me every day.
Get all the catalogues you kin.
Remember me to George.
Pick up all the samples you see.
Don't forget we all are to be here.

"That's the way it goes in the country. At Union Station here we don't hear that, but people block up the entrances so that other passengers can't get in to the train. It's the same way when they leave. A woman with a lot of bundles gets off a train and at the gate she is met by another woman. They block the passageway and proceed to interview each other as long as we will let them stand there. The trainman's life is not a happy one. But the kissing rule wouldn't help it, I'm afraid."

Would Apply Rule to Foreigners.

Still, the kissing order would be appreciated. Employés of the different lines at Union Station say they would have less trouble if it were applied to foreigners.

"They, a couple of them were going down to Bloomington tonight," said one of the gatemen last night, "and at least a dozen of his countrymen came down to see them off. They crowded around, blocking the gate until nobody else could get through, and then they kissed each other like so many children. O, those people are worse than women."

What started all the trouble was the order issued by F. P. A. Abercrombie, Eastern superintendent of the Pennsylvania lines, who had the following notice posted in the Jersey City Station.

"All trainmen, gatemen, and ticket examiners will stop all persons from exchanging kisses upon the arrival and departure of trains in this station. This order must be rigidly enforced."

CHURCH OFFICERS ARE NAMED.

Several Chicagoans Selected at the National Swedish Mission Convention in Galesburg.

Galesburg, Ill., June 12.—[Special.]—The National Swedish Mission Church convention elected today the following officers:

President—The Rev. C. A. Bjork of Chicago.
Vice President—The Rev. S. W. Sundberg of Rockford.
Secretary—Professor D. Nyvall of Chicago.
Trustees—S. A. Matson of Chicago, C. A. Youngquist of Chicago.

North Park College, Chicago, was authorized to gather funds for the erection of an auditorium. The convention decided that a hospital should be erected this year if possible at Bowmanville, Chicago, and accepted a donation of $5,000 from Lewis Sands of Manistee, Mich., to the building fund.

ARCHITECT IS FOUND INSANE.

George Hewson, Who Came Here from St. Louis, Is Ordered Committed to Elgin Hospital.

George Hewson, 3979 Drexel boulevard, at one time a prominent constructing architect and later a large contractor at St. Louis, was adjudged insane yesterday and ordered committed to the hospital at Elgin. Mr. Hewson and his wife moved to Chicago about a year ago. Many business blocks and residences in St. Louis were designed by him. He is 65 years old.

YE GARDENER'S CORNER

Hit or miss gardening may be carried on in any manner, but soul and affection are needed to produce the best results.

Try propagating annual water lilies this season, for an interesting experiment and for pure pleasure. The Victoria Regia will do well for a beginning.

Pyrethrums are attractive, beautifully colored, hardy, and good bloomers. Both single and double varieties are charming and they make the best of borders. For bright-colored masses also the pink, crimson, or scarlet pyrethrum is strongly advised.

Now comes the time when care in watering is necessary. It is much better to make small holes in the ground near trees, shrubs, and bushes, and pour the water into these holes, than to "cake" the earth by simply throwing water about the roots.

The roses should be budding about this time, even the latest of them. Keep them free from insects, well watered, and protected by a lightmulch of leaves or grass cutting if the weather is hot. They will repay intelligent care by prolific bloom.

Set out a few strawberry plants now for next season. They will not take much room, will be as attractive as mere bloomers, and will supply an astonishing amount of fine fruit if well cared for, with thoroughly cultivated earth bed, this summer.

The wild garden should receive additions all summer. Comparatively few people can recognise wild flowers except by their blossoms, so the work of transplanting must be this summer performed in behalf of next. The wild phlox should be watched for eagerly from this time on.

From a fine, shrubby plant of long blooming season select one of the white or crimson hibiscus varieties. The hibiscus loves steady moisture, but a well drained locality. Aim to keep the ground continually damp, but never sloppy. Then the beautiful dark green foliage and gorgeous flowers will prove an unfailing joy.

If you find among your seedlings some plants which will not blossom until next season do not be discouraged. Set them away by themselves, in a sunny but retired corner, and cultivate when you think of them. Protect a little next autumn, and the following spring you will be many times repaid for the slight trouble by the healthy plants.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS

STRONG STUDY IN CHARACTER.

"Bylow Hill," by George W. Cable. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City.

"Bylow Hill" is a novel of strange quality and of unusual power. The treatment of the chief character, the Rev. Arthur Winslow, is not unlike that to which Hawthorne might have accorded the same traits, and it is more impressive in its psychology than anything Cable has ever done. If not his most memorable, it is at least his most impressive character. Cable has been associated in the minds of his many—and always loyal—readers with a fleeting and fascinating comedy, and though the angle of his mirth seemed always to hover above the sea of sorrow, it swept by with so much haste as adverse winds would permit.

But "Bylow Hill" is without comedy. It presents a group of attractive lives, consisting of five young persons, two elderly ones and their servants, living in three houses on a beautiful hill in a fine old New England village. They are the intellectual if not the social aristocrats of the town, and their names have for several generations represented all that was most honorable and efficient in the village. Not to relate the story in detail, let it suffice that two of the young folk, Leonard Byington and Isabel Morris, are lovers of the most earnest sort. They have a misunderstanding—such a one as comes easily to two highly strung, sensitive, and imaginative young people when their mental equilibrium is upset by the emotional crisis of first and expectant love.

During this quarrel, Arthur Winslow, a young clergyman, steps in, urges his love for Miss Morris, and in the bewilderment and pain of the girl's soul persuades her to marry him. She loves him well, serves him faithfully, gives grace to her married life in every possible way, and refuses to recognise the existence of the elemental and enduring love she feels for Leonard Byington. Byington, on his part, does everything he can to put the new home on a solid basis. He is a vestryman of the church at which Winslow officiates as priest, and his labor, no less than that of the clergyman's, conduces to the phenomenal upbuilding of the church. As for the young priest, he is what may be termed a conscientious degenerate.

He loves his young wife with a feverish and half-insane love. He is conscious of his contemptibility in snatching her from his life-long friend, and in taking advantage of her hour of humiliation and sorrow. He continually suspects his wife and his friend of coalition—though he is not quite sure in what way. He sees them both lose some of their vigor, observes that they display more patience than happiness, and at last lies to each of them, saying the other has confessed to an unhappy passion for the other. The two discover the lie instantly, knowing that in each lies an incapability of deceit. Arthur is accused by them of his duplicity—but accused more in pity than in anger.

The drama goes on, always concealed from the public, which considers the group on Bylow Hill to be the most united and fortunate of companies. Arthur's misery deepens, his capacity for sin grows, his remorse thrives by what it feeds on, and a curious situation is evolved, which the reader must learn for himself. Happiness, though of the sort that is born of sorrow, is the outcome. The work is admirable throughout, with the single exception of a certain obscurity in the first chapter, due possibly to the introduction of too many characters at once. For a time these persons seem to move behind a gauze curtain, but just as the reader is despairing of beholding them with the naked eye, they become plain.

One who has admired Mr. Cable for many years, may be pardoned for saying that he has one fault—that of counting on the too instant comprehension and responsiveness on the part of his readers. He has a subtle mind, and one of swift processes, and he forgets that his readers are not invariably so fortunate. If Mr. Cable would be a trifle more explanatory, a shade more obvious, he would increase his popularity and add to the ease of mind of his readers. But does it not seem ungrateful to speak one adverse word of a man who has always written conscientiously, charmingly, and with a sense of fellowship for the whole world? If there is a Christian gentleman, of wit and learning in American letters, one who writes as he lives, with love of beauty, mirth, and goodness, that man is surely George W. Cable.

TALES OF MY FATHER.

A Volume of Biographical Reminiscences, by "A. M. F." Longmans, Green & Co., New York.

In this unpretentious volume the author has gathered memories of an interesting period and of important activities. The book does not profess to be a consecutive life story, but is made up from the author's own memory of events in which her father took part, or from his own accounts, as she remembered them. Beginning with a meeting with Queen Victoria shortly before she became Queen, we find ourselves in royal or diplomatic society all through the book, and the side lights on historical persons and events are unusually gossipy and entertaining.

"My father's" acquaintance extended into Germany and Russia, and his experience in those countries is as interesting as in England. We could wish that the author had given names, even assumed ones, to the people of whom she writes. It piques one's curiosity, even though the true name would add nothing to stories intrinsically interesting, to have them mentioned as "Captain H." or "Father R." Fortunately, many names are given in full, so that we may appreciate at their true worth stories of Wellington, Bismarck, and Moltke, all of whom were "my father's" friends.

Books of Divers Sorts.

As Great Britain is at present busily engaged in petting Japan on the back because of the new alliance, it is not surprising that Mr. Alfred Stead's book, "Japan Today" (H. P. Dutton & Co.), should have for its other title, "Our New Ally." The work, which bears evidence of great haste in its preparation, was probably published to meet the good feeling which the older nation bears, for the moment, to the latter. The friendly subtitle was undoubtedly an afterthought, for it is absent from the title page and appears only as the page heading. The book bristles with statistics, which, if they are accurate, give it some value as a reference manual for those desiring to be posted upon the country's resources at the present time. Aside from this fact, the volume can scarcely be said to be of much account, owing to the sketchy character of its preparation. It has "an introduction," written by Marquis Ito, but he had not seen the book when he wrote it.

"The Children's London" is the title of a handsome book, descriptive of places and things in the English metropolis which would have an especial attraction for the young. It is written by Charlotte Thorpe, and dedicated to the Duchess of Cornwall and York. The chapters include "The Tower," "The Foundling Hospital," "The Zoological Gardens," "The National Gallery," "From Whitehall to St. Paul's," "Westminster Abbey," "Madame Tussaud's," "The British Museum," "The Natural History Museum," "Christ's Hospital," "St. Paul's Cathedral," "A City Walk," and "The Prince Consort's Memorial." Miss Thorpe may have omitted some points of London which children might wish to see, but certainly the treatment of those she has chosen could not have been more delightfully interesting to young people. There are many beautiful illustrations by William Luker Jr. The book is imported by Charles Scribner's Sons.

There has been received from the publishers, the Audit company of New York, through their Western manager, New York Life Building, Chicago, a copy of the second edition of the "Directory of Directors in the City of Chicago, 1902." The favorable reception accorded to the first edition of this directory has prompted the publishers to continue its issue annually; similar to a "Directory of Directors" issued in New York by the same publishers. The book contains the alphabetically arranged names of some 11,000 business-men of Chicago who are directors in its various railways, banks, trust companies, manufacturing and other corporations, with an appendix containing the names of the officers and directors of leading corporations. The directory is of great value to financiers and others having large corporate interests under their control, and should find a place in the offices of the leading business-men of Chicago and the West.

SCHOOLS WIN GOLD MEDAL

Charleston Exposition, Like the Buffalo and Paris Fairs, Finds That the Work of the Chicago Pupils Excels—Attendance for the Month of May Shows That Many Boys Are Turning from Their Desks to Secure Work—Girls Also Seek Employment.

The exhibit of liberal arts made by the Chicago public schools at the Charleston exposition has taken the gold medal. Herman Hanstein, director of drawing in the high schools, received a letter yesterday from Salim H. Peabody, director of the exhibit of liberal arts at Charleston, in which Mr. Peabody said:

"Your exhibit is in the front ranks of schools' exhibits of art in this country. It has been much examined and admired."

The Chicago exhibit was shown in the Paris and Buffalo exhibitions and in each contest was awarded first prize.

The average public school attendance in Chicago during May was 212,835, according to the reports made to Superintendent Cooley by the district superintendents. This number is exclusive of the high school pupils, who number 9,019, making a total of 221,854.

From several of the districts the report has come that there is an unusual number of withdrawals of boys who have left the seventh and eighth grades to secure employment. This condition is marked in the Stock-Yards district.

In other districts there is said to be a falling off in the number of girls who propose taking high school work. This is believed to be the result of the recent lengthening of the Normal School course from two years to three.

With the prospects of four years of high school work and three of Normal school work before them before they can hope to become teachers, it is believed that many of the girls in the eighth grade are seeking to complete their education in commercial schools, which offer quicker returns in the way of employment.

FRIEND OF LIBRARY EMPLOYES.

Director Kuflewski Champions Cause of Those Who Receive Small Wages and Enforced Vacation.

The poorer paid employés of the Public Library have found a champion in Director W. A. Kuflewski. He told President Plamondon yesterday that many of the employés were not receiving wages enough to provide them with the comforts to which they, by their ability and culture, were entitled, and said that rather than have them employed at such poor pay he would favor, as a general proposition, dispensing with their services. The latter is not the alternative, however, that Director Kuflewski will choose. He will make an effort to have increased the wages of some of the young women, who are now receiving $35 a month. At the meeting yesterday the director had a draft of a resolution limiting the vacation requirement to those who receive $1,200 or more a year, but because there was no quorum present the matter went over until the directors meet again on Tuesday afternoon.

GIRL DISAPPEARS FROM HOME.

Parents of Miss Lillian Saindon Fear She Has Eloped with Pugilist and Ask Aid of Police.

Miss Lillian Saindon, the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Saindon, 920 West Sixty-second street, has disappeared from her home and the possibility that she has eloped with James Kaleen, a young pugilist, has been so strongly impressed upon Mrs. Saindon that the police have been instructed to look for and detain the young people until the parents can be notified.

Miss Saindon left her home Wednesday night, while the house was filled with guests. Her absence was discovered early yesterday morning by her sister, and a search revealed the fact that the young woman had taken all of her clothing with her.

For several months the parents of Miss Saindon have been objecting to the attentions paid to her by young Kaleen. Recently he was forbidden entrance to the house. It is said the young people met clandestinely and planned an elopement, but the young man denied to the police yesterday that he knew the whereabouts of Miss Saindon. Kaleen is 22 years old and lives with his parents at 6132 Halsted street.

DROWNED ON BETROTHAL EVE.

Madison, Wis., June 12.—[Special.]—A pathetic story has come to light in connection with the drowning of George L. Lohr of Milwaukee and Miss Ada L. Hawley of this city, who lost their lives together while out boating on Lake Mendota last evening.

Mr. Lohr and Miss Hawley were engaged to be married and she had confided to her girl friend yesterday that in the evening Mr. Lohr was to give her the betrothal ring.

The lake was entirely calm, and the cause of the accident will never be known.

Mr. Lohr's career in the university was a brilliant one. He received a great many honors, having been on the semi-public and joint debates, and having represented Wisconsin in the recent debate with Iowa. Miss Hawley was taking a premedical course at the university. The tragic occurrence has cast gloom over the commencement rites.

FATHER KILLS CHILD AND SELF.

Because Refused Possession of the Little One by Its Mother He Commits a Double Crime.

Shawano, Wis., June 12.—[Special.]—Because he could not gain possession of his child William Putman, a resident of this city, went to the home of his former wife at Gresham, near here, and shot his child through the head, killing it instantly, and then turned the gun upon himself and committed suicide.

Putman had been separated from his wife for some time. She went to Gresham, where she lived with her mother. Putman went to the home of his mother-in-law and demanded the child. He was refused and then drew a revolver and fired. Mrs. Putman rushed to the rescue of her child and took the revolver away from her husband before he could fire another shot. Putman left the house, but returned soon after with a rifle, with which he shot the child through the head, causing almost instant death.

TAKE STEPS TOWARD CABLE.

Pacific Commercial Company Asks Permission to Build Conduit in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., June 12.—The first actual move toward establishing cable communication between San Francisco, Honolulu, and Manila was made today, when the Commercial Pacific Cable company asked permission to use the streets for a conduit from the proposed landing at the western end of Fulton street and the company's office.

The petition asserts that it is the intention of the promoters to lay and operate a submarine cable between San Francisco and Honolulu and Manila, and that the enterprise will be ready for operation during the month of November in this year.

Work on the project has already begun, it is declared, and the laying of the cable will begin within ninety days.

New Trial for Investment Operator.

J. M. Marks of this city, who was convicted in Joliet of operating a confidence game, was granted a new trial there yesterday by Judge Fletcher and released on $300 bonds. Marks and C. B. McDonald were indicted while operating the Diamond Investment company.

Providence, R. I., and Return, $19.90.

On account of the B. Y. P. U. meeting at Providence the Wabash will sell excursion tickets from Chicago, as above, July 7, 8, and 9, via Niagara Falls. For full particulars apply at city ticket office, 97 Adams street. Telephone Central 3046 or 1395.

CADETS END SCHOOL YEAR

RECEIVE DIPLOMAS FROM THE HAND OF THE PRESIDENT.

Exercises at West Point, Where Young Officers Have Finished Their Period of Training, Are Impressive—Dignitaries of the Army Are Present and Aid in the Ceremony—General Dick and Secretary Root Give Advice to the Graduates—Miles Is Cheered.

West Point, N. Y., June 12.—Standing on a platform in the open air on the parade grounds, President Roosevelt today presented the diplomas to the graduates of West Point Military Academy, thus completing the centennial celebration.

It was expected the President would make a few remarks, but he simply shook hands with each cadet. On the platform besides the President were General Horace Porter, General Miles, Secretary Root, Secretary Moody, Postmaster General Payne, the Chinese Minister, Wu Ting-fang; Senator Pettus of Alabama, Senator Quarles of Wisconsin, Governor Odell, the Italian Ambassador, Mr. Des Planches; Generals Corbin, Young, Schofield, McCook, Brooke, the Rt. Rev. Dr. Conaty, the Academic board of the academy, Chekib Bey, and Congressman Dick of Ohio.

The audience, comprising women in fashionable summer costume and the entire cadet corps and several hundred visitors, occupied chairs on the lawn. The clear sky and beautiful scenery about West Point gave the exercises a picturesque setting.

The speakers were General Dick for the Board of Visitors, Secretary Root for the government, and General Miles for the army. General Dick said in part, after giving advice to the cadets:

"The wars conducted by the United States never have been for conquest. Cuba is now a sister republic, and Porto Rico has more freedom and contentment than ever. The war with Spain was unavoidable, and we came into the possession of the Philippines as a result. Our authority there must be as absolute as our responsibility. That we will succeed gloriously in the work we have taken up in the Philippines the world now knows."

Secretary Root said it was a fundamental principle that the military branch of the government should be subject to the control of the civil. He told the cadets to bear in mind that their education was not by any means complete, and that they could go on learning to be good soldiers until they retired, if they were lucky enough to live that long. The regular army in time of war, he said, was a nucleus of a greater organization including the militia and national guard, and he advised the cadets to get the good will of these bodies and of citizens interested in the army.

The two most talked of incidents of the celebration are the speech of General Horace Porter, which made a deep impression, and the defense of the army in different speeches. General Miles' remarks today were chiefly those of an older to younger officers and referred almost wholly to the business of war. He said there were supreme moments in the life of a soldier, when an officer knows he is doing just what the enemy thinks he is not and when he feels one more victory has been added to American glory. General Miles was loudly cheered and applauded when he arose to speak.

TO TEACH FIVE NEW DANCES.

Masters of the Dancing Association Meet at Milwaukee and Decide on Features for Next Season.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 12.—[Special.]—The Committee on Works of the Masters of Dancing association reported five new dances for adoption by the association, but after a long discussion it was decided not to adopt any of them formally. Informally, however, they were approved.

The dances which were informally approved are the "Lyric," by H. L. Walker of Buffalo, N. Y., a dance after the Polka order; the "Pompador," by Isadore Sampson of Lynn, Mass., a schottische; the "Delmar," by E. B. Gaynor of Chicago; a combination of the redowa and the two-step; "The Sterling," by Austin McFadden, a complicated dance combining the minuet, gavotte, and waltz steps, with music by Duse, New York; and the "Eros," or "Cupid dance," by Isadore Sampson, which is after the minuet style, but danced to redowa music.

All of these will be taught by the dancing masters this season, and a goodly share of popularity is prophesied for them, though it is not thought that any of them will achieve the vogue of the two-step or waltz.
